NARROW ESCAPE—A private twin-engine airplane crashed amid normally crowded bicycle racks at an elementary school near Dallas' Love Field Wednesday killing seven persons. A major disaster was narrowly averted when children were dismissed from school twenty minutes early because of a faculty meeting. Normally the area would have been crowded with school children. John Heimburger, 11, a sixth-grade student at the school, was practicing football on the school grounds near the crash site. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Poughkeepsie Escape Triggers Wide Manhunt

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.
Squads of police, many especially armed for the occasion, today pressed one of the greatest manhunts ever directed in the Mid-Hudson Valley in search of three prisoners who escaped from the Dutchess County jail early this morning.

One of the escapees was awaiting trial on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of a retired New York City policeman. The other two were held on grand larceny or burglary charges.

Bloodhounds Join Hunt
Bloodhounds from the State Police headquarters in Hawthorne were taking part in the search. The trio, at least one of them considered dangerous, sawed their way out of their cells to escape from the jail on North Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie.

An inquiry this morning soon after the jail break. Staff members on duty at the time were interrogated.

Trio Identified
Richard Kent, 25-year-old self-employed mechanic, of 107 Albany Avenue, Poughkeepsie, 5 feet, 10 inches tall weighing 170 pounds; brown hair, hazel eyes. He was awaiting trial on a charge of first degree murder.

Edward Whitley, 21, whose last known address was 581 Main Street, Poughkeepsie, light hair, 5 feet, 9 inches tall, weighing 134 pounds, blue eyes. He was held for trial on grand larceny first degree.

Joseph J. Lelak, 26, of 155 West 22nd Street, New York City, brown hair and eyes, 6 feet, 2 1/2 inches tall, weighing 150 pounds.

The men are believed to have made a getaway in a 1961 Chevrolet gold painted car, which was stolen from the IBM lot on High Street not far from the jail. Earlier reports indicated the getaway car might have been a 1967 tan station wagon reported stolen from the lot at Aloy's Restaurant on nearby Garden Street.

Deputy Sheriff Albert Traver said the latter vehicle had been recovered.

Seen Before Midnight
The denim-clad men were last seen in their cells on the second floor of the jail just before midnight, the sheriff's office said. The escape was not discovered until 4:11 a. m., although it is believed the jail break occurred about 3 a. m. and the men had more than an hour to flee.

Kent was arrested by state troopers and city police on June 27, two days after the body of Joseph Murphy, 74, a retired New York City policeman, was found dead in his home where he lived alone on Clinton Corners Road near the hamlet of Salt Point.

Authorities said they found several stab wounds in Murphy's back.

Investigation was underway today to determine how the trio obtained a saw or saw blades which they used to cut the bars of their cells. Once out of their cells, they sawed through tier bars and back bars and made their way to a second floor conference room.

A window was removed and the bars were cut, opening the final obstacle to freedom.

Bed sheets, knotted together provided an improvised rope for the prisoners to slide to the ground.

Available Men Summoned

Sheriff Quinlan was notified immediately after the jail break was discovered. He hurried from his home to office and took charge of the search. All available deputy sheriffs were ordered on duty to set up roadblocks throughout the area.

State troopers from substations at Fishkill, Dover Plains, South Millbrook, Rhinebeck and other areas were notified and they maintained a close vigil on main highways and at the Claiming that, "We are losing registration every year in our upstate areas," John D. Deardourff, a political campaign specialist, told an audience of Republicans last night, "It's time that Republicans feel proud about being Republicans."

Deardourff, who helped both New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay and Governor Nelson Rockefeller win their election campaigns, delivered his remarks to a large audience attending a fund-raising dinner sponsored by the GOP City Committee at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Having been introduced by Mrs. Bernhardt S. Kramer, dinner chairman, Deardourff said that he was well aware "of the personal type of campaign" that had to be waged in a small town, but that there were, nevertheless, the "five C's of campaigning" that had to be followed in any political battle.

The first "C" was the candidate, and the most valuable attribute that a candidate could possess was his capacity for hard work.

Deardourff mentioned that another "C" was the campaign, the people who went out and got the voters interested in their candidate, and that "there is no more effective campaign technique in the world" than a "knock at the door" and the "personal involvement" exhibited in such action.

"Cause" was another of the "C's" explored by the speaker who claimed that there "must be issues" and that there must be a "specific concern for the people" and the problems they meet "in their everyday lives."

Both "communication" and "cash" were the other two "C's." Deardourff explained, saying that although the door-to-door campaigning was vital, the message must be gotten across in other ways "by radio, newspaper and billboards." The speaker stressed that "cold, hard cash" was a necessity and that "there is no substitute for it," even though he recognized that "money was a problem in Kingston."

"You don't get anything cheap in politics," he said. Kingston Attorney S. James Matthews served as master of ceremonies for the function and C. John Bechtold, Republican-Liberal candidate for mayor, along with Lewis J. Smith, Republican-Liberal nominee for alderman-at-large, delivered speeches at the event.

Deadline Tomorrow On UR Retail Sites

Less than 24 hours remain for retail businessmen to file application to build in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. As of today, there have been no applications.

Ward Tongue, acting executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, said this morning that the deadline on applications is tomorrow at 2 p. m. Preference has been given to former businessmen from Downtown who wish to relocate.

The original advertisement appeared in The Freeman Aug. 21 and included that area bounded by Broadway and Hasbrouck Avenue and Meadow Street and the Strand. The section is approximately six acres.

Another area, not advertised, but under discussion runs from St. Mary's Church to Meadow Street. This section is earmarked for private multiple dwellings. Bids are expected to be advertised for that section upon the completion of acquisition, clearance and site work, hopefully within the next few months.

If no bids are received by 2 p. m. tomorrow at the urban renewal office, 436 Broadway, it is expected the agency will re-advertise. A spokesman for the agency said today that several large contractors, some from out-of-state, are interested in developing Broadway East.

Former businessmen have been given every incentive to relocate in Broadway East. In addition to first preference extended to them by the urban renewal agency, they have been assured by the Small Business Administration in Washington that there will be no dollar limit on loans for the purpose of rebuilding in an urban renewal area.

The loans are for up to 20 years at three per cent interest. In addition, a $50,000 limit has been set on rehabilitation of a business in an urban renewal area. This would apply mainly to the Uptown Project but there are several businesses Downtown that would be eligible under the latter program.

Tongue said today that there is a good possibility that some bids will be received by tomorrow's deadline. He explained that a submission of a bid is not a simple process. First, an applicant must submit a $1,000 bond of good faith. He then must give a detailed statement of background, experience, and financial stability.

In addition, the applicant must submit a detailed construction plan drawn up by a licensed architect or engineer which should give site, landscaping information and the type of exterior building materials to be used.

All this must conform with urban renewal specifications and regulations.

MIG Swarms Give Battle To U. S. Planes In North

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes fought nine air battles with swarms of MIG fighters over North Vietnam Wednesday, while the ground war generally slackened and the embattled U.S. Marine post at Con Thien had the lightest day of its month-long artillery siege.

Weekly casualty figures released by the U.S. Command today reflected a lull in the ground war. Last week the United States lost 128 killed and 1,434 wounded, well below the weekly average. Communist losses reported by the U.S. Command for the week were 1,134 dead, also below average.

Most at Con Thien
Most of the American casualties were among the Marines holding positions in the Con Thien area, 2 1/2 miles below the DMZ, against a possible invasion of South Vietnam's northern provinces by 35,000 North Vietnamese troops massed in and near the buffer zone.

Clearing skies enabled American pilots to fly 159 combat missions Wednesday in making a near-maximum effort over the North for the second straight day. The Americans ran into fierce antiaircraft fire and nearly every operational jet the Reds could put in the sky.

Although there were nine dog fights with the MIGs and MIG21s, no planes were reported damaged or downed in these battles. The one loss listed by the U.S. Command was a Marine A4 Skyhawk jet hit by ground fire above the demilitarized zone, the 685th plane downed over North Vietnam. The pilot ejected over the Tonkin Gulf and was rescued.

Hit Supply Points
The American planes, trying to impair North Vietnam's ability to support its ground forces in the South, struck at communications links and supply points. Air Force planes raked Hanoi's rail lines to Red China and an ammunition dump near Hon Gai, the country's second port.

Navy planes from the carriers Constellation, Coral Sea and Intrepid pounded supply routes up and down the coast, and reported hitting a number of barges.

The Communist intercepting force included nearly all the planes the U.S. Command believes are at bases south of the Red Chinese border. U.S. officials say the rest of North Vietnam's air force, totaling 80 to 90 planes, is stationed in Red China and flown south to North Vietnamese bases for use as needed in the air war.

American fliers said the enemy planes darted from clouds, firing air-to-air missiles, then sped out of range with extra thrusts of speed from afterburners. The U.S. pilots, who fired their own missiles, said the MIGs seemed to deliberately avoid long engagements.

Barrage Lessening
Communist fire on the fortress at Con Thien appeared to be falling off and only 103 rounds were reported Wednesday. Casualties there were listed as two dead and two wounded.

It appeared that Marine headquarters, sensitive to the mounting losses on the red-clay hills was de-emphasizing battle reports from the post, which took 1,000 mortar, rocket and artillery rounds Monday.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon also played down action there. The day's military communiqué omitted all mention of Con Thien and referred instead to "Marine Corps combat base complexes in northern Quang Tri Province."

But Marine gunners were still firing back more than 6,000 shells and tactical jets and high-altitude bombers poured in more. B52s Wednesday night and today flew four strikes in support of Con Thien, laying down 600,000 pounds of bombs in saturation patterns as close as two miles to Marine trenches.

Just two miles below Con Thien, a patrolling Marine company found a North Vietnamese platoon of about 25 men dug into bunkers prepared despite intensive Marine sweeps of the area. A sharp firefight flared and the Marines counted three dead and 15 wounded before the North Vietnamese pulled out, leaving behind two dead.

Communist gunners also dropped mortar shells on American and South Vietnamese camps up and down the country. Four scattered "Green Beret" camps manned by American Special Forces troops were shelled, a handful of South Vietnamese militia posts in the Mekong delta were hit and units in a U.S. 25th Division sweep in the Ho Bo Woods 25 miles northwest of Saigon were shelled.

In Saigon, Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu agreed to discuss the demands of 1,000 Buddhist monks and nuns who congregated in front of Independence Palace, which houses his office.

Thieu, a Roman Catholic, had previously ignored requests by the Buddhists, members of a militant anti-government group, for a meeting. They are protesting the government's acceptance of a new Buddhist charter that recognizes a moderate sect as the official Buddhist church of South Vietnam.

The demonstration was considered the biggest show of strength by the militant Buddhists in more than a year.

Vandals Could Force Shift on Cops' Residency Law

By HUGH D. REYNOLDS

Nights in Kingston may soon belong to the vandals. Witness the recent outbreak of "boyish pranks" that saw 11 cars wrecked, after emergency brakes were released and they rolled down hills; four young trees destroyed on Main Street; and last month an estimated 50 windshields broken.

And what can the police department do about it? Right now, it looks like precious little. Apparently, the vandals are well aware of just how short-staffed the Kingston Police Department really is.

Chief Robert F. Murphy has carried on an intensive recruitment campaign for some time but returns have been disappointing. At present, the department has 58 officers, including five probationary officers.

he needs a minimum of 61 full-time men.

Chief Murphy says one of his main recruiting problems is that all police officers must live within city limits when granted permanent appointment. "If I could get men from outside the city, my recruiting problems would be solved," the chief said recently.

A resolution calling for the dropping of the residency requirement is currently in the hands of the Common Council Laws and Rules Committee. The committee will study the resolution late this week and decide whether or not to pass it on to the council for a vote.

The council meets for the last time before election Oct. 3, next Tuesday.

Alderman Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) told The Freeman today that he expects a floor vote on the measure

Tuesday. Norton said he is in favor of out-of-city policemen "if they're needed" but would like to see recruitment limited to Ulster County.

There are various pros and cons to the measure. Some opponents maintain that all police officers should come from Kingston since a resident supposedly has a greater stake in his city than a non-resident. Some people don't like the idea of using city money to pay out-of-town employees.

Other opponents of out-of-town policemen see a force, ultimately, comprised entirely of non-residents.

Some of the arguments against non-resident policemen are well taken but one point can't be argued. Kingston needs more cops, and fast.

Chief Murphy has juggled his meager force to place more men on duty at night and weekends, but this is, at best, a stop-gap measure.

Said Chief Murphy in a Freeman interview, "There's also another factor that many people tend to overlook. Why can't we get enough policemen from Kingston? Why are we forced to even consider non-residents?"

"There's a lot of reasons. For one thing, nowadays, $3,100 a year isn't much for a starting salary. Even the salary of $6,500 isn't much when one considers the fast rising cost of living. But low money and high hours aren't the only factors."

Let's face it, being a cop in Kingston, or any city, isn't the job it used to be. In days gone by, law enforcement was an honorable career. A policeman was a trusted, highly respected member of the community. How many men can remember being asked as a child, "What are you going to be when you grow up, a cop or a fireman?"

"Such is not the case today. Authority, and the policeman represents authority, is often flaunted. And some enforcement authorities believe the criminal has an even better chance of getting away with what recent Supreme Court rulings," the chief concluded.

As Police Chief John E. Tierney of Newburgh put it, "I've been a cop for 38 years, but with these new rulings, I'm going to have to learn all over again."

Chief Tierney gave The Freeman a rundown of his department. Newburgh has about the same population as Kingston, 28,000 but has only 65 miles of city streets. Kingston has slightly over 91 miles of streets.

Policemen in Newburgh start at $5,500, go to $9,900 the second year, $6,300 the third, skip the fourth in terms of a raise and earn $6,500 the fifth year. They wait five years for another $200 raise.

Kingston's salary scale is similar, beginning at $5,100 and going to $6,300 after five years. Tops for Kingston after 10 years is $6,500.

Newburgh now has 64 full-time officers, six short of what Chief Tierney considers a full force. The Hill City has nine patrol cars, two of which are unmarked. Kingston has seven patrol cars, three unmarked.

A sergeant on the Newburgh force starts at $7,500 per year. His Kingston counterpart gets $7,200. A Newburgh lieutenant earns a starting salary of $8,200. Kingston gets $7,900.

Newburgh officers are given $150 per year for uniform allowances while Kingston police receive only $75. Both forces provide weapons for officers.

On the surface, the two departments look similar but Newburgh's pay scale is from last year. Pay raises are in the offing.

Various proposals have been reported to The Freeman. One plan has the police and firemen going for a flat $1,300 across the board pay hike. Another has a pay hike of 7 1/2 per cent for all city employees. The third proposal is for a 10 per cent raise for police and firemen and around a five per cent hike for other city employees.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan has offered Kingston police and firemen an across-the-board $300 raise beginning in January.

The Common Council will vote on the residency law Tuesday night. It would appear the eldermen have little choice in the wake of recent, rising vandalism. The alternative is a naked city where shattered glass, broken trees and wrecked cars may well become the rule.

The Dutchess County jail personnel have been involved in grand jury investigations and inquiries conducted by the Board of Supervisors, after a Middletown roofer broke out of jail twice within a few months in 1962.

Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan and representatives of the district attorney's office launched an inquiry this morning soon after the jail break. Staff members on duty at the time were interrogated.

Vandals Could Force Shift on Cops' Residency Law

By HUGH D. REYNOLDS

Nights in Kingston may soon belong to the vandals. Witness the recent outbreak of "boyish pranks" that saw 11 cars wrecked after emergency brakes were released and they rolled down hills; four young trees destroyed on Main Street; and last month an estimated 50 windshields broken.

And what can the police department do about it? Right now, it looks like precious little. Apparently, the vandals are well aware of just how short-staffed the Kingston Police Department really is.

Chief Robert F. Murphy has carried on an intensive recruitment campaign for some time but returns have been disappointing. At present, the department has 58 officers, including five probationary officers. Chief Murphy estimates he needs a minimum of 61 full-time men.

Chief Murphy says one of his main recruiting problems is that all police officers must live within city limits when granted permanent appointment. "If I could get men from outside the city, my recruiting problems would be solved," the chief said recently.

A resolution calling for the dropping of the residency requirement is currently in the hands of the Common Council Laws and Rules Committee. The committee will study the resolution late this week and decide whether or not to pass it on to the council for a vote. The council meets for the last time before election Oct. 3, next Tuesday.

Alderman Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) told The Freeman today that he expects a floor vote on the measure

Tuesday. Norton said he is in favor of out-of-city policemen "if they're needed" but would like to see recruitment limited to Ulster County.

There are various pros and cons to the measure. Some opponents maintain that all police officers should come from Kingston since a resident supposedly has a greater stake in his city than a non-resident. Some people don't like the idea of using city money to pay out-of-town employees.

Other opponents of out-of-town policemen see a force, ultimately, comprised entirely of non-residents. Some of the arguments against non-resident policemen are well taken but one point can't be argued. Kingston needs more cops, and fast.

Chief Murphy has juggled his meager force to place more men on duty at night and weekends, but this is, at best, a stop-gap measure.

Said Chief Murphy in a Freeman interview, "There's also another factor that many people tend to overlook. Why can't we get enough policemen from Kingston? Why are we forced to even consider non-residents?"

"There's a lot of reasons. For one thing, nowadays, $5,100 a year isn't much for a starting salary. Even the salary of $6,500 isn't much when one considers the fast rising cost of living. But low money and high hours aren't the only factors."

Let's face it, being a cop in Kingston, or any city, isn't the job it used to be. In days gone by, law enforcement was an honorable career. A policeman was a trusted, highly respected member of the community. How many men can remember being asked as a child, "What are you

"Such is not the case today. Authority, and the policeman represents authority, is often flaunted. And some enforcement authorities believe the criminal has an even better chance of getting away with what recent Supreme Court rulings," the chief concluded.

As Police Chief John E. Tierney of Newburgh put it, "I've been a cop for 38 years, but with these new rulings, I'm going to have to learn all over again."

Chief Tierney gave The Freeman a rundown of his department. Newburgh has about the same population as Kingston, 28,000 but has only 65 miles of city streets. Kingston has slightly over 91 miles of streets.

Policemen in Newburgh start at $5,500, go to $5,900 the second year, $6,300 the third, skip the fourth in terms of a raise and earn $6,500 the fifth year. They wait five years for another $200 raise.

Kingston's salary scale is similar, beginning at $5,100 and going to $6,300 after five years. Tops for Kingston after 10 years is $6,500.

Newburgh now has 64 full-time officers, six short of what Chief Tierney considers a full force. The Hill City has nine patrol cars, two of which are unmarked. Kingston has seven patrol cars, three unmarked.

A sergeant on the Newburgh force starts at $7,500 per year. His Kingston counterpart gets $7,200. A Newburgh lieutenant earns a starting salary of $8,200. Kingston gets $7,900. Newburgh officers are given $150 per year for uniform allowances while Kingston police receive only $75. Both forces provide weapons for officers.

On the surface, the two departments look similar but

Various proposals have been reported to The Freeman. One plan has the police and firemen going for a flat $1,300 across the board pay hike. Another has a pay hike of 7½ per cent for all city employees. The third proposal is for a 10 per cent raise for police and firemen and around a five per cent hike for other city employees.

Mayor Raymond W. Garaghan has offered Kingston police and firemen an across-the-board $300 raise beginning in January.

The Common Council will vote on the residency law Tuesday night. It would appear the eldermen have little choice in the wake of recent, rising vandalism. The alternative is a naked city where shattered glass, broken trees and wrecked cars may well become the rule.

RV MIDDLE SCHOOL — Satisfactory progress has been reported on construction of the new Rondout Valley Middle School in Kyserike. The school is scheduled for opening in September of 1968. Percy Green, clerk of the Board, notes that the high school addition is now completely enclosed and that work on the school road will start soon.

Behind Violence Outbreaks

No Evidence of Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators, quietly at work in cities across the nation, have found no evidence of a national conspiracy behind outbreaks of violence—but believe there is “a loose linkage” among militant Negro leaders. That preliminary indication is in line with the report of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to President Johnson’s Commission on Civil Disorders.

Much Work Ahead
Senate sources disclosing it said there are weeks, perhaps months of investigation ahead before any report will be ready on the inquiry.
Hoover appeared before the President’s anti-riot commission Aug. 1 and said that on the basis of his knowledge of 52 riots in the past three years, he found no indications of a conspiracy. But he did say there were indications outside agitators were involved in some of these disturbances.
David Ginsburg, executive director of the commission, said after the FBI chief’s appearance that the outside agitation was not something to which Hoover “gave a great deal of weight or with which he was greatly concerned.”
As the Senate investigators worked, word came Wednesday from Philadelphia of an alleged plot to start a race riot there this summer which, authorities said, involved a plan to poison hundreds of Philadelphia policemen.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter, announcing an arrest in the case, said the plot was the work of members of the Revolutionary Action Movement—RAM—a Negro extremist group. Specter said his own life and those of the mayor and police chief “were to be taken.”
RAM members previously have been connected with a conspiracy to kill moderate Negro civil rights leaders and with a plan to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other American monuments.

The Senate, assigning its permanent subcommittee on investigations to undertake an inquiry into racial riots in U.S. cities, set next Monday as the deadline for an interim report. There will be a report of sorts, but it will contain no findings, sources said. Instead, it will cover the steps taken to launch the investigation.

Subcommittee investigators have compiled a list of 137 cities hit by racial outbreaks. The investigation itself will cover 60 to 75 of them.

Importer Answers Ad Asking LBJ to Step Down

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York importer took a half-page advertisement in the New York Times today to reply to a California man’s advertisement Tuesday asking President Johnson not to seek renomination.
Allan Gerdau, president of the Tontine Emporium which imports art works and antiques, said in the ad: “We are winning on the battlefield, but you help them (our opponents) to believe that they are winning the battle of dividing us on the home front.”
His ad was entitled “A reply to Mr. Roth’s open letter to the President of the United States,” which was paid for by Harry Roth, president of the clothing firms of Louis Roth & Co. of Los Angeles and B. Kuppenheimer & Co. of Chicago.
Roth called Tuesday for the President not to try for renomination because “the hard truth is that there is no possible way that a man who has been forced to shoulder the blame for the whole mess can gracefully (for himself and country) make peace in Vietnam.”

He offered to contribute $100,000 to the campaign of anyone picked by Johnson to take his place. Roth suggested Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., as a possible candidate.

Gets Degree

Gabe Buis, husband of a former Kingston resident, Hilde Flamm Buis, received his PhD in electronics at the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa. Dr. Buis has accepted a position with TBW Space Aircraft and Defense at Los Angeles, Calif.
Mrs. Buis is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Flamm, a former resident of Hurley Avenue, now residing in San Jose, Calif.

Woodstock JOP Is Elected to State Committee

Rudolf C. Baumgarten, Woodstock justice of the peace for the past eight years, has been elected to the Executive Committee of the New York State Magistrates Association. The State Association has 1,800 members. Baumgarten is past president of the Ulster County Magistrates Association.
In a recent interview, Justice Baumgarten said, “membership in the State Association has been very valuable to me. I am kept up to date on legal and procedural matters and also have an opportunity to exchange views with other justices.”
Election to the executive committee took place at the annual meeting of the New York State Magistrates Association, held Sept. 10-13, at the Hotel Grant in Accord.

Passage of the Taylor Bill by the New York State Legislature was noted and its implications discussed. This bill authorizes negotiations between governmental institutions and their employees and the board resolved to take the necessary steps to recognize the Rondout Valley Teachers Association as a bargaining unit in the district. It was further decided to set a date for the board to review a set of by-laws developed for use in this district, with Dec. 15 as the target date for approval of these by-laws.

The favorable results of the 1967 Regents examinations were noted. By unanimous decision, the board elected to provide free tickets to school activities for district residents 65 years of age and over. It was also voted to express the board’s appreciation to 35 staff members with perfect attendance during the 1966-67 school year.
Oaths affirming their support of the United States and the New York State Constitutions, as required by State law, were signed by all board members and notarized by Harold Rich. The appointment of Philip Davis to a three-year term on the Rondout Valley Scholarship Board was approved.
It was reported that the department of Public Works forwarded an offer to the Central School District for the land to be acquired for the Rosendale Flood Control Project. This matter was tabled, pending further investigation.
The board discussed and then approved the following equipment bids:
Gym Equipment (Earl A. Fisher Co.)—$4,895; Venetian Blinds (Boulevard Decorators)—$3,110; Stage Draperies (T. S. Green)—$2,779; Kitchen Equipment (Hassenfratz Equipment)—$54,066; Metal Lockers (Republic Steel)—$22,392.
A total of eight half-day sessions for important in-service programs and parent conferences was requested and approved. Curriculum work sessions are especially necessary this year, as the schools reorganize to the 4-4-4 plan from the present K-6, 7-12 set-up. Oil Heat Costs Less and Does More

HUDSON VALLEY OIL HEAT COUNCIL, INC.
Serving Dutchess, Ulster, Orange and Sullivan Counties.

You can slice up to $1000⁰⁰ off the price of your new house.
Do you know how?
Buy a house that's heated by Oil. It's that simple.

Buying a home that's heated by OIL is like putting money in the bank every year. Facts and figures show that OIL HEAT will save many home owners over $1,000 in just a few years and over the length of a 25-yr. mortgage could easily run from $7,000 to $10,000. You save money and you get the best heating fuel there is—fuel that delivers dependable, clean, healthy heat. What's more, you get all the hot water your family needs. That's because Oil produces hot water faster than your family can use it. In short, OIL HEAT gives you the best for less. Don't you think it's worth a telephone call to your neighborhood Oil Dealer for all the facts?

More Money Necessary For Slum Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's going to take a lot more investment than the $1 billion the life insurance industry has pledged for slum development if the fledgling rent supplement program is to grow into a major operation to provide poor people with decent housing.

$32-Million Program

The $32 million-a-year program now authorized could soak up half the $1 billion in promised mortgage money, says Philip J. Maloney, deputy commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration.

In announcing the investment plan Sept. 13, insurance industry spokesmen said priority would be given to rent supplement projects.

The Senate voted last week to give the administration the additional $40 million it asked which would make $72 million available each year to pay rent supplements.

But an earlier House bill provided no new funds. The matter now goes to a conference committee.

Maloney said in response to a reporter's inquiry that expansion of the program would create a need for much more private mortgage money. Without setting a figure, he said if the money were not forthcoming, the program again could be in trouble.

Before the life insurance money was pledged, the program was not doing well. Federal officials said about two-thirds of the sponsors of projects couldn't

Will Continue Newspaper Pact Talks in Utica

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Further negotiations were set today between officials of the Utica Observer-Dispatch Inc. and the American Newspaper Guild, one of four unions on strike against the newspaper publishing company.

George Roewer, a federal mediator, requested the talks after a session Monday between the guild and the company was broken off following what publisher Herman Moecker termed an "impasse." The discussion centered on non-economic issues.

The company's morning Press and afternoon and Sunday Observer-Dispatch halted publication July 15, when printing pressmen walked off the job. The pressmen later were joined in the strike by the guild, steno-typist and photograver unions. Printers have observed the picket lines.

Non-economic issues have been settled with all of the unions except the guild. Agreement with the guild on the non-economic provisions is considered a prelude to wage discussions with all five unions.

Car Scratched, Also Painted

An isolated incidence of vandalism was reported to city police early this morning, officials disclosed.

Police said that William Lawrence of 25 Johnson Avenue complained to authorities that his auto, parked on Cornell Street near the Mid-City Lanes, had its entire left side scratched and dubbed with white paint.

Police said they are investigating the incident.

Way Out Dropouts

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP) — Saul Alinsky, head of Industrial Areas Foundation, says that hippies are pathetic dropouts at all levels of society.

Alinsky, speaking at Alfred University Wednesday in this Allegany County community, said hippies "have nothing to offer, represent no cause and have no influence."

Alinsky formed the Chicago-based Industrial Areas Foundation to help impoverished neighborhoods help themselves. He spoke at the first of a series of Alfred's 1967 cultural programs.

Weigh Inflation vs Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The situation are such government economists as Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. His agency keeps tabs on prices and Wednesday reported another rise of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs.

While the bureau is scrupulous in reporting the economic facts and staying out of political arguments, officials in the past have tended to play down price hikes as possibly temporary fluctuations rather than warning signs of inflation.

But the emphasis this time was on the likelihood of further increases in both retail and wholesale prices, and Ross even allowed himself to be drawn into giving a plug for Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Public employees can strike without penalty in cases of extreme provocation under the Taylor Law, the hearing also disclosed. The term, extreme provocation, however, will have to be defined as cases develop.

State, County and Municipal under the new law, Helsby said.

Employees. A board spokesman said later that troopers were free to apply for membership in any union.

Robert D. Helsby, chairman of the State Public Employment Relations Board, replied in the affirmative when asked whether State Police could join Council 50, a federation of the AFL-CIO.

More Money Necessary For Slum Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's getting private financing. The government pumped in federal funds and opposition grew in Congress.

The Senate Appropriations Committee proposed that if a rent supplement project were financed with federal funds the sponsor would have to put up five per cent of the project cost. Most sponsors are nonprofit groups such as churches and labor unions.

$32-Million Program

The $32 million-a-year program now authorized could soak up half the $1 billion in promised mortgage money, says Philip J. Maloney, deputy commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration.

In announcing the investment plan Sept. 13, insurance industry spokesmen said priority would be given to rent supplement projects.

The Senate voted last week to give the administration the additional $40 million it asked which would make $72 million available each year to pay rent supplements.

But an earlier House bill provided no new funds. The matter now goes to a conference committee.

Maloney said in response to a reporter's inquiry that expansion of the program would create a need for much more private mortgage money. Without setting a figure, he said if the money were not forthcoming, the program again could be in trouble.

Will Continue Newspaper Pact Talks in Utica

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Further negotiations were set today between officials of the Utica Observer-Dispatch Inc. and the American Newspaper Guild, one of four unions on strike against the newspaper publishing company.

George Roewer, a federal mediator, requested the talks after a session Monday between the guild and the company was broken off following what publisher Herman Moecker termed an "impasse." The discussion centered on non-economic issues.

The company's morning Press and afternoon and Sunday Observer-Dispatch halted publication July 15, when printing pressmen walked off the job. The pressmen later were joined in the strike by the guild, steno-typist and photengraver unions. Printers have observed the picket lines.

Non-economic issues have been settled with all of the unions except the guild. Agreement with the guild on the non-economic provisions is considered a prelude to wage discussions with all five unions.

Car Scratched, Also Painted

An isolated incidence of vandalism was reported to city police early this morning, officials disclosed.

Police said that William Lawrence of 25 Johnson Avenue complained to authorities that his auto, parked on Cornell Street near the Mid-City Lanes, had its entire left side scratched and dubbed with white paint.

Police said they are investigating the incident.

Way Out Dropouts

ALFRED, N.Y. (AP) — Saul Alinsky, head of Industrial Areas Foundation, says that hippies are pathetic dropouts at all levels of society.

Alinsky, speaking at Alfred University Wednesday in this Allegany County community, said hippies "have nothing to offer, represent no cause and have no influence."

Alinsky formed the Chicago-based Industrial Areas Foundation to help impoverished neighborhoods help themselves. He spoke at the first of a series of Alfred's 1967 cultural programs.

Weigh Inflation vs Tax Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The situation are such government have tended to play down price economists as Commission hiked as possibly temporary fluctuations rather than warning signs of inflation.

But the emphasis this time was on the likelihood of further increases in both retail and wholesale prices, and Ross even allowed himself to be drawn into giving a plug for Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

State Official Says Troopers May Join Union

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — State troopers, as public employees under the fair employment act, may join a labor union if they wish to, a state official says.

The opinion regarding state troopers came at a hearing Wednesday where rules governing implementation of the state's new Public Employees Fair Employment Act were discussed.

The new fair employment act, which became effective Sept. 1 replacing the former Condon-Waldin Act, permits public employees for the first time to join

Auto on Way Out

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The automobile is on the way out, the Canadian Good Roads Association says.

Dr. Gordon Schrum, co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro Authority, predicted the automobile would disappear before the end of the 21st century.

He said the main reason would be a shortage of gas and oil. Besides, he said, everyone will be living in urban areas with moving sidewalks where cars won't be needed.

Blame Insecticide For Tijuana Toll

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Authorities said today they traced a deadly insecticide blamed for Tijuana's mass poisoning to a warehouse from which bakery products were distributed.

Fifty bakeries were padlocked and posted with guards, and 35 persons linked to the supplier and bakeries were held for questioning. No charges were filed.

By the thousands Tijuana residents trooped across the U.S. border to San Ysidro, Calif., for bread.

Hector Valdivia, deputy district attorney, said the insecticide parathion was found stored in the warehouse near flour, sugar and possibly other ingredients used in foods. He refused to identify the warehouse.

Valdivia said, "Until we get test results from Sacramento, we won't know for sure what food or ingredient was poisoned."

In Sacramento, Calif., chemists of the California Department of Agriculture were examining samples of flour, bread and sugar flown from Tijuana. Valdivia told a news conference Wednesday that 16 died from poisoning since Sunday. About 25 persons were hospitalized, and an estimated 300 others were released from hospitals and clinics after treatment.

Only two or three new cases of sickness were reported Wednesday, authorities said. The dead were all believed to be children under 10.

Ulster Planning Board

The Ulster County Planning Board, which was created by the Board of Supervisors to establish county-wide planning in such fields as zoning, parks, recreation, transportation, land use and economic development on the local level, held a conference Saturday for the purpose of developing a program to meet future needs of the county. Among the 100 in attendance were three elected officials which included a lone member of the board of supervisors. Some 1,600 invitations had been sent out to service organizations and elected officials.

Here was an opportunity for supervisors and other citizens interested in the future progress of the county to air their problems and express their views and ideas thereby bringing into focus the desires of citizens of the community. This meagre manifestation of public interest in the future of the community points up the need for a change in attitudes. Without vigor and imagination upon the part of officials and community leaders, planning objectives can never be realized.

If county planning is to be a practical pursuit, it must have the wholehearted support of both public and private interests. In order to be successful, the needs and requirements of the people must be made known. And there is a compelling responsibility placed upon our public officials to lead the way.

Although the wisdom and benefits of future planning are generally acknowledged, it still is difficult to enlist local residents in this vital community effort.

It is hoped that when called upon the county's service organizations will stimulate community interest and political action in developing strong local planning and zoning.

Strikes Against Public

Strikes or threats of strikes against the public interest go on unabated, and Washington couldn't be less interested in seeking a solution. Neither Congress nor the Johnson Administration lifted an eyebrow, let alone a finger, when the rash of teacher strikes broke out earlier this month, and a Presidential panel found an easy way out of avoiding a walkout by railroad unions by awarding them just about everything they asked for. The teachers are going back, or have gone back, on pretty much their own terms, and it goes without saying the rail workers will stay on their jobs.

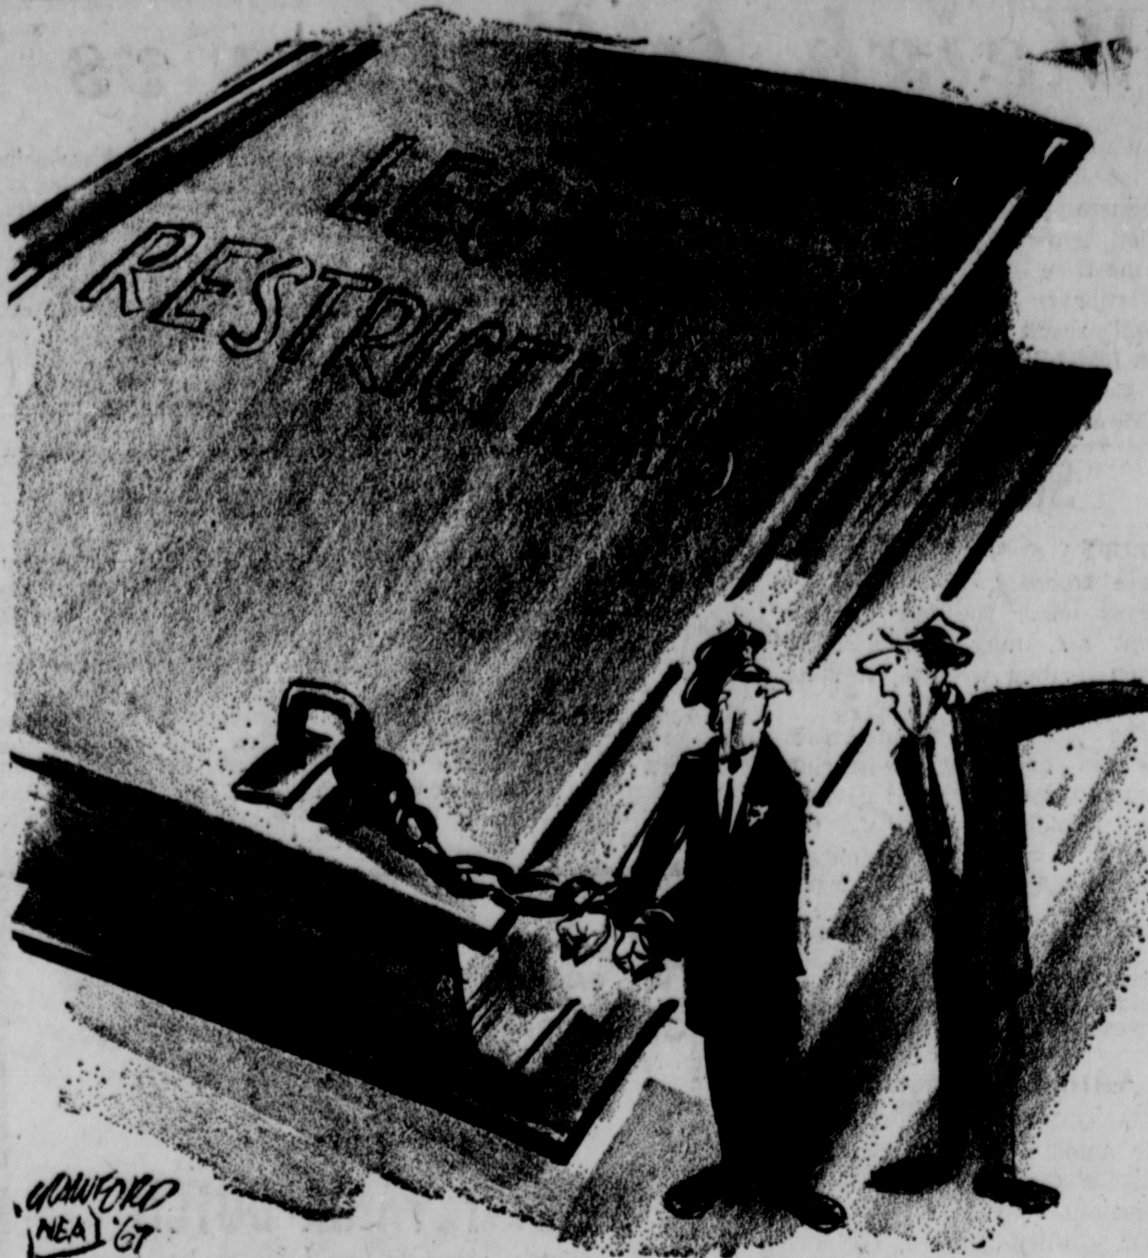

So Congress, President Johnson, and those committees that had to deal with the teachers will breathe a sign of relief. But for how long? The teachers and the railroad hands will be back when their next contract comes up for discussion. They'll be as demanding as ever, and once again they'll strike, or threaten to, regardless of how much the bumbling public gets hurt. There is still not even a hint that Washington plans to do anything to effectively outlaw such strikes. And even were laws promulgated, they'd have to have teeth, real teeth. The New York City teachers ignored a state law forbidding them to strike, and at this point they haven't even been made to pay fines automatically ordered by the law. This sort of defiance must be kept sight of if Congress and LBJ ever get around to doing their job.

Naturally, any law barring strikes that affect the public interest must protect the interests of the union members affected. Their side of any dispute must be given every consideration. The spirit of fair play must be evidenced for the unionists. In turn, they must be made to show fair play toward the public.

But there must be an end to the disregard for the disruption these strikes and threats are causing. The back-stiffening must start in Washington. When local committees that have to deal with teachers find some backing in a national sense, they should be more apt to be unyielding. And state legislators also backed up by strong impregnable federal laws will be more inclined to emulate them with state acts that won't be easy to get around. Perhaps, too, there will be more effort to enforce the laws at the local and state level, in New York for example, when they see the wind is blowing in the right direction from Washington.

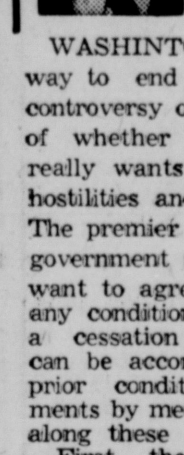

The Washington politicians, vote-hungry as they might be, cannot duck this issue any longer. It won't do to name allegedly impartial arbitration panels to get the problem out of their hair and to allow strikes such as the teachers, which, while each one is local, add up to a national problem.

Migrating birds flutter helplessly around the illuminated tower of New York's Empire State Building, until they drop from exhaustion. For the benefit of the southward bound birds, the floodlights atop the tower will be dimmed during fog, rain or low cloud cover during the next six weeks. The world's highest building is looking out for the birds.

"Don't Just Stand There, Break Up the Riots!"

David Lawrence Says Viet Peace Problem Needs Clarification

WASHINGTON—There is a way to end the prolonged controversy over the question of whether North Vietnam really wants to terminate hostilities and make peace. The premier of the Hanoi government says it does not want to agree in advance to any conditions of peace. But a cessation of the fighting can be accomplished without prior conditions or agreements by means of a proposal along these lines:

First, the United States government would announce that on a certain date—perhaps two weeks later—it would without any previous agreement initiate an armistice.

Second, the United States would declare publicly that the truce would last indefinitely but that if, after its start, any military movement were carried on by the North Vietnamese, American forces would instantly resume the fighting.

If the other side, however, respected the truce, the United States would endeavor through diplomatic channels to negotiate peace terms. This might take many months. The armistice in Korea was of similar nature, and no peace agreement was ever signed. But the peaceful status there has, for all practical purposes, been maintained since 1953.

The objection of the American government to the idea of a truce has been that the North Vietnamese could use the period—especially of protracted—toward to move additional supplies and troops into South Vietnam, to accumulate more arms and munitions in northern ports without fear of having them bombed, to repair highway and bridges, and to install new anti-aircraft defenses.

Spokesmen for the United States government have in the last few days made it clear that they do not favor a cessation unless there is an understanding in advance that there will be no influx of troops or supplies to the enemy while the bombing is stopped.

But since the United States would have stated clearly that the suggested armistice plan could not be used to permit the movement of men and supplies into South Vietnam or into the demilitarized zone on its northern border, no prior agreement or pledge by the North Vietnamese would be necessary.

If the Hanoi government decided to disregard the warning and the bombing was renewed, this would certainly remove one of the principal criticisms that have been made in recent months, both inside and outside of Washington—namely, that the American government has not made the proper effort to initiate peace negotiations.

Some members of Congress have been insisting that the United States has really not been trying to get peace, while there are others who feel the war should be prosecuted more forcefully. A few members are advocating the repeal of the joint resolution adopted in 1964 authorizing use of force in the Vietnam area.

Up to now, the United States has strived in various ways to get peace negotiations going. At the moment it is trying to persuade the United Nations to set up peace-making machinery to solve the Vietnam conflict. It has been repeatedly explained by officials here that as yet no signs are visible on the horizon indicating any interest on the part of the Hanoi government.

The assumption is that the government of Red China and the Soviet Union are not at all anxious to have the war in Vietnam ended except by a victory for the Communists. They seem confident America ultimately will tire of the struggle and abjectly withdraw thus impairing the influence of the United States in Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific.

The problem of peace in Vietnam needs clarification. If the North Vietnamese really want peace but do not wish to make any pledges in advance as to terms, they could honor the voluntary action of the United States in initiating an armistice. If, of course, they should choose to continue the fighting, the American government would then be free to resume military operations and carry on a long war of attrition or use maximum power to force the enemy to seek peace.

So far as world opinion is concerned, the United States would be in an advantageous position because, by sponsoring even what turned out to be a brief armistice, the American people would have convincingly demonstrated their willingness to make peace.

Conflict Over President's Powers in Foreign Affairs

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It seems simple and is anything but. Presidents from the beginning to Lyndon B. Johnson all knew it. Some found out the hard way. And there has been some tragedy in the process.

Deals with other nations were mostly by treaty 180 years ago when the Constitution makers were stitching the document together. Never imagining the problems to come, they gave foreign affairs a fast brush.

Almost all the Constitution says about the foreign field is in Article II: The president can make treaties with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, if two-thirds of the senators approve.

In short, the president can take the initiative in foreign affairs but the Senate can veto him. This was an invitation to conflict since presidents and the Senate are jealous of their powers. Conflict followed.

The oversimplified formula did not allow for the difficulty of getting a two-thirds Senate vote—particularly when the opposition party controls the Senate. There were no political parties in 1787. Nor was allowance made for such human factors as ill-will in wrecking a treaty. President Woodrow Wilson and Henry Cabot Lodge, hated each other.

Lodge was captain of the forces which killed Wilson's plea to the Senate to approve joining the League of Nations. History would have been different if Wilson had won.

Exactly what does "advice" mean? And when should a President ask the Senate for it: after negotiating a treaty down to the last detail or before he even starts on it, not knowing what details the other side wants?

George Washington, as first president, had to get the first answers. Naturally, he thought getting the Senate's advice on a treaty meant getting it before he made one. He was working on a treaty with the southern Indians.

He went before the full Senate and had Vice President John Adams read the main points. Outside, passing carriages made so much noise the senators could not hear Adams. He had to re-read.

Then the senators got into an argument among themselves over whether they should see all, or just some, of the documents. One of them finally suggested turning the whole business over to a committee.

Burned up, Washington stalked out, saying "this defeats every purpose of my coming here." One senator, burned up at Washington, wrote later that the President was trying to step on the senator's necks.

After that, presidents might talk with individual senators about a treaty-in-the-making but they finished their treaties before sending them to the Senate for "advice and consent" and the two-thirds vote.

Delay on Major Treaty

Just waiting for that two-thirds approval means delay on a major treaty. Wilson thought he could stir public opinion to pressure the Senate into approving the League. He barnstormed the country, made 37 speeches, and then physically collapsed, never fully to recover. And his fight was lost.

With all these two-thirds difficulties in mind presidents began finding shortcuts by making "executive agreements" with other nations. These did not need Senate approval, at least not all the time.

And they tried other things, like getting the Senate and the House to approve what they did by passing a resolution which only needed a majority vote.

This is how President John Tyler in 1845 and William McKinley in 1898 managed to get Texas and Hawaii annexed when they could not get a two-thirds Senate vote.

Right now there is a move afoot in the form of a resolution in the Senate, where a lot of the members are upset over Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war, to restrict his powers in foreign affairs. It's a half-baked move, since a resolution is not legally binding. But it could, if approved by the Senate, damage Johnson by undercutting his prestige and effectiveness with the rest of the world.

Drew Pearson Says Reagan Dons New Role

WASHINGTON—Ronald Reagan, governor of California and potential candidate for President, today (Sept. 28) returns to the campus of his alma mater, this time not to lead a student strike or to stroll with a coed and a blanket on his arm, but to dedicate a library.

This return to the haunts of his youth at Eureka College in Illinois highlights the remarkable turnaround of the man who has suddenly jumped from B-picture status in Hollywood to A-political status on the Presidential horizon. No candidate, no politician has changed more radically than the man elected governor partly by campaigning against student strikes at the University of California.

How radical is the change is best illustrated by the student strike which Reagan led at Eureka College. The governor tells about it in his book "Where's the Rest of Me?"

The students had demanded that Bert Wilson, president of Eureka, be fired; not unlike the manner in which California students demanded that their dean and president be fired. They presented a petition of the board of trustees, and when this was turned down they held a mass meeting and struck. Reagan was chosen to be chief speaker at the strike rally.

"They came to their feet with a roar," Reagan wrote later. "Hell, with two more lines I could have had them riding through every Middlesex village and farm."

Reagan was frank to the point of bringing blushes to some of the staid ladies who voted for him to be governor of California.

Kecking at Eureka
"Eureka had about 250 students," he wrote, "roughly 130 boys and 120 girls, enough to make any sex competition interesting."

"There was the custom of 'kecking,'" he went on. "Eureka was the only place I've known where you could walk down the street with your girl on one arm and your blanket on the other without starting a scandal. . . . The cemetery was a three-minute walk from the campus. Everyone had a favorite grave, usually with a large enough tombstone to provide a backrest for two and a sizable pool of shadow."

The governor of California expounds at some length on life both at Eureka and in Hollywood, and his prose will make interesting reading if he ever really runs for President.

He tells the story of a lady who asked John Barrymore if he thought Romeo and Juliet had engaged in intimacies. Barrymore, according to Reagan, replied: "Madame, in the Chicago company definitely."

Regarding sex, Reagan comments: "Like the old adage about enforced romance—when it's inevitable, relax and enjoy it."

Referring to Jane Russell who starred in "The Outlaw," he wrote: "The sheriff had found Billy the Kid with his girl. 'OK,' said Billy, as the mamamou figure of Jane Russell stood sideways between them. 'You stole my horse. I stole your girl.' The sheriff nodded. 'Sure,' he replied, 'tit for tat.'"

Reagan also cites chapter and verse regarding his joining various left wing groups and serving as a sponsor on committees backing Helen Gahagan Douglas when she ran against Richard Nixon for the Senate. Reagan was then a member of Americans for Democratic Action and was constantly referred to favorably by Peoples World, the left-wing newspaper which billed him as the star in the broadcast "Operation Terror," a series for "Mobilization for Democracy," labeled a Communist front by the House Un-American Activities committee.

In contrast, Reagan today serves as an adviser to the Young Americans for Freedom, the rightest of all right-wing youth groups, brands the graduated income tax as "Marxist" and referred to Sen. Tom Kuchel, the California Republican and Senate whip as a political "traitor."

Thus speaks the many-sided Ronald Reagan, the man who now returns to the haunts of his youth, a changed but not necessarily wiser man.

The Canal Vs the Road
Mossy Brook Road
High Falls, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman

I wish to alert your readers to a proposed county road in the Town of Rochester that represents the epitome in inadequate planning, ill-thought, and a rape of the meager treasury of Ulster County.

This road is sought by some of the town fathers of the Town of Rochester who, at a meeting held for interested citizens on September 20th, admitted candidly their only reason for advocating it is the fact the county would pay 100% of its costs. They stated also that the town rarely gets the opportunity to "latch onto" monies from the outside, and that they had better grab while the grabbing was good.

"The plans for the new road call for it to head westward beginning from the new bridge in Allgerville which crosses Rondout Creek, then following the old D & H Canal bed to the Peters Kill, then crossing the Peters Kill on a new bridge, traversing and practically obliterating the historic and beautiful Peter Davis Basin, continuing on through the basin another 500 feet or so, then finally turning "inland" and heading across farm fields to where it will intersect the present road which follows the course of the Peters Kill, a total distance of some 8,300 feet of new road."

Truly this is a "Road from Nowhere to Nowhere," as it duplicates and roughly parallels an existing scenic road. For reasons that mystified those who heard of the plans, the town fathers believe they can abandon portions of the existing road when the new one goes through. The reaction of residents and owners of vacant land along the present road to this concept of road abandonment is not known, but seemingly they are no longer entitled to a maintained road in the opinion of those governing the Town of Rochester.

The cost of land acquisition and road construction is estimated at $165,000, representing about 2 1/2% of the annual budget of Ulster County and, therefore, an item of sufficient magnitude that it should stand on its own merit in competition with other demands for funds.

What is the justification for this road? Has the town or the county made traffic counts and other studies to prove need? They admit they have not! Little wonder, for the traffic on the present road is incredibly light, and the release of such data would be ruinous to their cause. In the summer months traffic peaks up to about 150 cars/day on weekends, and to perhaps 70 cars/day during the week. After the summer season is over traffic drops to as low as 30 cars/day. One could fall asleep in the middle of the road with little fear of being run over. Ironically, the majority of traffic in the future would continue using the present road for access to the swimming holes and picnic spots along the Peters Kill, and traffic on the proposed road would approach zero.

For this we taxpayers shall pay $165,000? The real cause for alarm lies in the irreparable damage the proposed road will do to the canal. On September 16th a cavalcade of cars bearing members of the Ulster County Historical Society stopped at the Peter Davis Basin to admire its tranquil beauty and learn of its history. The basin marks one end of a section of the canal with water in it—nearly 5,000 feet long—still in wonderful condition after all these years, and the only such section left in the county. The only other similar stretch of canal with water is in Cuddebackville, 40 miles away. Both should be preserved as historical sites while yet there is time.

On September 17th the D&H Canal Historical Society held a color slide show of various points of interest along this canal, its members being especially concerned about this Allgerville section, holding as it does such excellent possibilities for permanent preservation and for public enjoyment by this and future generations.

How tragic indeed, to learn on the 20th of September that the Town of Rochester, merely because it wants to spend some outside monies, will destroy an area of beauty and an important part of local history and of our valley's heritage! I contend that there are more and better reasons for saving this section of the canal than there are for building a road that cannot be justified. If you agree, too, communicate your feelings to Franklin Kelder, Supervisor, Town Offices, Accord, N. Y., or to your own supervisor who will be voting on the appropriation for this monstrosity in the very near future.

Respectfully,

DONALD G. ROSS

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Received on interesting letter from a lady who lives just outside of Kingston. She writes that she has several old books which belonged to her grandmother. One is a Picturesque Ulster of the City of Kingston, Vol. 1. Another Picturesque Ulster is of the Village of Saugerties, Vol. 8. A third book is one called The Catskill Mountains, which was published by the Stamford Press, Inc., at Stamford, N. Y., in 1928. The local owner wonders about the value of these books, and if anyone would be interested in owning them.

Picturesque Ulster series is quite well known locally, and many families and booklovers have one or more of the set. They were authored by R. Lionel De Lisser, who was a graduate of The Royal Bavarian Academy of High Arts in Munich, Germany. Mr. De Lisser's first book was called Picturesque Hampshire, after the county by that name in Massachusetts. Later, in 1894, he published Picturesque Catskills in one volume. This interesting book contained, in addition to much history, more than 800 illustrations and scenes of Greene County, New York.

In 1896, Mr. De Lisser published the Picturesque Ulster series, which comprised three books on the City of Kingston and about a half dozen other books covering several towns in the County of Ulster.

In 1901, Mr. De Lisser received word from Edward W. Bok, editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, that he was awarded the first two prizes in their photographic competition contest. More than 28,000 photographs were received from amateur and professional photographers in all parts of the U. S. A.

Although R. Lionel De Lisser used only a horse, a buggy and a camera, he did more than anyone else to preserve our local history.

In 1905 he became ill, and on Sept. 16, 1907, Mr. De Lisser died in Munich, Bavaria.

Ulster Planning Board

The Ulster County Planning Board, which was created by the Board of Supervisors to establish county-wide planning in such fields as zoning, parks, recreation, transportation, land use and economic development on the local level, held a conference Saturday for the purpose of developing a program to meet future needs of the county. Among the 100 in attendance were three elected officials which included a lone member of the board of supervisors. Some 1,600 invitations had been sent out to service organizations and elected officials.

Here was an opportunity for supervisors and other citizens interested in the future progress of the county to air their problems and express their views and ideas thereby bringing into focus the desires of citizens of the community. This meagre manifestation of public interest in the future of the community points up the need for a change in attitudes. Without vigor and imagination upon the part of officials and community leaders, planning objectives can never be realized.

If county planning is to be a practical pursuit, it must have the wholehearted support of both public and private interests. In order to be successful, the needs and requirements of the people must be made known. And there is a compelling responsibility placed upon our public officials to lead the way.

Although the wisdom and benefits of future planning are generally acknowledged, it still is difficult to enlist local residents in this vital community effort.

It is hoped that when called upon the county's service organizations will stimulate community interest and political action in developing strong local planning and zoning.

Strikes Against Public

Strikes or threats of strikes against the public interest go on unabated, and Washington couldn't be less interested in seeking a solution. Neither Congress nor the Johnson Administration lifted an eyebrow, let alone a finger, when the rash of teacher strikes broke out earlier this month, and a Presidential panel found an easy way out of avoiding a walkout by railroad unions by awarding them just about everything they asked for. The teachers are going back, or have gone back, on pretty much their own terms, and it goes without saying the rail workers will stay on their jobs.

So Congress, President Johnson, and those committees that had to deal with the teachers will breathe a sign of relief. But for how long? The teachers and the railroad hands will be back when their next contract comes up for discussion. They'll be as demanding as ever, and once again they'll strike, or threaten to, regardless of how much the bystanding public gets hurt. There is still not even a hint that Washington plans to do anything to effectively outlaw such strikes. And even were laws promulgated, they'd have to have teeth, real teeth. The New York City teachers ignored a state law forbidding them to strike, and at this point they haven't even been made to pay fines automatically ordered by the law. This sort of defiance must be kept sight of if Congress and LBJ ever get around to doing their job.

Naturally, any law barring strikes that affect the public interest must protect the interests of the union members affected. Their side of any dispute must be given every consideration. The spirit of fair play must be evidenced for the unionists. In turn, they must be made to show fair play toward the public.

But there must be an end to the disregard for the disruption these strikes and threats are causing. The back-stiffening must start in Washington. When local committees that have to deal with teachers find some backing in a national sense, they should be more apt to be unyielding. And state legislators also backed up by strong impregnable federal laws will be more inclined to emulate them with state acts that won't be easy to get around. Perhaps, too, there will be more effort to enforce the laws at the local and state level, in New York for example, when they see the wind is blowing in the right direction from Washington.

The Washington politicians, vote-hungry as they might be, cannot duck this issue any longer. It won't do to name allegedly impartial arbitration panels to get the problem out of their hair and to allow strikes such as the teachers, which, while each one is local, add up to a national problem.

Migrating birds flutter helplessly around the illuminated tower of New York's Empire State Building, until they drop from exhaustion. For the benefit of the southward bound birds, the floodlights atop the tower will be dimmed during fog, rain or low cloud cover during the next six weeks. The world's highest building is looking out for the birds.

"Don't Just Stand There, Break Up the Riots!"

David Lawrence Says Viet Peace Problem Needs Clarification

WASHINGTON—There is a way to end the prolonged controversy over the question of whether North Vietnam really wants to terminate hostilities and make peace. The premier of the Hanoi government says it does not want to agree in advance to any conditions of peace. But a cessation of the fighting can be accomplished without prior conditions or agreements by means of a proposal along these lines:

First, the United States government would announce that on a certain date—perhaps two weeks later—it would without any previous agreement initiate an armistice.

Second, the United States would declare publicly that the truce would last indefinitely but that if, after its start, any military movement were carried on by the North Vietnamese, American forces would instantly resume the fighting.

If the other side, however, respected the truce, the United States would endeavor through diplomatic channels to negotiate peace terms. This might take many months.

The armistice in Korea was of similar nature, and no peace agreement was ever signed. But the peaceful status there has, for all practical purposes, been maintained since 1953.

The objection of the American government to the idea of a truce has been that the North Vietnamese could use the period—especially of protracted— to move additional supplies and troops into South Vietnam, to accumulate more arms and munitions in northern ports without fear of having them bombed, to repair highway and bridges, and to install new anti-aircraft defenses.

Spokesmen for the United States government have in the last few days made it clear that they do not favor a cessation unless there is an understanding in advance that there will be no influx of troops or supplies to the enemy while the bombing is stopped.

But since the United States would have stated clearly that the suggested armistice plan could not be used to permit the movement of men and supplies into South Vietnam or into the demilitarized zone on its northern border, no prior agreement or pledge by the North Vietnamese would be necessary.

If the Hanoi government decided to disregard the warning and the bombing was renewed, this would certainly remove one of the principal criticisms that have been made in recent months, both inside and outside of Washington—namely, that the American government has not made the proper effort to initiate peace negotiations.

Some members of Congress have been insisting that the United States has really not been trying to get peace, while there are others who feel the war should be prosecuted more forcefully. A few members are advocating the repeal of the joint resolution adopted in 1964 authorizing use of force in the Vietnam area.

Up to now, the United States has strived in various ways to get peace negotiations going. At the moment it is trying to persuade the United Nations to set up peace-making machinery to solve the Vietnam conflict. It has been repeatedly explained by officials here that as yet no signs are visible on the horizon indicating any interest on the part of the Hanoi government.

The assumption is that the government of Red China and the Soviet Union are not at all anxious to have the war in Vietnam ended except by a victory for the Communists. They seem confident America ultimately will tire of the struggle and abjectly withdraw thus impairing the influence of the United States in Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific.

The problem of peace in Vietnam needs clarification. If the North Vietnamese really want peace but do not wish to make any pledges in advance as to terms, they could honor the voluntary action of the United States in initiating an armistice. If, of course, they should choose to continue the fighting, the American government would then be free to resume military operations and carry on a long war of attrition or use maximum power to force the enemy to seek peace.

So far as world opinion is concerned, the United States would be in an advantageous position because, by sponsoring even what turned out to be a brief armistice, the American people would have convincingly demonstrated their willingness to make peace.

the Senate for "advice and consent" and the two-thirds vote.

Delay on Major Treaty

Just waiting for that two-thirds approval means delay on a major treaty. Wilson thought he could stir public opinion to pressure the Senate into approving the League. He barnstormed the country, made 37 speeches, and then physically collapsed, never fully to recover. And his fight was lost.

With all these two-thirds difficulties in mind presidents began finding shortcuts by making "executive agreements" with other nations. These did not need Senate approval, at least not all the time.

And they tried other things, like getting the Senate and the House to approve what they did by passing a resolution which only needed a majority vote.

This is how President John Tyler in 1845 and William McKinley in 1898 managed to get Texas and Hawaii annexed when they could not get a two-thirds Senate vote.

Right now there is a move afoot in the form of a resolution in the Senate, where a lot of the members are upset over Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war, to restrict his powers in foreign affairs.

It's a half-baked move, since a resolution is not legally binding. But it could, if approved by the Senate, damage Johnson by undercutting his prestige and effectiveness with the rest of the world.

Washington, D.C. (AP)—The Senate today (Sept. 28) returns to the campus of his alma mater, this time not to lead a student strike or to stroll with a codd and a blanket on his arm, but to dedicate a library.

This return to the haunts of his youth at Eureka College in Illinois highlights the remarkable turnaround of the man who has suddenly jumped from B-picture status in Hollywood to A-political status on the Presidential horizon. No candidate, no politician has changed more radically than the man elected governor partly by campaigning against student strikes at the University of California.

How radical is the change is best illustrated by the student strike which Reagan led at Eureka College. The governor tells about it in his book, "Where's the Rest of Me?"

The students had demanded that Bert Wilson, president of Eureka, be fired; not unlike the manner in which California students demanded that their dean and president be fired. They presented a petition of the board of trustees, and when this was turned down they held a mass meeting and struck. Reagan was chosen to be chief speaker at the strike rally.

"They came to their feet with a roar," Reagan wrote later. "Hell, with two more lines I could have had them riding through every Middlesex village and farm."

Reagan was frank to the point of bringing blushes to some of the staid ladies who voted for him to be governor of California.

Kegging at Eureka

"Eureka had about 250 students," he wrote, "roughly 130 boys and 120 girls, enough to make any sex competition interesting."

"There was the custom of 'kegging,'" he went on. "Eureka was the only place I've known where you could walk down the street with your girl on one arm and your blanket on the other without starting a scandal. . . . The cemetery was a three-minute walk from the campus. Everyone had a favorite grave, usually with a large enough tombstone to provide a backrest for two and a sizable pool of shadow."

The governor of California expounds at some length on life both at Eureka and in Hollywood, and his prose will make interesting reading if he ever really runs for President.

He tells the story of a lady who asked John Barrymore if he thought Romeo and Juliet had engaged in intimacies. Barrymore, according to Reagan, replied: "Madame, in the Chicago company definitely."

Regarding sex, Reagan comments: "Like the old adage about enforced romance—when it's inevitable, relax and enjoy it."

Referring to Jane Russell who starred in "The Outlaw," he wrote: "The sheriff had found Billy the Kid with his girl. 'OK,' said Billy, as the mamorous figure of Jane Russell stood sideways between them, 'You stole my horse. I stole your girl.' The sheriff nodded. 'Sure,' he replied, 'tit for tat.'"

Reagan also cites chapter and verse regarding his joining various left wing groups and serving as a sponsor on committees backing Helen Gahagan Douglas when she ran against Richard Nixon for the Senate. Reagan was then a member of Americans for Democratic Action and was constantly referred to favorably by Peoples World, the left-wing newspaper which billed him as the star in the broadcast "Operation Terror," a series for "Mobilization for Democracy," labeled a Communist front by the House Un-American Activities committee.

In contrast, Reagan today serves as an adviser to the Young Americans for Freedom, the rightest of all right-wing youth groups, brands the graduated income tax as "Marxist" and referred to Sen. Tom Kuchel, the California Republican and Senate whip as a political "traitor."

Thus speaks the many-sided Ronald Reagan, the man who now returns to the haunts of his youth, a changed but not necessarily wiser man.

Drew Pearson Says Reagan Dons New Role

Rats were not as funny as House members last week voted by a 129-125 teller vote to reverse their action of July 20, when the House laughed off the bill to combat city slums. For this reason, Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., moved that Congressmen have five days to extend and revise their jokes.

However, the debate was heated. Rep. Frances Bolton, R-Ohio, who later voted for the $40 million fund, inquired, with tongue in cheek: "How much per rat?"

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., who proposed the rat control amendment jointly with Rep. Charles Mathias, R-Md., replied that the program would cost the taxpayers "about 40 cents a rat."

Rep. William Ryan, D-N.Y., reminded colleagues that they no longer ridicule the problem as they did on July 20, when there was a "hilarious discussion of two-legged and four-legged rats, of discrimination against country rats in favor of city rats."

The dull but vocal Rep. Joel Brovhill, R-Va., shouted that the House was caught in a wave of emotionalism and sheer political demagoguery. He urged colleagues to face up to "fiscal responsibility" by voting no.

Rep. Joe Waggoner, D-La., declared that his colleagues were "reacting to pressure." "Not very long ago," he said, "a group of protesters, two-legged rats came down here from New York City to demonstrate, and the police had to drag them out of the galleries. I suppose a good many people are reacting to that pressure here today."

But young Andy Jacobs of Indianapolis, a supporter of rat control, commended the House on the "change in the nature of debate."

"Members are saying 'right now' instead of 'rat now.' I am wondering if this is not because the subject has come up suddenly."

"This time those who oppose rat extermination did not have the opportunity to prepare some good humor on the subject. Therefore, I ask unanimous consent that all members have five legislative days in which to revise and extend their jokes on this subject."

Mossy Brook Road
High Falls, N. Y.

Editor, The Freeman

I wish to alert your readers to a proposed county road in the Town of Rochester that represents the epitome in inadequate planning, ill-thought, and a rape of the meager treasury of Ulster County.

This road is sought by some of the town fathers of the Town of Rochester who, at a meeting held for interested citizens on September 20th, admitted candidly their only reason for advocating it is the fact the county would pay 100% of its costs. They stated also that the town rarely gets the opportunity to "latch onto" monies from the outside, and that they had better grab while the grabbing was good.

"The plans for the new road call for it to head westward, beginning from the new bridge in Allgerville which crosses Rondout Creek, then following the old D & H Canal bed to the Peters Kill, then crossing the Peters Kill on a new bridge, traversing and practically obliterating the historic and beautiful Peter Davis Basin, continuing on through the basin another 500 feet or so, then finally turning "inland" and heading across farm fields to where it will intersect the present road which follows the course of the Peters Kill, a total distance of some 8,300 feet of new road."

Truly this is a "Road from Nowhere to Nowhere," as it duplicates and roughly parallels an existing scenic road. For reasons that mystified those who heard of the plans, the town fathers believe they can abandon portions of the existing road when the new one goes through. The reaction of residents and owners of vacant land along the present road to this concept of road abandonment is not known, but seemingly they are no longer entitled to a maintained road in the opinion of those governing the Town of Rochester.

The cost of land acquisition and road construction is estimated at $165,000, representing about 2 1/2% of the annual budget of Ulster County and, therefore, an item of sufficient magnitude that it should stand on its own merit in competition with other demands for funds.

What is the justification for this road? Has the town or the county made traffic counts and other studies to prove need? They admit they have not! Little wonder, for the traffic on the present road is incredibly light, and the release of such data would be ruinous to their cause. In the summer months traffic peaks up to about 150 cars/day on weekends, and to perhaps 70 cars/day during the week. After the summer season is over traffic drops to as low as 30 cars/day. One could fall asleep in the middle of the road with little fear of being run over. Ironically, the majority of traffic in the future would continue using the present road for access to the swimming holes and picnic spots along the Peters Kill, and traffic on the proposed road would approach zero. For this we taxpayers shall pay $165,000?

The real cause for alarm lies in the irreparable damage the proposed road will do to the canal. On September 16th a cavalcade of cars bearing members of the Ulster County Historical Society stopped at the Peter Davis Basin to admire its tranquil beauty and learn of its history. The basin marks one end of a section of the canal with water in it—nearly 5,000 feet long—in wonderful condition after all these years, and the only such section left in the county. The only other similar stretch of canal with water in it is in Cuddebackville, 40 miles away. Both should be preserved as historical sites while yet there is time.

On September 17th the D & H Canal Historical Society held a color slide show of various points of interest along this canal, its members being especially concerned about this Allgerville section, holding as it does such excellent possibilities for permanent preservation and for public enjoyment by this and future generations.

How tragic, indeed, to learn on the 20th of September that the Town of Rochester, merely because it wants to spend some outside monies, will destroy an area of beauty

Across the H-Bomb Border:

Where Red Faces Red

Hugo Portisch today explores the strategic significance of Sinkiang province, where earlier this year the Chinese Communists exploded their first H-bomb. This is the fourth in a series of ten articles by Austrian journalist Hugo Portisch in his recent trip along the Sino-Soviet border.

By HUGO PORTISCH
Chapter IV

The flight from Moscow to Alma-Ata, capital of Kazakhstan, took six hours. Passengers could be easily divided into two categories: Over half were soldiers, among them many border police to whom I was already accustomed from my flights within Siberia. The majority of the other travelers were Kazak farmers who, a few days earlier, had brought fresh vegetables in their carry-alls to Moscow, sold them at a handsome profit and now were returning home.

As everywhere, where the Soviet Union borders on China, readiness to a high degree prevails today in Kazakhstan. Peking has made territorial claims to parts of this

Soviet Republic, and several times during the past years there were serious border clashes.

There is but one difference to the Soviet Union's Far East: Whereas in Chita, Khabarovsk, along the Amur River and in the Ussuri district the Chinese advanced actively into Soviet territory, they believe in a less active way along their Kazakhstan border. I noticed this within a few hours after my arrival. Sinkiang is China's Achilles' heel. The majority of the Sinkiang population is not Chinese but belongs to that strong ethnic group, the Uigurs. There are also numerous Kazaks, Uzbeks, Afghans and other Turkmen, all ethnic groups or people whose sympathies incline more to the Soviet Union these days.

Sinkiang is of significant strategic and economic importance for China. Near Lop Nor the Chinese have their atomic research center and hold their atomic experiments. Earlier in 1967 the first Chinese H-bomb was exploded there. But beyond this, Sinkiang is particularly rich in underground treasures, ores of all kinds and petroleum. What this means to oil-starved China is easily measured by what Marshall Chen-Yi, China's Foreign Minister, told me in 1964: that China can't even take care of its air force with its own oil resources.

Therefore, possession of Sinkiang is highly important for China. This is why I think that the Chinese operate with much more reluctance along this border than in the Soviet Far East. This impression was confirmed for me in Alma-Ata. China's endeavors in this region are directed toward a different aim: secure Sinkiang, conquer its population and suppress movements toward autonomy in Sinkiang proper.

In Kazakhstan, I knew, were thousands of Sinkiang refugees. That is why I applied for talks with some of them. For two days I remained without an answer to my request. Then, one Sunday, I was taken by car out of Alma-Ata into the foothills of the Ala-tau Range for my meeting with Zia Samed.

The Turkmen ethnic groups had for many centuries posed riddles to Czarist Russia and, particularly, to Imperial China. At the time of Genghis-Khan and his heirs in the 13th and following centuries, they were the helping tribes, the battle troops of the Mongols. Today one knows why this numerically insignificant ethnic group of Mongols succeeded in extending its rule over half of the then known world, from China and the Orient to Central Europe. The secret of their tactics was to always have three times as many battle-ready horses as soldiers. Thus Genghis Khan's tough riders always had fresh, rested horses at their disposal when they went into battle, and in this way regularly secured military superiority.

The history of Sinkiang is full of revolts by the Uigurs and Kazaks against Chinese tutelage. In many of these revolts the Russians had a hand.

From 1932 to 1942, while Chiang Kai-shek fought the Japanese and the Communists, Sinkiang became the power center of the Chinese war lord Cheng Chi-tsai, who closely collaborated with the Soviets. In 1940 he even signed a treaty with the Soviet Union allowing it to exploit Sinkiang's underground wealth. If Hitler had not attacked Russia in 1941, perhaps Sinkiang, like Mongolia, would then have become an independent Communist state, leaning toward Moscow instead of Peking.

In spite of the war in Europe the Soviet government gave a great deal of attention to Sinkiang and gave considerable support to the Uigur and Kazak revolts there in 1943-44. At the end of 1944 the Republic of East Turkistan was founded, encompassing not all of Sinkiang but that part which harbored the one reserves and had a common border with Russia. Here also were the oil reserves of Sinkiang. East Turkistan was a de facto Soviet protectorate.

What went on in Sinkiang in the next few years was a hidden, but continuous, wrestling between Russia and Red China for this province. With Mao's coming to power in Peking, the Russians lost out. As in Manchuria, they had to vacate their positions in Sinkiang, had to hand them to their Chinese Communist brother unless the relation between the two Communist states was to be that of enemies from the outset.

They agreed—as in Manchuria—on joint exploitation of certain areas (in Manchuria it was the railroads, in Sinkiang the mines), but in 1954 the Soviets retreated from both provinces, under pressure from the Chinese.

China Generals Drag Feet on Backing Mao

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—This reporter's contacts in Hong Kong, Seoul and Tokyo have compiled some startling data on the Red Chinese army.

The bits and pieces these informants have collected add up to a virtual certainty that Mao Tse-tung's military forces are in no position at all to move strongly into the Vietnam war. The data suggests Mao's armies could not be made into a unified fighting force unless Red China itself were invaded.

The reports include individual data on 311 regional and provincial commanders, their deputies and political commissars. Data is included on which of these men have sided with Mao and those who have sided against him or stayed neutral.

Nevertheless, the astonishing fact is that of the 311 officers on this list, only 47 have voiced their support of Mao. Less than 10 per cent of the key officers in this group—Communist China's provincial military commanders—have come out for Mao and Lin. The rest are either in opposition or are holding back to see which way the wind will blow.

Lin Piao has in progress a thorough purge of the army, navy and air force. A listing of those men who have been ousted in Communist China's "Pentagon" indicates the purge has been deep.

The countryside is a different matter. Though Lin has ordered the removal of scores of higher officers in the provinces the evidence is that these purges are largely paper shifts. Most of the purged officers have defied Mao and Lin and have refused to be ousted from their posts. These men are safe in most cases—so long as their fellow officers and troops stick with them—provided, of course, Mao and Lin are unable to send in superior forces.

In a good many instances, the top regional and provincial officers and their deputies have been in command of their units for many years. Their junior officers and non-commissioned officers are their men, appointed by them and loyal to them.

Thus, in a considerable number of places, there appear to be two sets of officers—those ordered by Lin to take over and those actually in command.

To Mao and Lin and to their opponents as well control of mainland China is more important than what's happening in Vietnam. Chinese army officers have learned the hard way that when their armies are committed to battle, and they lose men and arms, they thereby lose the military power to hold their own in Red China's political battles.

Therefore, while China's internal struggle continues, each general will want to conserve his troops and his arms in order to protect his own position.

The situation is not like the Korean war, where the Red Generals saw a chance to make themselves reputations that would help them up the power ladder.

ADA Is Jolted

By WILLIAM J. EATON
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Gadfly Daniel P. (Pat) Moynihan has jolted the American Liberal establishment by making three proposals that run counter to basic tenets of the Liberal faith.

Speaking to leaders of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), Moynihan committed triple heresy by urging:

1. More effective alliances with Republicans to preserve social stability while considering ways to make social progress.

2. Abandonment of the notion that the nation, especially the big cities, can be run best from agencies in Washington.

3. A change in the "curious condescension" that leads to Liberal justifications for anything that Negroes do, no matter how outrageous their action is.

As for Liberal polemics against President Johnson for not ending the Vietnam war, Moynihan reminded the ADA National Board that the men who came to Washington with the late John F. Kennedy are responsible for entering and managing that conflict.

"The task of Liberals is to make it politically worthwhile and possible for the administration to disengage," he said. "Clearly this requires that we continue to work within the party system, and to make clear that we do in fact love peace more than we love the Viet Cong."

J. K. (Ken) Galbraith, ADA National Chairman, praised Moynihan for a "brilliant and most imaginative" talk and even an old-time New Dealer, Benjamin V. Cohen, agreed it was "very impressive."

Moynihan, who sparked a national controversy by reporting a breakdown in negro family life in a 1964 analysis of racial problems, said Washington officials were too busy with vital foreign affairs to spark social change in the cities.

Massive Federal Funds
The cities and states, he said, should be provided with massive federal funds to do this job. He noted that Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.), leader of the GOP Conference in the House, had been advocating such an approach and deserved ADA backing.

It was Moynihan's analysis of the racial troubles that stirred the most interest—his indirect allusion to Stokely Carmichael and H. Rap Brown as "nihilists" who seek destruction for its own sake.

There are two sets of problems, he suggested. One involves a "vast negro underclass in our northern cities—a disorganized, angry, hurt group of persons easily given to self-destructive violence."

The other problem centers on "radical, nihilist youth—not themselves members of this underclass—but identifying with it, able to communicate with it and determined to use it as an instrument of a violent, apocalyptic confrontation with a white society they have determined to be irredeemably militaristic and racist."

All the signs indicate that racial violence is not over, he said, and new signs indicate that "terrorism" may be the next, post-riot stage.

Liberals, Moynihan said, must face the realities of life in negro ghettos, which they have avoided in the past.

"There is nothing whatever to be done to change the minds of the negro nihilists," said Moynihan, director of the Harvard-MIT Center for Urban Studies. "Their course is set."

"The only option for the nation is to deprive them of the negro underclass which is the source of their present strength."

As an example of what he was fighting, Moynihan said a social scientist who concluded that family backgrounds were the major reason for low levels of educational achievement of negro youths was labeled a "racist." Yet if he was right, Moynihan said, it does little good to improve slum schools without any attention to family life.

Across the H-Bomb Border:

Where Red Faces Red

Hugo Portisch today explores the strategic significance of Sinkiang province, where earlier this year the Chinese Communists exploded their first H-bomb. This is the fourth in a series of ten articles by Austrian journalist Hugo Portisch on his recent trip along the Sino-Soviet border.

By HUGO PORTISCH
Chapter IV

The flight from Moscow to Alma-Ata, capital of Kazakhstan, took six hours. Passengers could be easily divided into two categories: Over half were soldiers, among them many border police to whom I was already accustomed from my flights within Siberia. The majority of the other travelers were Kazak farmers who, a few days earlier, had brought fresh vegetables in their carry-alls to Moscow, sold them at a handsome profit and now were returning home.

Several planes left Moscow daily for Alma-Ata. I chose a night flight and, as we approached Alma-Ata, the sun was just rising above the mountain range east of the city. Some of the snow-covered mountain-peaks visible from here are in China, in Sinkiang province. That's how close one is here to the Chinese border.

As everywhere, where the Soviet Union borders on China, readiness to a high degree prevails today in Kazakhstan. Peking has made territorial claims to parts of this

Soviet Republic, and several times during the past years there were serious border clashes.

There is but one difference to the Soviet Union's Far East: Whereas in Chita, Khabarovsk, along the Amur River and in the Ussuri district the Chinese advanced actively into Soviet territory, they believe in a less active way along their Kazakhstan border. I noticed this within a few hours after my arrival. Sinkiang is China's Achilles' heel. The majority of the Sinkiang population is not Chinese but belongs to that strong ethnic group, the Uigurs. There are also numerous Kazaks, Uzbeks, Afghans and other Turkomen, all ethnic groups or people whose sympathies incline more to the Soviet Union than these days.

Sinkiang is of significant strategic and economic importance for China. Near Lop Nor the Chinese have their atomic research center and hold their atomic experiments. IUE - Ferroxcube Election Called Off

A National Labor Relations Board election, scheduled at Ferroxcube Corp. of America on Friday, Sept. 29, was suddenly called off Tuesday night at the request of the International Union of Electrical Workers, it was reported today.

The election was to be a re-run of an election held Nov. 23, 1965 in which the workers at Ferroxcube reportedly voted that they did not want representation by the IUE.

According to reports, various objections by the Union and legal maneuvers have taken place since the previous election, finally resulting in the ordering of an election by the NLRB.

All preparations had been made, and it appeared that plans were progressing for the election as planned, when the election was called off.

While the reason for their change in plans is still not known, some feel that it may have been attributed to a "spontaneous" employee demonstration in objection to the Union, which occurred at the company's Mt. Marion Road site Tuesday morning.

It was reported that a number of company employees demonstrated and passed out leaflets at the gate to the plant.

"Colorado" is a Spanish word meaning "ruddy." The name comes from the Colorado River, which runs red during the spring floods.

Warrant Issued For Area Man; DWI Charged

Bail was forfeited and a bench warrant issued today when Gerald G. Rigoulot, 31, of Highland, accused of driving while intoxicated, failed to appear in City Court.

Rigoulot, also charged with speeding, running a red light, insufficient lights and no signals, was arrested by Kings County Police early this morning. He posted $250 cash bail.

Special City Court Judge George A. Beck told The Freeman that Rigoulot's mother had phoned the court, requesting her son be excused on medical grounds. Judge Beck said a check with Rigoulot's alleged physician indicated that there was no reason why he couldn't appear in court.

Sheriff's deputies have been asked to serve the warrant.

Mao Foes Seized

HONG KONG (AP) — Red Chinese secret police have arrested a number of ranking air force officers — opponents of Mao Tse-tung — who had plotted to blow up 20 MIG jet fighters at a Canton airport, travelers from mainland China said today.

Tanks came in to protect the planes, part of an air power display for the anniversary Sunday of the Communist takeover in China in 1949, they said. There was no way to confirm the travelers' reports.

LeFevre Group To Organize; Meet Saturday

Members of the LeFevre family who are residing in many parts of the United States will gather for their first family association meeting at New Paltz, Saturday.

There will be a luncheon at the Old Fort at 12:30, followed by a meeting at 2 p. m. at Devo Hall.

The members of the family will discuss purchase of a house on Huguenot Street as a headquarters for the group and as a part of the preservation of the street. The family history will also be a part of the purpose of the association.

The stone houses will be open to welcome the new family association. There are six other family groups organized to preserve the homesteads on Huguenot Street. Members of other family associations will be present to host their houses.

As it has been impossible to reach each LeFevre descendant by mail, it is hoped that a newspaper article will bring the matter to the attention of all. If any person is interested, they may attend.

Man Wanted In Dutchess Is Arrested

Wanted by Dutchess County officials for an alleged burglary at a Dutchess County drug store last June, Peter Anthony Mariolos, 22, Tuckers Corners Road, Highland, was arrested Wednesday about 5:30 p. m. by Special Investigator Thomas Mayone of the Ulster County district attorney's office and Dutchess County officials.

Mariolos, also known as "Pete the Greek," was arrested at his home. He is presently awaiting sentence in Ulster County Court under indictment for sale and possession of a depressant drug. That charge arises out of a wholesale narcotics raid in Ulster County last December.

Scheduled to be sentenced by County Judge Raymond J. Mino Wednesday, imposition of sentence was postponed when his counsel, Michael Nardone, was engaged in court elsewhere.

Mariolos is charged with third degree burglary in Dutchess County, alleged to have taken place last June when a quantity of narcotics were missing from the drug store along with watches, razors and other articles.

Participating in the arrest Wednesday with Investigator Mayone was Dutchess County Chief Deputy Charles Borchert and two other members of the Dutchess County sheriff's office. Some of the articles reported missing from the Dutchess County drug store were recovered Wednesday in Mariolos room, according to Investigator Mayone. Mayone also said narcotics, needles and syringes were recovered from Mariolos room and charges may be lodged against Mariolos in Ulster County for possession.

Mayone said a quantity of alleged narcotics were recovered in the yard of the Mariolos home, where they were hidden in a plastic bag among rocks.

Mariolos was turned over to the Dutchess County authorities. Mayone said there were others involved in the drug store burglary in Dutchess County.

bridges spanning the Hudson River.

The State Police bloodhounds from Troop K headquarters in Hawthorne joined the widespread manhunt.

Today's escape was noted as the seventh in five years at the facility.

'Neat and Planned'

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Borchert called the escape a "very neat, carefully planned job."

Alarms sent out listed the registration of the stolen 1961 car, which may have been the getaway car, as NY-4390-PK.

Figures in previous escapes from the Dutchess jail were Edwin Codarre, admitted slayer of an 11-year-old girl, and Anthony Santos Jr., 22-year-old Middletown roofer, who broke out of jail twice in 1962. He was indicted for burglary and escaping from jail.

First in 1943

The first escape from the supposedly escape proof jail occurred in 1943, when Edwin Codarre of Brooklyn, walked out of the jail. The boy was being held on a murder charge, accused of killing 11-year-old Elizabeth Vogt, daughter of an East Fishkill farmer. Codarre, then 13, was apprehended not far from the jail by incumbent Sheriff Quinlan, then a deputy.

Codarre at trial, pleaded guilty to a homicide charge and was sentenced to 30 years in prison by the late Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz. For years, the Codarre case went through the high courts, but from time to time the sentence was upheld until in June, 1966 after serving 23 years in prison, Codarre was ordered released by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

Santos figured in an escape from the county jail on May 17, 1962 when he was permitted to leave his cell to make a telephone call. When a guard's back was turned, the prisoner made a break and jumped through a screened window and got away. He was the object of an extensive hunt for four days until he was finally persuaded by his family to surrender to authorities.

After his return he was kept in an isolation cell, but on Sept. 28, 1962, Santos escaped a second time. On that date he asked a guard for permission to take a shower, and contrary to Sheriff Quinlan's strict orders, the guard, later suspended from his job, accompanied the Middletown man to a third floor shower section. Santos was supposedly taking a shower and the guard left and returned to a first floor office.

Meanwhile, Santos sneaked downstairs to the basement, where construction work had been started on a new addition to the jail. The prisoner somehow obtained an implement which he used to pry two padlocks from a wooden door which opened his way to a second escape.

Nabbed Days Later

Santos was captured several days later. He was later indicted for escaping from jail, and faced charges of burglary and grand larceny in connection with a break-in at a Grand Union Market in Poughkeepsie. In March, 1963 the man pleaded guilty to three indictments.

Three guards were suspended as the result of Santos's second getaway from jail.

IUE - Ferroxcube Election Called Off

A National Labor Relations Board election, scheduled at Ferroxcube Corp. of America on Friday, Sept. 29, was suddenly called off Tuesday night at the request of the International Union of Electrical Workers, it was reported today.

The election was to be a re-run of an election held Nov. 23, 1965 in which the workers at Ferroxcube reportedly voted that they did not want representation by the IUE.

According to reports, various objections by the Union and legal maneuvers have taken place since the previous election, finally resulting in the ordering of an election by the NLRB.

All preparations had been made, and it appeared that plans were progressing for the election as planned, when the election was called off.

While the reason for their change in plans is still not known, some feel that it may have been attributed to a "spontaneous" employee demonstration in objection to the Union, which occurred at the company's Mt. Marion Road site Tuesday morning.

It was reported that a number of company employees demonstrated and passed out leaflets at the gate to the plant.

"Colorado" is a Spanish word meaning "ruddy." The name comes from the Colorado River, which runs red during the spring floods.

Warrant Issued For Area Man; DWI Charged

Bail was forfeited and a bench warrant issued today when Gerald G. Rigoulot, 31, of Highland, accused of driving while intoxicated, failed to appear in City Court.

Rigoulot, also charged with speeding, running a red light, insufficient lights and no signals, was arrested by Kingston Police early this morning. He posted $250 cash bail.

Special City Court Judge George A. Beck told The Freeman that Rigoulot's mother had phoned the court, requesting her son be excused on medical grounds. Judge Beck said a check with Rigoulot's alleged physician indicated that there was no reason why he couldn't appear in court.

Sheriff's deputies have been asked to serve the warrant.

Mao Foes Seized

HONG KONG (AP) — Red Chinese secret police have arrested a number of ranking air force officers — opponents of Mao Tse-tung — who had plotted to blow up 20 MIG jet fighters at a Canton airport, travelers from mainland China said today.

Tanks came in to protect the planes, part of an air power display for the anniversary Sunday of the Communist takeover in China in 1949, they said. There was no way to confirm the travelers' reports.

LeFevre Group To Organize; Meet Saturday

Members of the LeFevre family who are residing in many parts of the United States will gather for their first family association meeting at New Paltz, Saturday.

There will be a luncheon at the Old Fort at 12:30, followed by a meeting at 2 p. m. at Deyo Hall.

The members of the family will discuss purchase of a house on Huguenot Street as a headquarters for the group and as a part of the preservation of the street. The family history will also be a part of the purpose of the association.

The stone houses will be open to welcome the new family association. There are six other family groups organized to preserve the homesteads on Huguenot Street. Members of other family associations will be present to host their houses.

As it has been impossible to reach each LeFevre descendant by mail, it is hoped that a newspaper article will bring the matter to the attention of all. If any person is interested, they may attend.

Man Wanted In Dutchess Is Arrested

Wanted by Dutchess County officials for an alleged burglary at a Dutchess County drug store last June, Peter Anthony Marioles, 22, Tuckers Corners Road, Highland, was arrested Wednesday about 5:30 p. m. by Special Investigator Thomas Mayone of the Ulster County district attorney's office and Dutchess County officials.

Marioles, also known as "Pete the Greek," was arrested at his home. He is presently awaiting sentence in Ulster County Court under indictment for sale and possession of a depressant drug. That charge arises out of a wholesale narcotics raid in Ulster County last December.

Scheduled to be sentenced by County Judge Raymond J. Mino Wednesday, imposition of sentence was postponed when his counsel, Michael Nardone, was engaged in court elsewhere.

Marioles is charged with third degree burglary in Dutchess County, alleged to have taken place last June when a quantity of narcotics were missing from the drug store along with watches, razors and other articles.

Participating in the arrest Wednesday with Investigator Mayone was Dutchess County Chief Deputy Charles Borchert and two other members of the Dutchess County sheriff's office.

Some of the articles reported missing from the Dutchess County drug store were recovered Wednesday in Marioles' room, according to Investigator Mayone. Mayone also said narcotics, needles and syringes were recovered from Marioles' room and charges may be lodged against Marioles in Ulster County for possession.

Mayone said a quantity of alleged narcotics were recovered in the yard of the Marioles home, where they were hidden in a plastic bag among rocks.

Marioles was turned over to the Dutchess County authorities. Mayone said there were others involved in the drug store burglary in Dutchess County.

The State Police bloodhounds from Troop K headquarters in Hawthorne joined the widespread manhunt.

Today's escape was noted as the seventh in five years at the facility.

'Neat and Planned'

Chief Deputy Sheriff Charles Borchert called the escape a "very neat, carefully planned job."

Alarms sent out listed the registration of the stolen 1961 car, which may have been the getaway car, as NY-4390-PK.

Figures in previous escapes from the Dutchess jail were Edwin Codarre, admitted slayer of an 11-year-old girl, and Anthony Santos Jr., 22-year-old Middletown roofer, who broke out of jail twice in 1962. He was indicted for burglary and escaping from jail.

Don't Buy a Stock
On Blue-Chip Label

Q "Would you advise me where to go to learn about stocks and investing? Also would you explain what 'blue chip' means?" D. G.

A I should like very much to help you but unless you are prepared to enroll in a business college or graduate school, I'm afraid you will find it hard to acquire a knowledge that comes largely from experience. Your local librarian might help you, but many books on investments are largely theoretical. It might pay you to get your feet wet by buying a good stock or two and getting acquainted with a broker. As regards blue chips, this term is a very broad one and has been gradually losing its significance.

Blue-chip stocks are established, high-quality investments and the term embraces such varied issues as Union Carbide, National Lead, and Bristol-Myers. From a price standpoint, though, the first two have trended downhill for at least ten years, while Bristol-Myers, during the same period, has increased in value 1,400 per cent. It is no longer enough, from an investment standpoint, to pin a label on a stock. It is of much greater importance to study the record of earnings, price and dividend gains, over a period of several years.

Q "We are in the $20,000-a-year bracket. My husband, 58 years old, is always buying on hot tips. The latest ones are Colt and New Park Mining. Please comment." C. B.

A You have quite a problem and I wish I could help you with it. I'm afraid, though, that your husband will have to learn the hard way that tips are usually more costly than profitable. The average uninformed investor, trading as your husband does, is backing his judgment against that of hard-nosed professionals, and sooner or later he will find to his distress that tips are a poor substitute for prudent investment and the study of values. I only hope this knowledge will not come too late.

Gas Station Glimmer -- Like Year-Round Carnival

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Its banners shouting about free prizes, its pennants and shimmering ornaments swaying in the wind, the gasoline station continues to glimmer in the sun like a year-round carnival.

As most motorists know very well, this carnival air is more than appearance. Games are played, money is won, premiums such as radios and toys are awarded. "Even born losers win," one oil producer advertises.

Still Rolling

It is now close to two years since the giveaway games and sweepstakes replaced price-cutting as a business stimulant in many of the nation's gasoline stations, and the fad, if it is that, shows little sign of abating.

Several major oil producers admit their dislike of the promotional gimmicks but claim an inability to do much about them. "If our competitor has a game, we must have one to offset his," they said. There is some truth to this: for soon after Tidewater Oil Co. introduced a cash game in January 1966 sales soared at many of its stations. That did it. Others followed and the sweepstakes war was on.

In theory, when games and gimmicks reach the saturation point they tend to offset each other because nobody has an advantage any more. This, at least, has been the experience of some supermarkets have had with trading stamps.

The games and sweepstakes now being played at service stations seem to be avoiding that experience. Games have been refined, their prizes enlarged, their winners heavily advertised as happy customers.

Some oil producers explain that the games, or some sales stimulant, are as necessary to good customer relations as wiping the windshield.

"A customer cannot feel taste or personally consume the product," one marketing executive explained. "He cannot tell the difference between high quality and low quality gasoline."

The fact is, however, that there are great differences in the quality of gasoline products. If only the industry felt it could effectively promote these differences, oil executives say, the games might go.

Aside from games and product quality, the other major areas of competition are price and service.

Although the price of gasoline is now less than it was a half century ago, largely because of soaring volume, competition by price has fallen into some disfavor after many ruinous price wars.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market held a slim gain in active trading early Thursday. Advances of individual stocks outnumbered declines by about 175 but the averages slipped a bit.

Brokers said they felt that thoughts of inflation might again become a more persuasive stimulant to demand for stocks. They mentioned the new increase in sulphur prices and the seventh consecutive monthly rise in living costs in August as factors.

Most changes of key issues were fractional but a few volatile stocks ran up as much as 2 points.

Asks Jury Trial In Eviction Rift

Elizabeth Van Vliet, 167 Henry Street, facing eviction proceedings at the hands of her brother, today appeared in City Court, demanding a jury trial, complained of not being able to hold an attorney and exchanged innuendoes with special City Judge George A. Beck.

Miss Van Vliet told the court attempts to secure counsel have been to no avail. She said she would try again and demanded a jury trial.

The brother, Thomas Van Vliet, gained possession of the house in a Partition Proceeding before the State Supreme Court several months back, according to filed information in the court. His sister was given until Aug. 10, rent free, to obtain other quarters, the records continue. On Aug. 28, Miss Van Vliet received notice to leave. She refuses.

Judge Beck explained that a jury trial is impossible until Miss Van Vliet denies information contained in the eviction papers. Beck said she has re-

British volunteers are engaged in education, farming instruction and community development schemes.

While Botswana's immediate future doesn't look bright, there are some hopeful signs.

Small copper and nickel deposits have been discovered in the northeast. The Rhodesian Selection Trust, a mining group operating mainly in Rhodesia, plans investments.

Financier Harry Oppenheimer, head of the Anglo-American Corp. of South Africa, visited the country recently to discuss a potential diamond-producing area.

There are hopes that oil lies beneath the drifting sands of the Kalahari Desert.

Botswana Needs Funds to Hasten Full Independence

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE
GABERONES, Botswana, Sept. 28 (AP) — The flag of Botswana, which flies proudly in Gaborone, de-ern Africa is far from independent. After 81 years under the British, this dust-bowl territory almost as big as Texas hoisted its new flag Sept. 30, 1966, sworn in Seretse Khama as president and faced the problem of feeding more than 100,000 persons near starvation.

Few other emerging black African states celebrated independence against such odds. "We continue to be economically dependent on outside aid and lack development funds," Khama says. "We must overcome this problem by insuring our internal security and creating confidence which will in turn inspire investment and the granting of development funds needed to help us achieve economic independence."

The 550,000 Batswanas, as they are known, are among the most backward people in Africa. Less than 25 per cent are literate in the Setswana language. Three-quarters of the population live at subsistence level on a semiferile strip of land fringing the Kalahari Desert. Years of drought have whittled the cattle herds whose export accounts for over half the country's income.

The second largest money spinner is low-wage African labor exported to the gold mines of adjoining South Africa. More than 35,000 men migrate annually, bringing back pay worth $1.68 million.

The threat of mass starvation forced the new government to organize countryside food handouts to 180,000 people. The territory at independence had 12 miles of tarred roads, less than 3,500 motor vehicles, 2,300 telephones, fewer than 5,000 radio sets, 9 high schools, 17 doctors to tend its half-million population and three inadequate hospitals.

While Botswana's immediate future doesn't look bright, there are some hopeful signs. Small copper and nickel deposits have been discovered in the northeast. The Rhodesian Selection Trust, a mining group operating mainly in Rhodesia, plans investments. Financier Harry Oppenheimer, head of the Anglo-American Corp. of South Africa, visited the country recently to discuss a potential diamond-producing area.

Festival on Ferry

NEW YORK (AP) — Cellist Charlotte Moorman, a champion of avant-garde music who was convicted last May of giving an indecent performance, will take over a Staten Island ferryboat next week for a 24-hour arts festival.

The shapely Miss Moorman, 28, received a suspended sentence in Criminal Court May 9 for a performance Feb. 9 in which she allegedly played her cellist commissioner, Herbert B. Halberg, announced Wednesday that the festival would be given the use of the ferry John F. Kennedy on Sept. 29.

Woodstock News

Historians Visit Ashokan, Review Reservoir's Origin

The Historical Society of Woodstock recently met at Ashokan Methodist Church. The topic was the building of the Ashokan Reservoir.

For this meeting a distinguished group of senior citizens of the Town of Olive and other towns were invited to come and discuss their remembrances of the period 1900-1915, during which the present reservoir was constructed. A number of other old-timers also came and added to the information. Among those who spoke were, Mrs. Vera Sickler, Mrs.

Mabel Johnson, Elwyn Davis, Lester Morris, Victor Lasher and others.

A large audience heard a great deal concerning the old town of Olive and its hamlets, now under water, what life was like there and how people felt about being forced to abandon their ancestral homes.

The size of the undertaking to build the reservoir was brought out. The reservoir holds 132 billion gallons of water. Five hamlets had to be moved, involving 68 miles of road, while 38 more had to be built, moving 13 miles of railroad to higher ground and moving 2,800 bodies from 38 cemeteries.

There was a gallery of old photographs of the towns now covered, the dam during construction, some of the people who participated in the construction, and other scenes of the area during that period.

The Historical Society of Woodstock is making plans to run similar meetings in other neighboring towns in the future.

Practical Politics, LWV Topic

Mrs. J. R. Wood, president of the Woodstock League of Women Voters welcomed members and guests at last week's membership night held in St. Gregory's parish hall. She explained League activities including the most important one, voter's service which is designed to increase the busy citizenship understanding of government and politics so that they may be encouraged to participate more actively in public affairs.

Jean Falknor and her committee presented a talk on practical politics, stressing the power of the voter who enrolls in a political party. Jean Miller explained how through apportionment the present Board of Supervisors will be replaced by a Legislature composed of 33 county legislators. Hannah Safra spoke of the role of political party leaders in our State Legislature, and Sylvia Horsey explained how and when the President of the U. S. is really elected.

Mrs. Phyllis Wittner, membership chairman announced an orientation program for new members will start in October.

Ground-Breaking

A ground breaking ceremony to initiate new work on construction of the Christian Life and Work Center of Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, will take place Sunday noon at the rear of the church building, Woodstock Village Green.

World-Wide communion services will take place at the church prior to the ceremony according to the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks, minister.

Historians Visit Ashokan, Review Reservoir's Origin

The Historical Society of Woodstock recently met at Ashokan Methodist Church. The topic was the building of the Ashokan Reservoir.

For this meeting a distinguished group of senior citizens of the Town of Olive and other towns were invited to come and discuss their remembrances of the period 1900-1915, during which the present reservoir was constructed. A number of other old-timers also came and added to the information. Among those who spoke were, Mrs. Vera Sickler, Mrs.

Mabel Johnson, Elwyn Davis, Lester Morris, Victor Lasher and others.

A large audience heard a great deal concerning the old town of Olive and its hamlets, now under water, what life was like there and how people felt about being forced to abandon their ancestral homes.

The size of the undertaking to build the reservoir was brought out. The reservoir holds 132 billion gallons of water. Five hamlets had to be moved, involving 68 miles of road, while 38 more had to be built, moving 13 miles of railroad to higher ground and moving 2,800 bodies from 38 cemeteries.

There was a gallery of old photographs of the towns now covered, the dam during construction, some of the people who participated in the construction, and other scenes of the area during that period.

The Historical Society of Woodstock is making plans to run similar meetings in other neighboring towns in the future.

Practical Politics, LWV Topic

Mrs. J. R. Wood, president of the Woodstock League of Women Voters welcomed members and guests at last week's membership night held in St. Gregory's parish hall. She explained League activities including the most important one, voter service which is designed to increase the busy citizenship understanding of government and politics so that he may be encouraged to participate more actively in public affairs.

Jean Falkner and her committee presented a talk on practical politics, stressing the power of the voter who enrolls in a political party. Jean Miller explained how through apportionment the present Board of Supervisors will be replaced by a Legislature composed of 33 county legislators. Hannah Salfran spoke of the role of political party leaders in our State Legislature, and Sylvia Horsey explained how and when the President of the U. S. is really elected.

Mrs. Phyllis Wittner, membership chairman announced an orientation program for new members will start in October.

Ground-Breaking

A ground breaking ceremony to initiate new work on construction of the Christian Life and Work Center of Woodstock Dutch Reformed Church, will take place Sunday noon at the rear of the church building, Woodstock Village Green.

World-Wide communion services will take place at the church prior to the ceremony according to the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks, minister.

In County Court Wednesday counsel for the two sought to argue the motion and charged that his two clients were victims of a "hoax" or "entrapment." He alleged that a narcotic agent or informer had discussed sale of paintings of Blackwell with a condition that marijuana be supplied.

Inmate Saves Inmate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — No doctor was available and a prison inmate was losing blood rapidly from self-inflicted gashes in each arm.

Then someone remembered Dr. Roosevelt Jackson, a physician jailed for contempt of court growing out of divorce proceedings.

Jackson could find no pulse when he reached the inmate, and no surgical instruments were available. But a sewing machine was nearby.

"They brought me a needle and some white sewing machine thread, and I tied off the vessels," the physician said.

The emergency sutures were replaced at a hospital and the inmate now says he wants to live.

Jackson returned to his cell.

He alleged that a narcotic agent or informer had discussed sale of paintings of Blackwell with a condition that marijuana be supplied.

Adjourned Until Oct. 4

Since District Attorney Joseph P. Torracca had just been served with motion papers, County Judge Raymond J. Mino adjourned argument of the matter until 10 a.m. Oct. 4. The adjournment was taken by consent of counsel after it had been mentioned that dismissal of the indictments would be sought under a recent Supreme Court decision in an Albany matter. Counsel for the defendants said that similar circumstances existed in the Ulster County case where an agent sought to tie in marijuana with sale of paintings. In the Albany case, it involved drugs and women.

James Patrick Hill, 21, Saugerties, was given the maximum sentence permitted by law on a plea of guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Clifford Alfred Vandergriff, 61, New Paltz, on a plea of guilty of illegal possession of a firearm, was sentenced to 9 months in jail with credit for time already served. William Gruener appeared for defendant.

Acie Lee Rudd, Kingston, who had entered a plea of guilty to attempted second degree assault, appeared for sentence. Judge Mino imposed a 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 year prison sentence. Joseph Saccoccia appeared for defendant.

Other Cases

George Leonard, also known as Mickey Leonard, Kingston, who is now serving sentence at Clinton Prison as a result of a Greene County sentence, was sentenced to 1 1/2 to 3 years at hard labor in Clinton Prison on a plea of guilty to second degree grand larceny. Edward Greene appeared for Leonard.

The charge arose out of an incident at a Fair Street restaurant where it was charged he took over $100. The sentence imposed will run concurrently with the sentence being served in the Greene County matter. William Hasbrouck, 46, Kingston, on a plea of guilty to driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated as a felony, was given a year suspended jail sentence. Prior to sentencing by Judge Mino, District Attorney Torracca said he would consent to the plea on condition Hasbrouck's driver license was permanently revoked as he was a "menace" on the road. The arrest did not involve an accident. Elmer Nathan appeared for Hasbrouck and said Hasbrouck knew his driver license would be revoked.

Several other cases were adjourned to future dates.

Accreditation of The Kingston Hospital has been renewed for another three-year period, according to notification received from the Joint Commission on Accreditation.

The voluntary accreditation program involves a periodic personal survey to ascertain that the participating hospital meets standards set by the Joint Commission. Three years is the maximum period for which accreditation may be granted after any one inspection.

The surveyor's report on the inspection which was made Aug. 2 included this comment: "The administration and medical staff are commended for the excellent standard of patient care in evidence in this hospital."

Areas Included
Areas included in the accreditation survey include the physical plant safety, facilities and equipment, dietary department, pharmacy and other special services, medical library, medical staff, nursing staff and hospital personnel, administration, record keeping and consulting practice.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals is a national organization sponsored by the American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association and American Medical Association.

Inmate Saves Inmate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — No doctor was available and a prison inmate was losing blood rapidly from self-inflicted gashes in each arm.

Then someone remembered Dr. Roosevelt Jackson, a physician jailed for contempt of court growing out of divorce proceedings.

Jackson could find no pulse when he reached the inmate, and no surgical instruments were available. But a sewing machine was nearby.

"They brought me a needle and some white sewing machine thread, and I tied off the vessels," the physician said.

The emergency sutures were replaced at a hospital and the inmate now says he wants to live.

Jackson returned to his cell.

the association would have a Mass said Wednesday evening, Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. for late member, Mrs. Laurette Morelli.

Hostesses for evening were Mrs. Florence Muenkel, Mrs. Ann Jerkowski and Mrs. Verda Connor.

Louis Muenkel then showed films of the building and dedication of the new school.

Not that they're that expensive . . . but DuMont doesn't make a low-priced model. So when a frantic mother shops for a set to replace the worn-out one, we know she didn't plan on this expense . . . and will sympathetically steer her past the DuMonts to adequate sets with more modest price tags.

No Mortgage Relief Seen for Housing Interests

WASHINGTON (AP) — The slow recovery of the housing industry from last year's recession is expected to continue through 1968, but there's no relief in sight for high interest rates on mortgages.

That's the assessment of the industry and key government officials if Congress approves higher taxes to help reduce a heavy budget deficit and stem inflationary pressures.

Without higher taxes, they said, housing could go into another tailspin.

No substantial easing of mortgage interest rates is anticipated through next year and the home building industry indicated a further slight increase this year would come as no surprise.

High interest rates will undoubtedly hold down the housing recovery this year and postpone the catching up process until 1968, the industry said.

In a new housing forecast, the National Association of Home Builders said housing starts this year are certain to exceed the depressed 1966 level but the improvements will be slight over-all.

For 1968, the association foresees a 10 per cent increase in housing starts if the administration's proposed 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes becomes effective on Jan. 1.

But the group expects no significant loosening in credit during the first quarter of next year and very likely throughout the year.

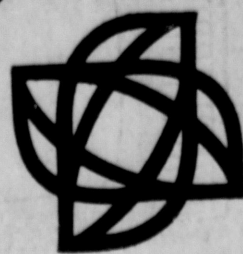

"Result, housing starts in 1968 will fail to increase as rapidly as in previous times of recovery after a tight money period," the report said.

Some government officials also foresee no substantial lowering of mortgage interest rates. December, interest rates on home loans declined until late spring but have since increased.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which supervises the savings and loan industry, the largest single source of mort-loans on new houses was 6.34 per cent during August, the same as July. But the rate on existing July. Future loan commitments hit a record $3.4 billion from the 6.33 per cent during August.

Goal of HRVC:

Balanced Valley Development

A comprehensive plan for the "balanced development" of the Hudson River Valley from the river's source in the Adirondacks to the tip of Manhattan is the goal of the Hudson River Valley Commission, its executive director told an audience at Dutchess Community College this week.

Alexander Aldrich said that the group he heads is working for economic development along the banks of the Hudson as well as for the promotion of amenities making it possible for people "to live in the hurly-burly of today's environment."

Hails Poughkeepsie Plan

In cooperation with local government agencies and such organizations as garden clubs and historical societies, he said that the commission is constantly advising on what should be preserved along the Hudson's shores as well as developed for commercial, recreational, or residential purposes.

"We're like a regional zoning agency, although we don't have any veto power," he said.

He hailed Poughkeepsie's urban renewal project as "among the most exciting" developments in the valley. He also noted that his staff worked recently with local officials in approving plans for a sewage plant to be constructed by the Town of Poughkeepsie.

Aldrich stressed that the organization he heads is concerned strictly with land uses along the river's banks. Cleanup up the Hudson's waters is a job for the State Department of Health.

too," he commented. "By 1972 I'll invite you to go swimming with me in the Hudson!"

He said that he and his staff are constantly weighing problems of "balanced development" for the Valley and are sometimes "torn" by decisions they must make.

"There are shifts in the public's attitude toward this sort of thing—just as in education or child-rearing," Aldrich noted. "Right now, people are most interested in the use of the river for the individual."

Amenities in Abundance

He pointed out that business and industry cannot be attracted to an area where there are few "amenity resources," such as scenic areas, recreational facilities, places of cultural and historical interest, to satisfy demands of employees who will live in the locality.

"The Hudson River Valley has these amenities in abundance, but we must plan to keep them and to develop them where possible," he said.

He noted that the body he currently heads is an outgrowth of a temporary group formed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller to undertake similar work several years ago. As leader of the permanent commission formed in 1966, he said his goal will be to offer the State of New York a comprehensive plan for the Hudson River Valley's growth.

Newkirk Asks Return Of 'Zipless' Cards

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk reported today that approximately 3000 ZIP-A-LIST cards from all over the country have been processed at the Kingston Post Office since the program kicked off last week.

The postal official urged local residents who haven't taken advantage of the post office's offer to provide ZIP Codes for "zipless" addresses to do so immediately. A kit sufficient for up to eight addresses was delivered to each household in the area.

Extra kits are available at the post office.

All a mailer need to do to obtain a ZIP Code is to:

— write the "unzipped" address in the proper space, including the city and state.

— write in the return address so the post office will know who should receive the completed card.

— drop the card in any mail box. No postage is needed.

Postmaster Newkirk thanked all who have already filled in their cards and mailed them. "We appreciate your cooperation and look forward to considerable more ZIP in our postal operation after this," he said.

Anyone in the country who requests a ZIP Code for an address in Kingston fills out the form and drops it in the mail. When the card arrives at the main post office, it is separated from other mail during the normal sorting process. The cards are stacked, stamped with the proper code plus a "return to sender" notice and remailed to the return address. "It is a fast, efficient process," Newkirk explained.

500 Attend Paltz Area GOP Picnic

More than 500 Republicans gathered at Fred DuBois' farm Sunday afternoon to greet their candidates for the New Paltz and Gardiner Town and County Offices. In spite of the cold and rainy weather, the festivities were attended by at least 150 more than any previous year.

Wendell Harp, president of the New Paltz Republican Club, introduced the candidates: Fred DuBois, running for reelection as county treasurer; Peter Savago and Robert Harp, running for election to the Legislature from New Paltz and Gardiner.

New Paltz town candidates Tony Moriello, supervisor; Ted Lasher, clerk; Parks Glenn, justice; Ike Pole, superintendent of Highways; Dominick Srengola, councilman; Thomas Roach and William Schmal-kuche Sr., assessors. Gardiner candidates present were Chris Eckert, supervisor; Vivian McCord, clerk; Warren McDowell, justice; Louis Biever, councilman; Lou Denton, superintendent of highways; John Otis and Cletus Schiller, assessors; and Gilbert Tice, tax collector.

State Senator Jay Rolison and various candidates from the surrounding towns were also present.

Estelle Frascinella and Robert DuBois were in charge of preparation and serving of food.

Rusk Reports On Talks: No Viet Change

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said he and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko discussed the Vietnam war Wednesday night but the talks brought "no change in the position of either side."

Earlier, Rusk told the American Bankers' Association that those calling for a halt to bombing of North Vietnam should insist that Hanoi stop aggression in the South. He said he found it "hard to understand how one side can stop a war."

Gromyko's position has been that "peace may be brought about in Vietnam solely as a result of the withdrawal of the aggressors"—meaning the United States.

It was the third day in a row that Rusk and Gromyko dined together. Their latest meeting lasted 3 hours, 15 minutes, and Rusk called it a "very happy discussion" on such subjects as disarmament. The talks were "businesslike," he told newsmen, "but we reached no dramatic conclusions."

The secretary of state said much of the discussion was about progress on a treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons. He said both nations hope to present a treaty to the U.N. General Assembly for ratification soon.

New Paltz town candidates Tony Moriello, supervisor; Ted Lasher, clerk; Parks Glenn, justice; Ike Pole, superintendent of Highways; Dominick Srengola, councilman; Thomas Roach and William Schmalke Sr., assessors. Gardiner candidates present were Chris Eckert, supervisor; Vivian McCord, clerk; Warren McDowell, justice; Louis Bevier, councilman; Lou Denton, superintendent of highways; John Otis and Cletus Schiller, assessors; and Gilbert Tice, tax collector.

Alamo City's 250th Year

$156-Million Party Planned

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The nearly completed 622-foot Tower of the Americas that soars above all the other buildings in the city and can be seen from miles away.

The exposition site, two blocks from the Alamo in the heart of downtown, is now 92 acres of dusty trails, concrete ditches, skeleton-like structural steel and immense holes.

But an around-the-clock construction schedule is expected to turn it into a park of svelte landscaping, sweeping modern buildings and slickly styled exhibits.

Tickets went on sale July 1 and more than 1.1 million have already been sold. Some of the city's hotels took their first reservations for fair visitors months ago.

Twenty-three governments, including the United States and the states of Arkansas and Texas, have signed on an exhibitors. Texas is sinking $10 million into a permanent structure and the United States is paying out $6.7 million for a two-building exhibition.

Fifteen private or industrial exhibitors are also drawing up plans for HemisFair.

Lessons of Past Wars

Air Power Limited Against Dug-in Enemy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran U.S. officers say the battle of Con Thien is driving home again lessons learned in World War II and Korea: Massive airpower and big gun power have only limited effect in silencing a dug-in enemy.

These officers, many of whom saw action in both earlier wars, said the only way to do the job is to send in infantry to root out enemy batteries burrowed into holes and caves.

Current U.S. policy forbids any U.S. infantry attacks across the border into North Vietnam, from which most of the Communist artillery fire is aimed at Con Thien.

U.S. sources said the North Vietnamese have arrayed between 75 and 125 artillery pieces north of the Ben Hai River boundary.

These Soviet-designed guns, ranging from 85 to 152 millimeters, have been pounding the U.S. Marine outpost, some 2½ miles south of the demilitarized zone, for nearly a month.

U.S. batteries have fired as many as 10,000 shells at the North Vietnamese guns in a single day.

10 Times More

This was 10 times as many as the North Vietnamese guns were throwing at Con Thien.

In addition, waves of U.S. bombers and fighter bombers dumped 600,000 pounds of high explosive on enemy positions.

The American officers said it appears the Communists wheel their artillery out of caves and tunnels to fire, and then probably roll them back in under cover.

In addition, Communist mortars ranging from 60 millimeter to 120 millimeter weapons, fire into the outpost from positions inside South Vietnam, west and south of Con Thien. These mortars are believed dug into deep holes.

Experts said American shells and bombs would have to score direct hits or near bursts to collapse the caves, tunnels and holes from which the Communists are pumping rounds into the Marine outpost.

The Communist artillery and mortars are believed highly mobile, so that they probably are shifted from position to position after bursts of fire. This makes them hard to hit, too.

So far as is known here, the Communist positions for the most part are not reinforced with concrete, but may be shored up with timber.

The Marines have available to them a new Army-produced mobile radar designed to detect the positions of mortars and other high angle weapons such as howitzers.

The specifications say these mortars can locate a position with an accuracy of about 160 feet at a range up to about six miles.

But officers acknowledge that the radar has limitations, in that it emits a relatively narrow beam and must be pointed in the direction from which the enemy's fire comes in order to spot the trajectory and plot it back to the mortar or howitzer position.

There is a difference in opinion among U.S. military men here as to how severely the American air and artillery barrage may be punishing the North Vietnamese gunners and mortar men.

Cite Heavy Losses

One U.S. Army artillery authority said the North Vietnamese "have to be suffering tremendously."

He said he considers "remarkable that they are willing to take heavy losses in people and guns and keep on with the shelling."

But other Americans who remember World War II and Korea dispute the belief that the enemy is being badly bloodied.

"I ran into this kind of thing on Iwo Jima and Okinawa," said one Marine officer.

"If they get enough cover, it's hard to knock them out even with a direct hit."

Record Bond Sale Reported

At a gathering Sunday night, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Streifer of Old Hurley at their home, over 75 men and women from Kingston and surrounding areas participated in purchasing a record amount of State of Israel Bonds.

The speaker of the evening was Lew Norman. Norman pointed out that the State of Israel, as a result of the six-day war, has prevented the destruction of its people. At the same time, he said that the material damage to the State of Israel, from the conflict, amounts to over one billion dollars at this time, and the Israel Bond drive is needed more than ever before to repair the economic loss to the country. Over $171,000,000 has been purchased to date by Israel Bond buyers. The national goal set for this year is $250,000,000.

Streifer, acting as host, introduced also Alfred D. Ronder and Herman G. Rafalowsky, general co-chairmen of the drive, who urged those not attending the gathering, to make their purchases as soon as possible.

The audience gave a special vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Streifer for their hospitality. Streifer was presented with a special plaque in honor of an outstanding service to the State of Israel Bond Program.

14-Year-Old Held

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police have placed a juvenile delinquency charge against a 14-year-old Buffalo youth accused in the stabbing-robbery of a 73-year-old storekeeper during last Saturday's holdup of his delicatessen.

Police said the youth will be petitioned to Family Court while hospital authorities said the storekeeper, Frank Shalala, also of Buffalo, remained in fair condition with knife wounds in the stomach and chest at Emergency Hospital.

Less than $15 was taken in the robbery of the store on the city's near East Side Saturday, police said. The delicatessen had been robbed of $14 and burglarized for $115 in merchandise earlier in the month, they added.

Police said the youth in custody lives on S. Division St. The store is at 135 Eagle St.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Katrine Cubs Start Season

Cub Scout Pack 10 began its 1967-1968 program with a well attended organizational meeting at the Lake Katrine School Auditorium on Monday evening.

This program, which was presented by Cubmaster Stewart B. Farley, Jr., with the assistance of other leaders in the pack, was designed to acquaint prospective Cub Scouts and their parents with the Cub Scout Trail, and to explain to boys already registered as Cub Scouts the modernization in Cub Scouting, especially with regard to the Webelos den. Following the general meeting, Farley met with those boys interested in joining the pack, where parental participation is vitally needed. Display tables about the room illustrated the ranks in Cub Scouting — Bobcat, Wolf, Bear, and Webelos, and exhibited projects completed by the Cubs in their den meetings.

Following the traditional pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, Robert Bechmann, Ontario Trail District Scout Executive, presented the charter of Pack 10 and a Boy's Life Merit Award to Robert Ryf, institutional representative from the Ruby Rod and Gun Club which sponsors the pack. Also introduced was Roger Scholl, Pack Chairman; William McFadden, Webelos Den Leader; Walter Vasilevich, Advancements; Jerry Lieberman, pack treasurer, and Charles Fowler, former Cubmaster. Assisted by Cub Bart Farley, the Cubmaster illustrated with the use of a mobile, how Cub Scouting Rounds a Boy Out.

Den, 2, under the leadership of Mrs. John McCooley and Mrs. Farley presented a skit—showing a typical den meeting, which included pledge to the flag, uniform inspection, attendance and dues, work on projects, presentations of advancement projects, fun time, refreshments, and closing.

The following advancements were made by Vasilevich: Bear Badge—David Smith and Tim Chase. Silver Arrows—Danny Sainsbury, Tim Chase, and John Siphers. David Smith received a one year pin and membership cards were presented to Arthur Shaw, Bill Wynkoop, and John Siphers.

Certificates of appreciation were given by Farley to Den Chiefs John Augustine, Paul Fowler, and Jim Corrigan, and to Den Mothers Mrs. John McCooley, Mrs. Ted Pfeiffer, who also received a two year service star, and Mrs. Jack Chase. Den 1 won the attendance flag for having the highest percentage of attendance at the meeting and will keep it in their den for one month.

The following themes were announced: October—Westward Ho; November—Around the World; December—Do Your Best; January—Communications; February—Freedom Festival; March—Rivers of the World; April—Keep America Beautiful; May—Davy Jones Locker.

Cubmaster Farley brought the meeting to a close by announcing these important dates: Oct. 2, 8 p. m.—Leaders Meeting, home of Mr. Vasilevich; Oct. 9, 8 p. m.—Den Mothers meeting and training, home of Mr. and Mrs. Farley; Oct. 14, 1 p. m.—Cub-O-Lympics, at Forsyth Park; Oct. 16, 8 p. m.—Roundtable, at Redeemer Lutheran Church, and Oct. 20, 7 p. m.—Pack 10 meeting at Lake Katrine School.

C-H Has No Power Plant Plans for Putnam Site

Lelan F. Sillin Jr., president and chief executive officer of Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., in a statement today made two points clear in view of the renewed discussion of the possibility of Central Hudson's construction of a hydro-electric plant at Breakneck Ridge, Putnam County.

"First, we have repeatedly stated over the past few years that no power plant on that site would be considered until after 1975 and that, in any development there, we would give every consideration to the public interest in aesthetics, conservation and recreation," Sillin said.

"Second, I wish to state categorically that we now have no plans for such a plant and that in fact we have been actively investigating since early 1966 how the property could be retained in its natural state as part of a major park complex," Sillin continued.

"We have always had a deep interest in conservation and the preservation of the scenic and historic values of the Hudson Valley. We have demonstrated our interest and concern for these qualities, for example, by our active participation in the work of the regional planning and development organization, Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress; the Hudson River Valley Commission; the White House Conference on Natural Beauty; the Governor's Conference on Natural Beauty; and the Electric Utility Industry Task Force on Environment which is working for the President's Citizens Advisory Committee on Recreation and Natural Beauty.

"Notes Cooperation

"Further, we cooperated with Governor Rockefeller's group in connection with the Georgia Pacific Corporation's projected wallboard plant at Little Stony Point, just south of Breakneck, and suggested various alternate sites—although Georgia Pacific's decision finally took the project, an important user of power, bevond Central Hudson's service area.

"We have hoped that if the Breakneck property is devoted to park and recreational purposes it would reassure those concerned that an approval of the essential Storm King project would not result in a proliferation of pumped storage projects in the gorge area. We must, however, have the understanding of all concerned that it is necessary for Central Hudson to provide for the expanding power requirements of the area it serves and to participate in meeting the electric requirements of other utility systems with which it is interconnected.
To these essential ends we are currently studying nuclear power development of the Ward Manor site Central Hudson owns north of Poughkeepsie. We would hope that members of conservation groups would not only applaud our interest in making Breakneck an important part of a major park complex but would in turn show understanding for our needs to develop thermal plants at other sites in less scenic areas to meet essential future power requirements."
Sillin stated that he could not elaborate further on the statement at this time.

MABELLE C. MIX

Offers Help For Teachers Of Handicapped

Delegates from over 50 counties met at Randolph House in Syracuse Sept. 23, to make final arrangements for the conference to be held at the Concord Hotel, at Kiamasha Lake Nov. 2-5. Teachers of the Mentally Handicapped from all over N. Y. State have organized as the New York State Association of Teachers of the Mentally Handicapped in their effort to upgrade their profession, and serve more children who need individual assistance. Their first big conference will be this first week in November. Teachers are already making reservations.

Mrs. Mabelle C. Mix, who was the delegates from Ulster County, has been teaching the Special Education classes in Kingston for several years. She holds permanent certification in both elementary and special education. After graduating from Houghton College with a BA in education, she took graduate work at the New York U. of Education at Geneseo, and at Russell Sage U. She now resides at 362 South Wall Street and would be glad to help any teacher who wishes further information. A welcome to attend the conference is extended to parents, as non-members, they will find the displays and speakers of vital interest to them.

Five Constables At Penal Briefing

Woodstock Supervisor William R. West, has announced that Chief Constable Paul Senecal, Constables William Watrous, Charles Wolven, Edward Snyder and Albert Thon recently attended a briefing regarding the new Penal Code. With several recent changes in the laws and some precedent setting court decisions, efficient police work requires thorough familiarity with the Penal Code.

The session was held Wednesday, Sept. 20 at the Woodstock school. A motion picture was shown through courtesy of Joseph P. Tortora, Ulster County district attorney, who has been working closely with law enforcement officers in the region.

Barone Drug Trial Begins

Trial of a defendant arrested in a systematically planned and simultaneously executed narcotic drive in southern Ulster County last December, was commenced Wednesday afternoon in County Court before County Judge Raymond J. Mino. Thomas Barone, 23, of 36 North Avenue, Beacon, is charged with possession and sale of a narcotic drug. He was one of 11 apprehended in the raid.

Following completion of a jury Tuesday, Assistant District Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon Wednesday afternoon called as his first witness a New York City Narcotics Squad detective who had been assigned as an undercover man in the New Paltz area where Barone allegedly sold marijuana to the detective.

The officer testified he had contacted Barone at a New Paltz pool room, made an appointment and met Barone on Main Street outside the pool room where he was given marijuana and paid $25. A companion officer also allegedly made a buy. The sale allegedly took place November 22, 1966, the arrest followed after grand jury indictments had been returned.

Barone is represented by Seymour Werbalowsky.

The case was being continued today.

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

Peter Barmann writes:

"I have received five of your packages so far and I want to say thanks. It is really nice to receive these packages. I look forward to them when I am in the field. They bring up the morale of the men when I get things like that."

"The food doesn't last very long but it is good while it lasts. The other items like tooth paste and soap are swell. We are supposed to get CARE packages in the field with those items in them, but they give us about three tubes of tooth paste and three tooth brushes for a whole company."

"I guess when those items go from the big wheels around here to us there isn't much left. I guess they expect us to share it, which is not easy to do."

"From what I hear, I guess there are a lot of men from Kingston here in Vietnam and more will be coming. A lot of them are lucky and get a job in the rear such as clerks, cooks, etc."

"But I am just a regular line trooper who sees base camp about two or three times a month. I have been here almost five months and slept on my cot about 20 times, if that many. But it is only for a year so I can put up with it. I have too."

"Again I say thanks and I appreciate the gifts very much. Thanks to everyone who made those gifts possible."

David Dean writes:

"I want to say thanks for the many packages I have received from your organization in the last few weeks."

"Being in a foreign country many miles from home gets very lonely and it is a good feeling to know that the people back home care."

"I'm sure the appreciation is felt not only by myself but by all the GIs receiving your gifts. Thank you."

Has anyone ever told you you talk a lot?

Most people do, you know. Talk a lot. Especially on the telephone. 600 calls a year, on the average. But you can't really blame them.

At today's rates, a telephone call is one of the biggest bargains you can buy.

Anywhere in the continental United States (except Alaska) for a dollar or less.* Anywhere in New York State for 50¢ or less.*

And that's not all. There has been an overall reduction in long distance rates since 1940. And more than 40% of the calls you paid long distance charges for ten years ago are now local calls.

At rates like these, you can afford to talk to your heart's content. Which is the way we want it. If talk is cheap, blame it on the phone company.

*For three minutes, station-to-station, plus tax, after 8 pm weekdays and all day Sundays.

Minor Household Tasks Upsets Family Harmony

Tread easy, wives, our government says 26 per cent of all marriages are ending in divorce and a family relations gal says husbands are complaining about treatment at home after a day's struggle in the office.

Listen to some of the complaints from men yearning for a comfortable chair. "I come home exhausted from a rough day at the office," said one man, "and my wife hands me a wrench at the door for fixing the leaky faucet. Next on the list is a sticky window. Don't ask me what was third, I didn't stay long enough to find out."

Another man said, "... a cigarette made a burn on our tile floor and guests were coming so 'fix it right away' she says. Well, I'm no handyman and I sure wasn't in a mood for guests when I finished the job."

The Family Research Division made a study of these complaints and Mrs. Bessie Clay, their family relations expert said "... it is worth noting that most divorces are non-working wives."

Perhaps wives should remember the old fable about "For want of a nail, a kingdom was lost." You know, very simple tasks become huge when handed to an exhausted husband. Family harmony is improved when wives do minor home repairs. And this is where we can pass on some tips.

Wife's Job Says Expert

Mrs. Clay is of the opinion that a drippy faucet, for example, can be fixed by the wife. You simply use the wrench to turn off the water at its source beneath the sink. The same tool is easily used to take the faucet apart. Then, with a screwdriver, the worn washer is detached from the spindle and a new one installed.

Another simple job is replacing the out-of-shape float ball in the toilet tank. Just unscrew the ball from the lift wire and replace it.

Easy Tasks

As for that cigarette burn on the floor tile, if it's the easy-care resilient asphalt tile or vinyl asbestos, the burn may be erased by lightly rubbing with fine steel wool, as can marks from heels.

Part of the reason for a husband's "overreaction" to such repairs is that they are so simple. Take the problem of the sticky window. There are no-stick crayons in tubular shapes which grease the edges and allow windows and drawers to slide more easily. And sandpapering sticky edges, if necessary, is no major job either.

If a fuse blows and all lights go out, the first thing to do is find the main control switch and, after making sure you stand on a dry surface, throw the switch to off position. Then check all appliances to see if an overload of current is responsible. If so, correct the situation, then remove the blown fuse and screw in another.

The study made by the Research Division shows that 90% of the tasks a wife piles up for a tired hubby can be performed with equal efficiency by feminine hands. More difficult work should be done by outside repairmen. In the process—saved, one marriage.

Barbara J. Fowler Weds A. Badalato

Badalato, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mr. Badalato is a 1966 graduate of Brockport State with a Bachelor of Science degree in Health and Physical Education. He is now serving with the U. S. Army stationed at Fort Dix, N. CHOICE OF WEARING OF UNIFORM UP TO OFF-DUTY SERVICEMEN

Dear Mrs. Post: No hard feelings, but people who set themselves up as experts on etiquette should check on their facts. On the question of wearing a uniform for his wedding, a Marine would be subject to Marine orders instead of your or his fiancée's wishes. When I was in the service—army—a serviceman was required to wear his uniform when in the company of three or more persons, not of his immediate family, even in his own home. Regulations may, of course, have changed. The point that I wish to make is that all servicemen are subject to the orders and regulations of their respective services and are so instructed when going on leave or furlough, as to proper dress and behavior.—George Hughes Jr.

Sweet Adelines Entertain at Lions Meeting

Thirteen members of the Colonial Chapter, Sweet Adelines of Kingston, presented the program at the Tuesday meeting of the Kingston Lions Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The woman's chorus sang several selections to the pleasure of the local Lions. George Siversky, program chairman, presented the girls to the club. Sweet Adeline president, Barbara Bondar, outlined their history and background. The Sweet Adelines are an international organization numbering over 450 groups.

The local Kingston group includes girls from Kingston, Saugerties, Hurley and other surrounding towns. They meet regularly for practice and are presently planning their first concert at the George Washington High School. That Perfect Doll, on Nov. 11. The principal interest of the girls is to get together and sing. Barbara Bondar added.

Five selections were presented including, Sweet Adeline, Be My Little Baby Bumble Bee and He's All Alone.

A Request that Hostess Send Invitations Well Ahead

The following letter needs no answer. From one working girl to another, I agree with Miss Rindfusz—I have the same problem myself.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am at an age when many of my friends are either getting married or having their first baby. Consequently, I am invited to a number of bridal and baby showers. But many of the women giving the showers fail to mail out the invitations even a week in advance. I am a working girl and so when I arrive home Monday night to find an invitation to a shower on Thursday, it is almost impossible for me to find the time to buy a present. Please tell your readers that received seven to 10 days before the shower. Then I would have a weekend in which to select a present, instead of running all over town in the evening trying to find a store that is still open.—Nancy Rindfusz

"Number of Persons" on Reply Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Please tell me if the wording "Number of persons" is correct on a reply card for a confirmation reception?—Eve

Dear Eve: I do not approve of putting "Number of persons" on a reply card because many people might feel that this would indicate that any number of family might attend, and the guest list could grow astronomically.

Post tells you everything you need to know—for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister, or anyone else. Minor Household Tasks Upsets Family Harmony

Tread easy, wives, our government says 26 per cent of all marriages are ending in divorce and a family relations gal says husbands are complaining about treatment at home after a day's struggle in the office.

Listen to some of the complaints from men yearning for a comfortable chair. "I come home exhausted from a rough day at the office," said one man, "and my wife hands me a wrench at the door for fixing the leaky faucet. Next on the list is a sticky window. Don't ask me what was third, I didn't stay long enough to find out."

Another man said, "... a cigarette made a burn on our tile floor and guests were coming so 'fix it right away' she says. Well, I'm no handyman and I sure wasn't in a mood for guests when I finished the job."

The Family Research Division made a study of these complaints and Mrs. Bessie Clay, their family relations expert said "... it is worth noting that most divorcees are non-working wives."

Perhaps wives should remember the old fable about "For want of a nail, a kingdom was lost." You know, very simple tasks become huge when handed to an exhausted husband. Family harmony is improved when wives do minor home repairs. And this is where we can pass on some tips.

Wife's Job Says Expert

Mrs. Clay is of the opinion that a drippy faucet, for example, can be fixed by the wife. You simply use the wrench to turn off the water at its source beneath the sink. The same tool is easily used to take the faucet apart. Then, with a screwdriver, the worn washer is detached from the spindle and a new one installed.

Another simple job is replacing the out-of-shape float ball in the toilet tank. Just unscrew the ball from the lift wire and replace it.

Easy Tasks

As for that cigarette burn on the floor tile, if it's the easy-care resilient asphalt tile or vinyl asbestos, the burn may be erased by lightly rubbing with fine steel wool, as can marks from heels.

Part of the reason for a husband's "overreaction" to such repairs is that they are so simple. Take the problem of the sticky window. There are no-stick crayons in tubular shapes which grease the edges and allow windows and drawers to slide more easily. And sand papering sticky edges, if necessary, is no major job either.

If a fuse blows and all lights go out, the first thing to do is find the main control switch and, after making sure you stand on a dry surface, throw the switch to off position. Then check all appliances to see if an overload of current is responsible. If so, correct the situation, then remove the blown fuse and screw in another.

WALTER TRAMPLER

Hudson Valley Philharmonic Lists Concerts

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society will open their cultural and social season November 13 featuring Walter Trampler, noted violinist. The orchestra will be performing once again under the direction of Claude Monteux. Other concerts will be: January 22, Alice Smiley, violinist and Philharmonic concertmistress; March 18, Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists; May 6, Adele Addison, soprano.

Noted Soprano
Adele Addison, will be heard in concert at Kingston Community Theatre on May 6, 1968. Miss Addison's annual American tour is under the aegis of famed Impresario S. Hurok.

The soprano's current season includes performances with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, with whom she often appears, and other orchestras, as well as a number of recitals in the U. S. and Canada.

Brought up in Springfield, Mass., Miss Addison's training was at Westminster Choir College in Princeton and at Berkshire Music School in Tanglewood. Her first appearances in Boston and New York brought critical raves and launched her into the front rank of American singers. The soprano's records include several performances with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, and she was also the Bess of the motion picture soundtrack of "Porgy and Bess."

"One of the Finest"
Last season the N. Y. Herald Tribune critic described Adele as "one of our finest singing artists, bar none," and Louis Biancoli in the N. Y. World Telegram and Sun said, "She is rapidly moving into first place among American sopranos."

Something of a specialist in rare and difficult music, as well as in the regular repertory, the soprano was one of the American artists for whom the Ford Foundation first commissioned compositions. A New York Times critic has made the comment, "Vocal and musical difficulties that would cause most sopranos to faint at the sight of them merely inspired her to heights of extraordinary lyric expression."

Miss Addison didn't plan to become a professional singer. In fact, teachers and friends kept pushing her along the path from the eighth grade onwards. It wasn't until she was enrolled in Westminster Choir School that the soprano began to feel her vocation. It came to her as she gave a series of free recitals on the campus.

"Hard Work"
However, "It isn't a glamorous career that is the goal of all this hard work," said Miss Addison. "If you want to know, there is very little glamour in a concert career."

"What keeps me going and striving," she added, "is the sheer joy I find in singing and the pleasure of continually seeking better ways of communication."

Miss Addison combines her career with marriage. Her husband, Norman Berger, is an instructor at New York University, engaged in research on prosthetics. Although he spends much of his time working and she travels so often, they manage to spend most of their weekends together.

Miss Addison's tour of the Soviet Union under the Cultural Exchange program recently won her great ovations and caused the Soviet Government to cancel an evening's television schedule to bring her final Moscow recital live to the entire nation.

One of the most versatile of contemporary singers, she moves with ease from fiendishly difficult modern music to popular operas like "La Boheme."

This season she will make some 50 appearances from coast-to-coast. Said Miss Addison, "Each program I give, whether it's the New York Philharmonic or the 'Y' is at the moment, the most important thing in the world for me. I know that the important thing is not whether or not one achieves certain standards of excellence that one holds up for oneself. It is to have the standards and work toward them. It's the work and the aim that are satisfying."

Incredible Agility
Walter Trampler has done more than perhaps any other man to gain recognition for the viola as an instrument with a voice and tone all its own. In his hands, the viola soars to magnificent heights of melodic beauty and demonstrates incredible technical agility, whether in works of the Classical or Baroque periods, or in contemporary concerti and solo pieces, many of which have been composed especially for him.

Born in Munich, he began his musical training at the age of six. At 17 he was touring Europe as a member of the famed Strub Quartet, and before he was 21, he occupied the chair of first violin with the Berlin Radio Symphony. A well-established concert career was interrupted by the war, escape to America and service in the U. S. Army.

In 1949 Mr. Trampler became founder-member of the New Music Quartet, which became, in its seven year history, an internationally revered organization.

In recent years, he has been featured artist at the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico, faculty soloist at the guest violinist with the Budapest and Juilliard String Quartets. He has appeared as soloist with major symphony orchestras from New York to Tokyo, where he capped a triumphant tour by a brilliant concert with the Japan

Philharmonic Society. Mr. Trampler had a sensational success as soloist in four consecutive appearances with New York Philharmonic. Harold Schonberg, music critic of the New York Times, wrote: "Walter Trampler's playing was as elegant and flawless an example of string work as one is going to hear. It had everything that one looks for."

At White House
Recently at the invitation of President and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Trampler performed a solo recital following a State Dinner at the White House.

For the past several summers this internationally renowned artist has divided his time between concertizing in Europe and relaxing at his home on a beautiful isle off the coast of Spain.

Mr. Trampler is also active as a distinguished professor at New York's Juilliard School of Music.

In addition to performing a larger repertoire of viola music than has been generally played in the last few decades, Mr. Trampler frequently varies his programs by including selections on the viola d'amore, a comparatively little-known instrument in modern times. His instruments are a recently acquired superb Amati Viola, 1620, and a 1743 Carcassi viola d'amore.

Mr. Trampler recently recorded the Brahms Sonatas and had recorded the Mozart Concertante with Isaac Stern in England during the summer of 1966.

Tickets Available
All Philharmonic concerts are given on Monday evening at 8:30 at Kingston Community Theatre.

Vassar College to Hold Dance Lecture

"Dances I Dance," a lecture-performance by Betty Jones and Fritz Ludin, will be presented in Avery Hall at Vassar College on Friday at 8:30 p. m. Miss Jones, a soloist in the Jose Limon Company, is one of the foremost dancers and teachers in the country. She has been especially acclaimed for her performance as Desdemona in Mr. Limon's, "The Moor's Pavane," a dramatic work based on "Othello." In addition to conducting her own classes in New York City, Miss Jones is a member of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music and of the Summer School of Dance at Connecticut College.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
Help! I've got a problem. I frequently put soft lead pencils in my shirt pocket. Some of these shirts are the wash-and-wear kind and these marks don't seem to ever come out.

What can I do about this?
Mr. E.

First of all, try a soft eraser. We had the best luck with this. DON'T use water. Erase marks when the material is completely dry. The next best thing we found was the gritty grey soap that many mechanics use. This works beautifully on nylon and dacron (you didn't say what kind of drip dries yours were!). When you rub the soap into the WET shirt marks, use a soft brush (or toothbrush) and scrub well. Rinse as usual.

Our chemist says that you can work detergent into the stains and then rinse it well. If any stain remains, suds with the same detergent and add a few drops of household ammonia and rub-a-dub-dub. Wash and rinse again.

Dear Heloise:

I use a sugar spoon for my children who are too small to use adult soup spoons. While it is shaped like a soup spoon and is larger than the regular ones, they can handle it better than an adult soup spoon.

Peg Billings

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:
... and without getting a thing done to show for it—my day has flown out the window.

Kire S.

Dear Heloise:

With three children using one bathroom, it presented a problem after bath time when towels were left strewn on the floor. Everyone bathed, but of course no one left HIS towel on the floor.

This problem was solved when we bought each child a different set and color of towels. Now when a towel is found on the floor, we know immediately who put it there. With this evidence at hand, there have been fewer towels found on the floor!

C. M. S.

Dear Heloise:

When a gelatin dessert is needed in a hurry, I use half hot water and stir. For the other half I use ice. Just put cubes in a cup and add cold water to the measuring line. Then stir with a metal spoon and leave it in the container while chilling in the refrigerator. I think the spoon helps speed setting of the gelatin.

Elia Summerlyn

Dear Heloise:

After washing our ash trays I find that if I spray a dab of my cologne in them it does away with cigarette odor. Also leaves a nice aroma in the house for a bit.

Mrs. C. H. Voight

Ever tried scented room air freshener in fizz cans? Marvelous and less expensive, too.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have started scrapbooks of newspaper clippings for my pre-schoolers. I cut out articles on our space projects, the war in Vietnam, current fashions, food prices and other things of interest.

When they read of these things in their schoolbooks, they will have the clippings to refer to. Not only will this make their studies more interesting, but they will also get much enjoyment from the changes in styles, cars, prices, etc., from year to year.

If well-preserved, the scrapbooks will make wonderful gifts for their children.

Sue Kenhart

Dear Heloise:

If you put suet out for the birds, try putting it in one of the strong mesh bags and tying it to the tree limb.

The birds can catch their claws on the mesh and have a perch that will enable them to get at the suet.

Elaine Steinhoff

Dear Heloise:

For those who live alone or who have very small families and do not eat much bread, here's a little trick I learned that saves me time and keeps the bread fresh.

When I bring a loaf home from the store, I put two or three slices of bread in little plastic sandwich bags and fold them over or staple them. Then I put all the bags in the crisper of my refrigerator.

When I need bread, I remove one envelope at a time and the rest is undisturbed.

Mrs. A. S. K.

Dear Heloise:

The bread manufacturers tell me that frozen bread does not age. They also say it can be kept frozen indefinitely if held airtight with plastic, etc.

So, if you have room in the freezing compartment of your refrigerator, keep your bread in there.

It's a good idea for those who live alone, or who are on special diets and must not eat too much bread, to do only a half loaf this way and put the remaining half in your freezer.

Your little individual plastic sandwich sacks may be used over and over again and need NOT be wasted.

WALTER TRAMPLER

Hudson Valley Philharmonic Lists Concerts

The Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society will open their cultural and social season November 13 featuring Walter Trampler, noted violinist. The orchestra will be performing once again under the direction of Claude Monteux. Other concerts will be: January 22, Alice Smiley, violinist and Philharmonic concertmistress; March 18, Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists; May 6, Adele Addison, soprano.

Noted Soprano

Noted American soprano, Adele Addison, will be heard in concert at Kingston Community Theatre on May 6, 1968. Miss Addison's annual American tour is under the aegis of famed impresario S. Hurok.

The soprano's current season includes performances with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, with whom she often appears, and other orchestras, as well as a number of recitals in the U. S. and Canada.

Brought up in Springfield, Mass., Miss Addison's training was at Westminster Choir College in Princeton and at Berkshire Music School in Tanglewood. Her first appearances in Boston and New York brought critical raves and launched her into the front rank of American singers. The soprano's records include several performances with Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, and she was also the Bess of the motion picture soundtrack of "Porgy and Bess."

'One of the Finest'

Last season the N. Y. Herald Tribune critic described Adele as "one of our finest singing artists, bar none," and Louis Biancolli in the N. Y. World-Telegram and Sun said, "She is rapidly moving into first place among American sopranos."

Something of a specialist in rare and difficult music, as well as in the regular repertory, the soprano was one of the American artists for whom the Ford Foundation first commissioned compositions. A New York Times critic has made the comment, "Vocal and musical difficulties that would cause most sopranos to faint at the sight of them merely inspired her to heights of extraordinary lyric expression."

Miss Addison didn't plan to become a professional singer. In fact, teachers and friends kept pushing her along the path from the eighth grade onwards. It wasn't until she was enrolled in Westminster Choir School that the soprano began to feel her vocation. It came to her as she gave a series of free recitals on the campus.

'Hard Work'

However, "It isn't a glamorous career that is the goal of all this hard work," said Miss Addison. "If you want to know, there is very little glamor in a concert career." "What keeps me going and striving," she added, "is the sheer joy I find in singing and the pleasure of continually seeking better ways of communication."

Miss Addison combines her career with marriage. Her husband, Norman Berger, is an instructor at New York University, engaged in research on prosthetics. Although he spends much of his time working and she travels so often, they manage to spend most of their weekends together.

Miss Addison's tour of the Soviet Union under the Cultural Exchange program recently won her great ovations and caused the Soviet Government to cancel an evening's television schedule to bring her final Moscow recital live to the entire nation.

One of the most versatile of contemporary singers, she moves with ease from fiendishly difficult modern music to popular operas like "La Boheme."

This season she will make some 50 appearances from coast-to-coast. Said Miss Addison, "Each program I give, whether it's the New York Philharmonic or the 'Y,' is at the moment, the most important thing in the world for me. I know that the important thing is not whether or not one achieves certain standards of excellence that one holds up for oneself. It is to have the standards and work toward them. It's the work and the aim that are satisfying."

Incredible Agility

Walter Trampler has done more than perhaps any other man to gain recognition for the viola as an instrument with a voice and tone all its own. In his hands, the viola soars to magnificent heights of melodic beauty and demonstrates incredible technical agility, whether in works of the Classical or Baroque periods, or in contemporary concert and solo pieces, many of which have been composed especially for him.

Born in Munich, he began his musical training at the age of six. At 17 he was touring Europe as a member of the famed Strub Quartet, and before he was 21, he occupied the chair of first violin with the Berlin Radio Symphony. A well-established concert career was interrupted by the war, escape to America and service in the U. S. Army.

In 1949 Mr. Trampler became founder-member of the New Music Quartet, which became, in its seven year history, an internationally revered organization.

In recent years, he has been featured artist at the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico, faculty soloist at the Aspen Festival, and regular guest violinist with the Budapest and Juilliard String Quartets. He has appeared as soloist with major symphony orchestras from New York to Tokyo, where he capped a triumphant tour by a brilliant concert with the Japan

Philharmonic Society. Mr. Trampler had a sensational success as soloist in four consecutive appearances with New York Philharmonic. Harold Schonberg, music critic of the New York Times, wrote: "Walter Trampler's playing was as elegant and flawless an example of string work as one is going to hear. It had everything that one looks for."

At White House

Recently at the invitation of President and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Trampler performed a solo recital following a State Dinner at the White House.

For the past several summers this internationally renowned artist has divided his time between concertizing in Europe and relaxing at his home on a beautiful island off the coast of Spain.

Mr. Trampler is also active as a distinguished professor at New York's Juilliard School of Music.

In addition to performing a larger repertoire of viola music than has been generally played in the last few decades, Mr. Trampler frequently varies his programs by including selections on the viola d'amore, a comparatively little-known instrument in modern times. His instruments are a recently acquired superb Amati Viola, 1620, and a 1743 Carcassi viola d'amore.

Mr. Trampler recently recorded the Brahms Sonatas and had recorded the Mozart Concertante with Isaac Stern in England during the summer of 1966.

Tickets Available

All Philharmonic concerts are given on Monday evening at 8:30 at Kingston Community Theatre.

New Rochelle at Dietz Stadium

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

During his 18-year tenure as head football coach at New Rochelle High School, Lou Amoson has had only one losing season. That occurred way back in 1952, when the Purple Wave finished with a 3-4-1 record.

Last week, the Westchester County gridders began Amoson's 19th season on a dismal note, losing 23-0 to Archbishop Stepinac. It marked the first time the team had lost an opener since 1958, when Mt. St. Michael of the Bronx scored a 20-6 victory.

NOT SINCE 1949 had New Rochelle suffered a shutout. The Purple Wave went through 106 games since being whitewashed by Stamford, Conn., 34-0.

Amoson's overall mark at New Rochelle is a glittering 103-29-5. The name of the game is winning, and that's Amoson's forte.

Another trick is scoring and the Purple Wave have scored 3,134 points in 137 games under Amoson, an average of 22.9. They have limited the opposition to 1,434 (10.5 average).

The shutout was only the fourth an Amoson coached team has suffered. To make the record even more impressive is the fact that New Rochelle always has trouble scheduling opponents. The school has had to travel far and wide because of its winning reputation.

WHEN THE PURPLE WAVE invades Dietz Stadium Saturday for a meeting with Bill Hurley's Kingston High gridders, the locals will be seeking their first victory over the Westchesterites since 1958, the last year of Hobi Armstrong's brilliant career.

For the first time since this series was resumed, the visitors will be opposing KHS without a win or a point to show for the season.

New Rochelle lost its opener in 1958, Kingston stopped the Purple Wave. Since that time, the locals have not turned the trick on the Westchester eleven. This marks the first season since '58 that New Rochelle did not open with a decision.

AL MILLER, who left his head soccer job at New Paltz to take the position as coach at Hartwick College, is faced with the most difficult schedule in the history of the Oneonta school.

The squad opens Saturday at Fairleigh Dickinson and in rapid succession, faces the likes of Colgate, Ithaca, Army, Clarkson, NYU and Howard University, among others.

Miller, who built a near dynasty at New Paltz, has as his athletic director Jim Konstanty, the one-time great relief pitcher with the Philadelphia Phillies.

It's quite a challenge to Miller but we know he'll meet it and come through with flying colors.

McCormick Notches 21st Win of Season

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants are making their move — about a month too late.

The lineal descendants of the perpetrators of the 1951 comeback from 13½ games back to the pennant suddenly are as hot a team as there is to be found in baseball. Trouble is, the season ends this weekend, effectively preventing another miracle.

The Giants beat the Mets 7-2 Wednesday with Willie McCovey hitting a grand-slam homer, his second bases-loaded shot in four days, and Willie Mays belting a solo blast. Mays had two on Tuesday—he has 22 for the season—and McCovey also hit one in that game.

Another event of note in the game was Mike McCormick's 21st victory. Certain to get attention in the balloting for Comeback Player of the Year, McCormick became the winning Giant left-hander since Johnny Antonelli won 21 games in 1954, also pennant-winning year for the Giants.

In other National League games Wednesday, Houston shut out Philadelphia 1-0 in 11 innings and Pittsburgh beat Los Angeles 1-0. St. Louis at Chicago and Atlanta at Cincinnati were rained out.

McCovey's homer, his 30th, came off Tug McGraw in a six-run third-inning outburst. Mays hit his 564th lifetime shot in the fifth.

The Giants are now 9½ games behind St. Louis, as close as any team has been to the Cards, who clinched the pennant long ago, in recent memory.

Jim Bunning of the Phillies and Mike Cuellar of the Astros were locked in a brilliant pitching duel until the 11th when Rusty Staub doubled with two out and scored on Chuck Harrison's single. Both pitchers allowed six hits.

Bob Veale stopped the Dodgers on five hits and the Pirates got the only run of the game in the fourth inning when Roberto Clemente followed Matty Alou's triple with a single.

Lions' Offense Getting Better

By WHITEY SAWYER

Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Mike Lucci has a simple explanation for the new-found success of the Detroit Lions.

"We're just playing a lot better," said the middle linebacker.

The defense was the National Football League Lions' strong suit for years, but this year the offense, sparked by the running of rookie Mel Farr, has grabbed the attention.

The Lions tied the world champion Green Bay Packers 17-17 in their season opener, then crushed Cleveland 31-14 Sunday.

Lucci thinks the defense is better, too, and gives a lot of credit to new coach Joe Schmidt and defensive coach Jim David.

"We've got a couple of new defenses which gives us something to go to in case we're getting hurt," he said, "and that's something we didn't have before."

Schmidt was the middle linebacker for the Lions for 13 years, but when he retired last year and became an assistant coach Lucci took over the job. He filled in capably, intercepting five passes last year. The 27-year-old athlete stands 6-foot-2 and weighs 235 pounds.

There have been a lot of changes in the Lion defense this year, but Lucci thinks they've helped. Lem Barney, a rookie, moved in at cornerback. Jerry Rush took over at tackle when veteran Roger Brown was traded.

The first home appearance of both Kingston and Saugerties, pivotal games in the UCL and DCSL and some enticing non-league engagements are on tap this Saturday around the area.

Pine Plains at Red Hook

Marlboro at New Paltz

Rondout at Pine Bush

Pius X at Port Jervis

Wappingers at Cardinal

Hopes for Improvement

Coach Bill Hurley, hoping his Kingston High gridders have recovered from their opening game jitters, is looking for a vast improvement against New Rochelle, always a Westchester County power.

Like Kingston, this is a rebuilding year for the Huguenots. They lost 36 via graduation and coach Lou Amoson is working on members of a strong jayvee which went 6-2 last year.

New Rochelle lost its opener, 23-0, last week at Archbishop Stepinac but the Huguenots showed flashes of good football.

Hurley, who had to suffer through one of the longest games of his coaching career, said the locals have bounced back in the practice sessions and should be ready for the visitors.

He plans no lineup changes but indicated that quarterback Mike Hoffman would probably pass against the seven man line of New Rochelle.

The game at Dietz Stadium is the first of five at home for the KHS gridders.

Saugerties, which beat Christian Brothers Academy in everything but the score, will commence its home season against an Arlington team which was beaten, 20-7, by powerful Newburgh Free Academy.

Despite the 14-12 setback in Albany, coach Fred Seither said the Sawyers showed a lot of potential. He feels, however, it will take a superior effort to trim the Admirals, who are opening defense of their DCSL championship.

OCS Hosts Highland

will send Highland's defending titleholder to Boiceville for a meeting with Ontario Central. Both squads won their circuit openers last week. Highland beat Pine Bush, 14-0, while Ontario used a field goal to nip New Paltz, 3-0.

Though the Highlanders didn't flash their usual good defense, fullback Charles Hicks impressed with a pair of fifty runs, one of them for 70 yards. The team's defense was strong.

Coach Paul Jordan is looking for an improvement from his Ontario gridders. John Adait, the senior fullback, is tough inside but he lacks the speed to go outside. If Fred Middletown, a 5-8, 150-pound senior can furnish the outside speed, look for the Indians to remain solid contenders. Middletown saw brief service against New Paltz.

Ganders Solid Pick

Rondout Valley, the most explosive club during the early season, puts its unblemished mark on the line at Pine Bush and Coach Chick Meehan's Ganders are solid favorites. The Bushmen haven't scored in two starts while Rondout has rolled up 96 points with Gordie Taylor's seven touchdowns showing the way.

...In another circuit test, Marlboro travels to New Paltz to meet the improved Huguenots. The Ducks are 2-0 for the young season while New Paltz is 1-1. But, the home side has showed a rugged defense, allowing only three points in two starts.

Lourdes at Beacon

In addition to the Arlington at Saugerties DCSL game, Wappingers visits Cardinal Farley, Poughkeepsie is at Roosevelt and Lourdes plays at Beacon. The visitors are slight favorites in each of these contests.

Red Hook swings into its Bi-Valley League schedule when it entertains Pine Plains. The Hookers have split two non-league engagements.

Two other DCSO clubs will be in action as Middletown visits rugged Mt. Vernon and Port Jervis has a toughie at home against Pius X.

Ellenville, which doesn't play league games, travels to Oakwood for a meeting with the Dutchess County school. The Ellies were beaten, 25-12, by Jeffersonville but they displayed a good offensive punch.

The Day the White Sox Will Never Forget

WELL, WHAT DO YOU expect me to say seems to be the expression of stunned Chicago White Sox manager Eddie Stanky, stroking his chin, after Sox's devastating double loss to Kansas City A's and virtual elimination from the AL pennant race Wednesday. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

A's Deal Death Blow

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky's Walking Dead finally appear to have died, stricken with the last lethal blows from a most unexpected source.

Poised to seize the lead in the daffy American League pennant race Wednesday night, the Chicago White Sox instead tumbled to fourth place, just an eyelash away from elimination.

The villains were the usually harmless Kansas City Athletics, whose lease to the cellar has been locked up for weeks. The A's swept a two-night double-header from the White Sox 5-2 and 4-0, leaving Chicago with nothing more to hope for than a slim chance of forcing a playoff.

Front-running Minnesota bowed to California 5-1 and Boston dropped its second straight to Cleveland 6-0 Wednesday afternoon. Detroit was idle. That meant that when the White Sox took the field against the A's, they were a mere one-half game behind the Twins and led the three other contenders in the vital loss column.

Six Hours Later

Less than six hours later, they were on the brink of being completely out of the picture. The double loss left them with an 89-70 record and a maximum possibility of 92 victories if they sweep their three remaining games against Washington.

Minnesota has already won 91 and Boston 90. Those two teams play their last two games against each other. If they split, Chicago must sweep to tie Minnesota. A White Sox sweep would tie the Red Sox. If Minnesota wins both games, the White Sox are through, regardless of what they do.

It was a characteristic lack of hitting that led the Sox in. They managed just seven hits in the doubleheader and that, Virginia, is not the kind of attack that wins pennants.

Jim Gosger's three hits drove in three runs for the A's and Chuck Dobson handcuffed the Sox on two hits until the ninth inning of the opener. Then Chicago pushed across both its runs but Paul Lindblad pitched out of the jam and saved Dobson's 10th victory.

Hunter Wins 13th

Jim (Catfish) Hunter won his 13th in the nightcap, allowing just three hits and started Kansas City's winning four-run rally in the sixth inning with a single.

"Do I think we have a chance?" asked Stanky, the White Sox manager. "How do I answer that?"

"I've been in baseball 30 years. I've seen seven runs in the last of the ninth this year. I've seen a winning streak of 10. I've seen us first place. I've seen us in sixth place."

"We win three and I'm happy. I'm paid to manage the White Sox 162 games, or more, if necessary."

The Angels, who finish the season with four games against 56 Detroit, hopped on ex- teammate Dean Chance and stunned the 43 Twins. It gave California two 36 victories in the three game series with the league leaders.

San Diego Top Small Eleven

San Diego State overwhelmed Weber State 58-12 last week and easily retained its No. 1 ranking today in The Associated Press small college football poll.

San Diego received 12 first place votes from the AP panel of 18 sports writers and broadcasters for a commanding edge of 58 points over Tennessee State, which replaced North Dakota State in the runner-up spot.

San Diego polled 153 points overall on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis compared to 95 for Tennessee State, which beat North Carolina A&T 35-0 last week.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses and total points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis:

The 32-year-old veteran of 11 pro seasons picked off two passes against the Eagles to run his lifetime total to 35. However, he never has run one back for a touchdown and does not expect to.

"If I coach when I'm through playing," Shinnick told NFL publicist Don Weiss, "I'm going to tell my linebackers to fall down or run out of bounds after they get an interception."

"A linebacker isn't trained to run with the ball. He barely has time, if he's concentrating on his defense, to practice catching it. How many times have you seen a linebacker intercept a pass, run a few yards, get hit and fumble the ball back to the other team?"

Shinnick got the ball back twice for the Colts in the 36-6 victory over Philadelphia. He brought back the first interception three yards, giving Baltimore field position at the Eagles' 40. The second interception came in the third period with Baltimore leading 14-6 and the Eagles on the move toward a TD that might have put them back in the game.

Pat Fischer, the St. Louis Cardinals' little cornerback, was a big man in his club's upset of Pittsburgh. Fischer intercepted two passes and recovered a fumble, all in Pittsburgh territory, during the first 20 minutes of play. The interceptions led to the Cards' only touchdown and a field goal as they opened up a 16-0 lead.

Four County High School Football Games Set Saturday

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

During his 18-year tenure as head football coach at New Rochelle High School, Lou Amoson has had only one losing season. That occurred way back in 1952, when the Purple Wave finished with a 3-4-1 record.

Last week, the Westchester County gridders began Amoson's 19th season on a dismal note, losing 23-0 to Archbishop Stepinac. It marked the first time the team had lost an opener since 1958, when Mt. St. Michael of the Bronx scored a 20-6 victory.

NOT SINCE 1949 had New Rochelle suffered a shutout. The Purple Wave went through 106 games since being whitewashed by Stamford, Conn., 34-0.

Amoson's overall mark at New Rochelle is a glittering 103-29-5. The name of the game is winning, and that's Amoson's forte.

Another trick in scoring and the Purple Wave have scored 3,134 points in 137 games under Amoson, an average of 22.9. They have limited the opposition to 1,434 (10.5 average).

The shutout was only the fourth an Amoson coached team has suffered. To make the record even more impressive is the fact that New Rochelle always has trouble scheduling opponents. The school has had to travel far and wide because of its winning reputation.

WHEN THE PURPLE WAVE invades Dietz Stadium Saturday for a meeting with Bill Hurley's Kingston High gridders, the locals will be seeking their first victory over the Westchesterites since 1958, the last year of Hobi Armstrong's brilliant career.

For the first time since this series was resumed, the visitors will be opposing KHS without a win or a point to show for the season.

New Rochelle lost its opener in 1958, Kingston stopped the Purple Wave. Since that time, the locals have not turned the trick on the Westchester eleven. This marks the first season since '58 that New Rochelle did not open with a decision.

AL MILLER, who left his head soccer job at New Paltz to take the position as coach at Hartwick College, is faced with the most difficult schedule in the history of the Oneonta school.

The squad opens Saturday at Fairleigh Dickinson and in rapid succession, faces the likes of Colgate, Ithaca, Army, Clarkson, NYU and Howard University, among others.

Miller, who built a near dynasty at New Paltz, has as his athletic director Jim Konstanty, the one-time great relief pitcher with the Philadelphia Phillies.

It's quite a challenge to Miller but we know he'll meet it and come through with flying colors.

Hunting Areas

Open October 2

All cooperative hunting areas in Region 8 of the State Conservation Department will be open with the start of the small game season on Oct. 2, the regional office of the Division of Fish and Game at New Paltz has announced.

The area includes the Ellenville cooperative, an 8,000-acre site, which has had some pleasant hunting but is mainly in the big game range. This is a non-controlled area with a regular patrol operating it.

Cooperative areas presently in operation in Region 8 include the 13,000-acre Putnam Cooperative located 4 miles north of Brewster on Route 22. The outlook appears favorable for most small game species with the exception of ruffed grouse in this area.

A daily permit is required for those hunters who intend to utilize this area and it can be obtained from the check station located on old Route 22, 4 miles north of Brewster.

The Swan Lake area in Sullivan county is about 5,000 acres in size and is located about 10 miles southwest of Liberty. This too has some pleasant hunting but is mainly big game range and is regularly patrolled. Regional Supervisor Warren H. McKeon said.

Sonny Siebert, Bob Allen and Stan Williams shared the pitching with Allen striking out the only batter he faced and Williams the first two he pitched to, ending a bases-loaded none out threat in the Red Sox sixth.

Dick Williams, Boston's manager, said his team was "trying too hard," and that the pressing was hurting them.

"You couldn't blame them," said Williams. "They've been so close all year and it's so near the end."

As the final weekend of the season approaches, Minnesota, with two games to go against the Red Sox, leads both Boston and Detroit by one game. The Tigers have four to play, all with California. Two days ago, Detroit was all but counted out of the race and now they are tied with the Twins in the loss column and lead both Boston and Chicago there.

Football Crusaders at Plaza Friday Night

Meet Players Program Set

So you haven't yet seen the Hudson Valley Crusaders in action?

Well, you'll get two chances this weekend—one Friday night and, of course, the regular Sunday 6:30 p. m. appearance at Dietz Stadium.

Friday's appearance of the entire squad at Kingston Shopping Plaza is billed as a "Meet the Crusaders Night". The program starts at 7:30 p. m.

Coach Harvey Everhardt and his 42-player squad, including the latest addition—Bob Johnson of Kingston—will appear in uniform at the Plaza to greet the fans.

Sunday night, they take on the powerful Olympiads of Cohoes in their fifth game of the season.

Thayer is MC

Harry Thayer, general manager of Radio Station WGHQ and former GM of the Philadelphia Eagles in the NFL, will serve as master of ceremonies for the Friday show at the Plaza.

After the player introductions, the Crusaders will demonstrate several standard pro football formations, including such things as the blitz, red dogging, screen passes, reverses and pass patterns. Thayer will do the commentary.

Everhardt Pleased

Coach Harvey Everhardt expressed delight with the Friday night show. Ralph Shapiro's Indians will be present to furnish football music and Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan is expected to make an appearance.

After running the plays and patterns, the Crusaders will break up into small groups to greet the fans.

Everhardt, dismayed by the poor support his winning team has been receiving, hopes the Friday exhibition will spur local interest in the team and boost Sunday's attendance.

"We're trying to do some of the things we should have done before," said Everhardt. "But we hope it's not too late. We'd like to see a nice turnout Friday and a full house at Sunday's game."

Strong Addition

The Crusaders broke a long standing tradition when they signed Bob Johnson of Kingston as a defensive end.

"We desperately needed a defensive end and broke a club rule to sign Johnson," said Everhardt. "I've watched Bob work out and his size and speed are what we need. I'm very happy with his attitude. With some good workouts, I hope he can see some limited action against Cohoes Sunday night."

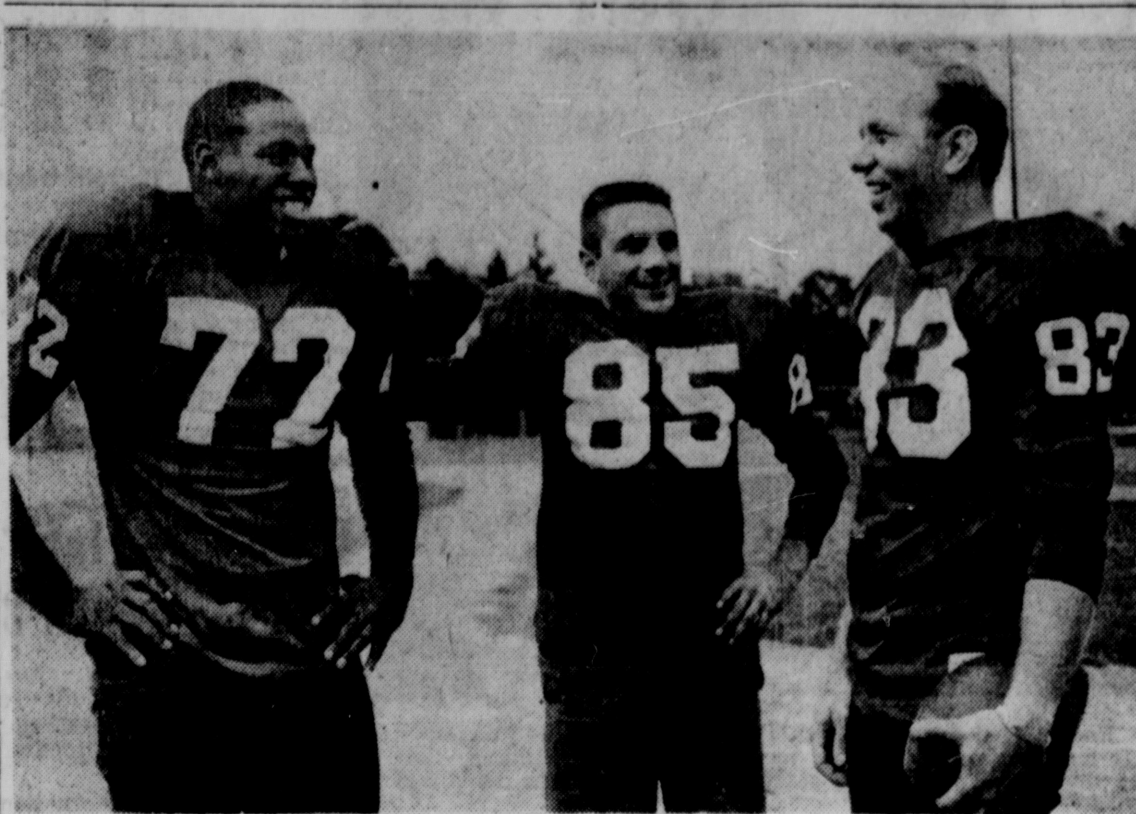

Johnson played high school football under Coach Bill Burke at Kingston High. The 6-4, 237-pound end also was a varsity griddier at The Citadel. He has had extensive semi-pro experience.

He is now a salesman for the New Paltz Tractor and Equipment Company.

Don Roman, one of the defensive linebackers of the Crusaders, is a former Woodstock resident, currently employed at DeLaval in Poughkeepsie.

Roman, Chuck Dentley of the Childrens Home and Johnson now give the Crusaders three Kingston area players.

"We hope the fans take note and support us," said Everhardt.

Army - Boston College Depend on Soph QBs

WEST POINT — Sophomores will more than likely fill the all-important quarterback posts Saturday when Army and Boston College collide in Boston.

At least, that was the word from the respective coaches following Monday's football writers luncheon in New York City.

Roger LeDoux, who made his varsity debut a dramatic one in guiding Army to a 26-7 victory over Virginia last week, will probably call the signals for the Cadets again this Saturday.

LeDoux, not yet 19 years of age, came from nowhere to inherit the Army quarterback berth when regulars Steve Lindell and Jim O'Toole were forced to the sidelines. Neither Lindell nor O'Toole is expected to make the trip to Boston.

The sophomore from Sulphur, La., gained confidence as the game progressed, and wound up as one of the leading offensive players of the afternoon. He ran for 52 yards, completed 10 of 23 passes for another 90 yards, and connected with Gary Steele on a two-point conversion near the close of the first half that won the game for the Cadets.

Coach Tom Cahill termed "the considering the loss of Lindell, key play of the game." Monday's Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) tabbed especially that of end Tom LeDoux as its Sophomore of the Week.

Boston College coach Jim Miller also announced that he butted 14 tackles, assisted on five more and threw a key block on the 41-yard punt return by speedster Van Evans. Wheelock, too, was chosen to the weekly ECAC all-East team.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The International Olympic Committee Wednesday decided that all female Olympic medal winners at Grenoble and Mexico City next year automatically will be given sex tests.

Reno Gamblers Pick Benvenuti

NEW YORK (AP) — After long, hard training sessions to reach peak condition, middle-weight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy and Emile Griffith of New York had to worry about the weather today for their 15-round return title fight at outdoor Shea Stadium tonight.

The forecast for the 10 p. m. EDT, bout was not optimistic. The weatherman's prediction was cloudy and windy with a chance of occasional rain in the evening.

In the event rain forces a postponement, the bout will be held Friday night.

For their first fight last April 27 when Benvenuti dethroned Griffith on a decisive, unanimous decision, the rangy Italian outweighed his foe, 159 to 153½. Benvenuti was a 13-5 underdog as a challenger. He may be the favorite at fight time. In Reno, Nev., the Italian was the 7-5 favorite but in New York it was rated even — 10-11 and pick 'em.

If the weather should turn favorable, Harry Markson, the Garden's director of boxing, predicted a crowd of 35,000 and a gross gate of $300,000.

Both fighters drove in from their training camps in the Catskill Mountains Wednesday and went into seclusion.

The 29-year-old Italian never has been stopped. His record is 72-1, including 30 knockouts. Griffith, also 29, has a 52-8 record, including 19 knockouts. He was stopped once, a one-round knockout by middle-weight Rubin Carter on Dec. 20, 1963.

Janet Fochi Sweeps Titles In Skeets at Mohonk Range

What did Annie Oakley have that Janet Fochi doesn't have now? On the record, nothing.

The West Hurley sharpshooter's latest accomplishment is a sweep of both 12-gauge and 20-gauge shotgun honors in the Mohonk Valley Gun Club's annual Autumn Leaves Open skeet shoot at New Paltz.

Miss Fochi winged 90x100 in the 12-gauge competition and an 87x100 at 20-gauge. She shared honors with Joe D'Ercole of New Jersey who won the two-day Overall men's title with 196x100. He broke 100 out of 100 in the 12-gauge division. Runnerup in Overall was Don Masselli of Pittsfield with 189x200.

Other winners: 20 Gauge champion — Joe D'Ercole, New Jersey, 96x100. (20-Gauge Division)

Class AA — Herb Treffeisen, Nyack, 96x100; A — Alois Smith, Ossining, 94x100; B — Joe Barnett, Cornwall, 92x100; C — Don Masselli, Pittsfield, 95x100; D — Herb Roig, Poughkeepsie, 95x100.

(12 Gauge) Class AA — George Keesler, Peekskill, 100x100; A — Stan

Joe Barnett, Cornwall, 97x100; C — Bentley LeBarron, Pittsfield, 96x100; D — Elmer Horne, Brooklyn, 98x100; Loni Ring, Paramus, 88x100.

A Question of Holes With Buffalo Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — The Buffalo Bills came out of their game against the Boston Patriots with no points and two holes — one in their offensive attack and another in a partition in one of their locker rooms.

The Patriots' defensive front four was responsible for the first hole, and one of the four, Larry Eisenhauer, takes credit for the second.

Actually the second hole came first, and it prepared Eisenhauer for a job that:

1. Helped make the other hole possible, and
2. Earned for him The Associated Press' selection as the American Football League's Defensive Player of the Week.

The honor just as easily could have gone to Boston's front four as a whole because Eisenhauer, Bob Dee, Jim Hunt and Houston Antwine comprised the focal point of a defense that accomplished a feat never attained before — it shut out the Bills 23-0 last Sunday.

Never Done Before

No team ever had been able to do that in 141 previous tries, and the Bills have that locker room hole to remind them of the first time it happened.

"I'm known for being a very emotional player," said Eisenhauer, a 6-foot-5, 250-pound end. "Before a game I slam lockers, run into walls, belt my teammates, which they're not too happy about — anything I can do to get myself emotionally high."

"When I run into walls I try to break them. The locker room at Buffalo is sort of small, and I can't do as much damage because there's not enough room to get up a lot of speed."

"But I still put a hole about the size of my helmet in a partition."

How does the hole happen to be the size of his helmet? "I hit the partition with my helmet," Eisenhauer admitted. "Once the seven-year veteran is finished with his pre-game exercises, he carries his football form of mayhem to the field. His playing philosophy is simple."

End Must Stop It

"A defensive end has to stop the run," he explained, "but his primary responsibility is to keep pressure on the passer. I work as hard as I can to get free, and when I get free I unload a shot, everything I have, at him."

"It's usually from the blind side so they don't see me coming."

Wiltwyck Women Defeat Woodstock Team, 19-13

Wiltwyck Country Club women evened matters with Woodstock Country Club, 19½-13½, in a return match at the Wiltwyck course.

Mrs. Kenneth Lowe led the Wiltwyck team with a 3-point win. Mrs. Gifford Morey and Mrs. Alex Sharpe, Jr. scored 3-pointers for Woodstock.

The summaries: Mrs. Joseph Fitzsimmons (W) and Mrs. Werner Kolln (W) halved, 1½-1½; Mrs. Gifford Morey (W) defeated Mrs. Werner Kolln (W), 3-0; Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy (W) over Mrs. Howard De Witt (W), 2-1.

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) de Lizio (W) and Mrs. Sidney Pauker (W) 1½-1½; Mrs. Robert O. Merritt (W) over Mrs. Sophie Bernard (W), 2½-½; Mrs. at the clubhouse.

Eddie Ray Does More Than Kick

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State University sophomore fullback Eddie Ray, who leads the nation's collegiate football players in punting, is respected by his Tiger teammates more for his blocking than for his kicking.

Ray averaged 49.3 yards with six punts in LSU's 20-14 comeback victory over Rice last Saturday night. The punting average surprised Coach Charles McClendon.

But McClendon was not at all surprised that Ray turned in an outstanding performance clearing the way for LSU ball carriers.

"He's a butter," said McClendon of his unheralded youngster from Vicksburg, Miss. "By that, I mean he really butts people."

Senior quarterback Nelson Stokley, who benefitted most Saturday night from Ray's crisp blocking, had nothing but praise for the sophomore, who won a starting job at fullback over several veterans.

"He was tremendous on the option," said Stokley, who gained 95 yards on the ground. "Eddie's real good and he's going to get better."

Viewing the game film, McClendon stopped the projector to show how Ray knocked a Rice defender flat on his back with a driving shoulder block, opening a big hole for Stokley to scamper through.

"That's just one example," the coach said. "He did that all night."

NFL — Los Angeles vs. Dallas

Meeting of the big four. Both teams noted for classy defensive lines. These are the best in football, though different in style. The Rams, huge and beefy, blow at the quarterback all the time. Cowboys, also huge but less beefy, play more controlled style, with lots of lateral movement. Good chance to compare all-pros Merlin Olsen of L. A., Bob Lilly of Dallas. If Don Meredith is on form, attacking edge has to be with Cowboys' multiple offense, featuring big bomb threat Bob Hayes.

AFL — Kansas City vs. Oakland

Crucial battle for Western Division supremacy. Both teams are unbeaten and well-stocked. Give the Chiefs an offensive margin with superior receivers and more stability at quarterback. Raiders rate slight advantage on defense because of superior secondary which is best in AFL. Daryle Lamonica has given Raiders strong effort at quarterback so far, but this is his big test. Week's bye is no help at this stage of season. With Lenny Dawson throwing, Otis Taylor catching and Mike Garrett running, Chiefs are further advanced.

Reno Gamblers Pick Benvenuti

NEW YORK (AP) — After long, hard training sessions to reach peak condition, middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy and Emile Griffith of New York had to worry about the weather today for their 15-round return title fight at out-door Shea Stadium tonight.

The forecast for the 10 p. m. EDT, bout was not optimistic. The weatherman's prediction was cloudy and windy with a chance of occasional rain in the evening.

In the event rain forces a postponement, the bout will be held Friday night.

A postponement also would require another weigh-in the day of the fight.

For their first fight last April 27 when Benvenuti dethroned Griffith on a decisive, unanimous decision, the rangy Italian outweighed his foe, 159 to 153½.

Benvenuti was a 13-5 underdog as a challenger. He may be the favorite at fight time. In Reno, Nev., the Italian was the 7-5 favorite but in New York it was rated even — 10-11 and pick 'em.

If the weather should turn favorable, Harry Markson, the Garden's director of boxing, predicted a crowd of 35,000 and a gross gate of $300,000.

Both fighters drove in from their training camps in the Catskill Mountains Wednesday and went into seclusion.

The 29-year-old Italian never has been stopped. His record is 72-1, including 30 knockouts. Griffith, also 29, has a 52-8 record, including 19 knockouts. He was stopped once, a one-round knockout by middleweight Rubin Carter on Dec. 20, 1963.

Janet Fochi Sweeps Titles In Skeets at Mohonk Range

What did Annie Oakley have that Janet Fochi doesn't have now? On the record, nothing.

The West Hurley sharpshooter's latest accomplishment is a sweep of both 12-gauge and 20-gauge shotgun honors in the Mohonk Valley Gun Club's annual Autumn Leaves Open skeet shoot at New Paltz.

Miss Fochi winged 90x100 in the 12-gauge competition and an 87/100 at 20-gauge. She shared honors with Joe D'Ercole of New Jersey who won the two-day Overall men's title with 196x100. He broke 100 out of 100 in the 12-gauge division. Runnerup in Overall was Don Masselli of Pittsfield with 189x 200.

Foliage in color now through Oct. 15th

The splendor of Fall takes on a special color when you visit Vermont. Side roads that provide an escape from today's problems are painted in hues that are unmatched.

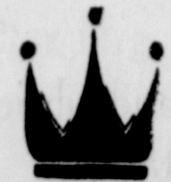

Leave Kingston and cross the Hudson River at Catskill. Go through Hudson, Ghent and at Chatham take Route 295 to Route 22.

Stay on Route 22 until you reach Route 7, take 7 into Bennington. Distance from Kingston to Bennington is 125 miles, driving time about 3 hours.

From Bennington it's up to you to choose your own route, but we prefer the ride north to Proctor. Any road in Vermont is a good choice though.

. . . and of course, we recommend a new 1968 Chrysler, Plymouth or Imperial to add comfort and driving ease for your week-end trip.

Middie Taylor Lineman of Week

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Rob Taylor, Associated Press College Football Lineman of the Week, isn't sure Saturday's contest with Penn State was his best game ever.

The tall red-haired Midshipman said he "was just lucky enough to get open once in a while" — like about 10 times for 140 yards and two last-quarter touchdowns which helped Navy to a 23-22 victory over Penn State.

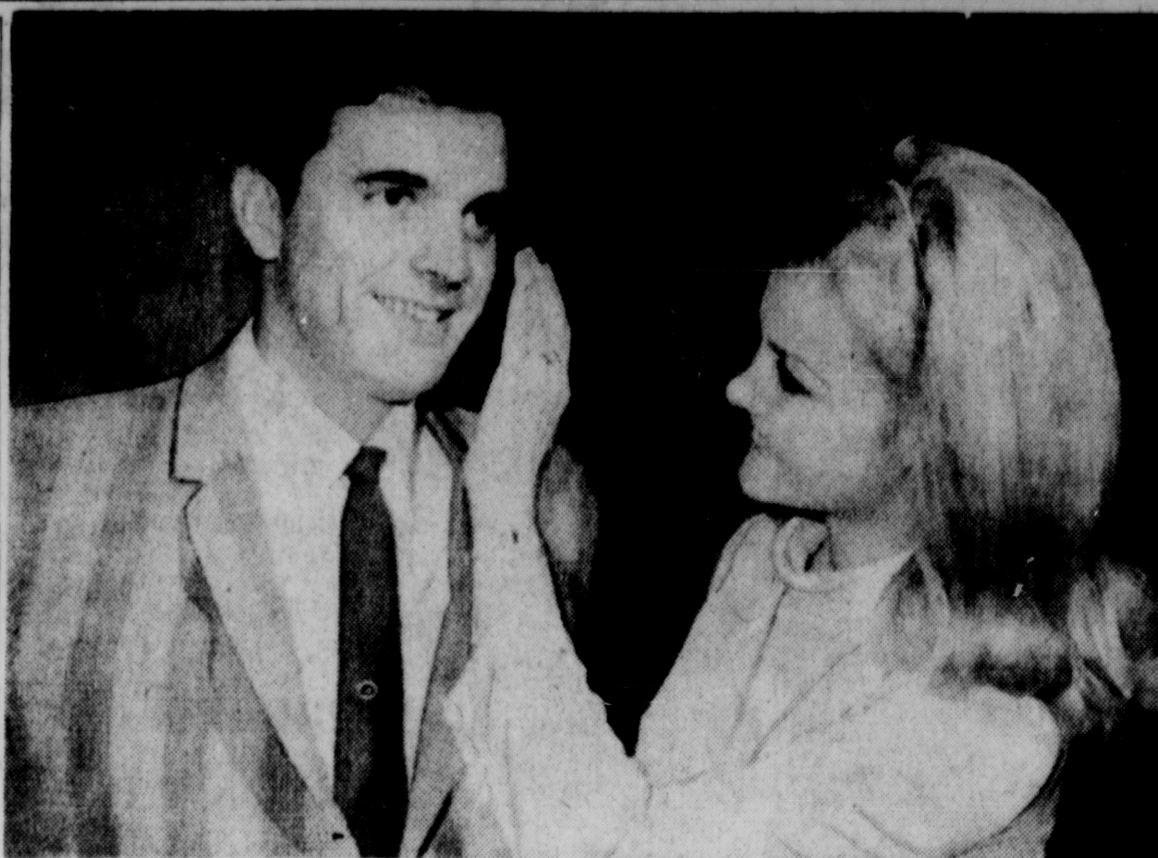

Both the catches and the yards gained set Naval Academy single game records, and it was the final, game-winning grab which pushed both marks into the record book.

Taylor, a 21-year-old senior, timed his leap perfectly, out-jumped the defender and came down with what his coach, Bill Elias, called a "really phenomenal" catch.

A few minutes earlier, Taylor had caught another Cartwright pass in the end zone to put Navy temporarily ahead.

"When I first saw that pass coming, I thought John had thrown it away," he said. "Then I put up my hands and there the ball was."

Four Top Contenders Making Series Plans

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Tigers have had thousands of badges made up which say, Tigers World Series. The Minnesota Twins are ready to hang out World Series bunting around Metropolitan Stadium.

At Boston, the Red Sox are building a special platform for a World Series Band.

The four clubs involved in the tight American League baseball race are taking no chances about being caught short-handed when, and if, one of them lands in the World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

None of them, however, is spending a great deal of money. There is a certain amount of caution on all four fronts.

Will Cost $50,000

"I guess our series preparations will cost about $50,000," said Rudie Schaffer, business manager of the White Sox.

"We are doing just little things. Parking facilities are no worry because we have space for 8,000 cars. We have put on extra help to take care of the volume of mail. There is patching and cleaning work being done around the park. We have a hard core of vendors that can be called on a moment's notice."

The Tigers say their outlay will not be exceptionally large because ushers, guards, vendors, etc., work at capacity level.

They've hired some 25 ticket handlers for the World Series, and rented a downtown office for working space. Scorebooks have been made up but not printed. Improvements have been made in the press box.

"We have had World Series badges made up but we don't list the year," a Detroit spokesman said. "If not this year, we can use them later, maybe."

Billy Robertson, vice president of the Twins, estimates it will cost the club $12,000 to $15,000 above the $10,000 allotted by the commissioner's office to clubs printing tickets.

Hang Out Bunting

"We are hanging the bunting," Robertson said. The Twins figure they've got enough hot dog salesmen.

Brundage Hale And Hearty at 80

CHICAGO (AP) — Avery Brundage celebrated his 80th birthday today, still bustling as the world's No. 1 champion of amateur athletics.

President of the International Olympic Committee since 1952, Brundage is still a strapping figure of a man who never let tremendous business success interfere with his rigid concept of amateurism.

"I can't believe I've reached 80, but the record book makes it official," Brundage told The Associated Press. "I'll probably have to behave like an 80-year-old, but I don't know how to do anything else except work."

Brundage, who strides like a soldier and has a handshake as crunching as a nutcracker, took time off from his around-the-clock office routine to attend a party in his honor by employees of the La Salle Hotel which he owns.

Friday night, the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry throws another birthday party for the first American ever elected president of the International Olympic Committee. A University of Illinois graduate as a civil engineer, Brundage prospered in construction and real estate.

But foremost on his facile mind is the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City where he conceivably may be re-elected for another four-year term as IOC president.

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., and J. Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., meet today in the feature of the second round of match play in the USA Seniors Amateur Golf Tournament.

Person beat Anthony Brown of Chester, Pa., 3 and 1, and Brown defeated Stan Matczak of Avon, Conn., 1 up, in Wednesday's first round that cut the field to 16.

Winning Helps Build Yancey

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Bert Yancey's success on the pro golf tour this year hasn't gone to the quiet ex-cadet's head—but it has put some bulges in his waistline.

"I've put on about 12 pounds since the Masters," Yancey said before starting his bid today in the first annual Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament.

"That's one of the reasons it takes so long to be a good golfer on the tour," added the 29-year-old winner of the Dallas Open this year who finished third in the Masters. "It takes about five years to learn how to control your temper, to think, to sleep—and to eat."

"I've got to quit eating potatoes and bread and sweets, that's all there is to it," said the one-time cadet at the U.S. Military Academy who has pocketed $59,004 this year in his pro season. "This weight is bad for me, but I can't seem to keep it off."

Two in Row

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Joey Mac made it two wins in a row Wednesday with a front running five length victory over Be Beyond in the $1,600 feature at Finger Lakes Race Track.

The running time for the mile and 1-16 was 1:49 3-5 with the winner paying $5.80, $3.40 and $2.80.

The crowd of 3,051 wagered $222,579.00

Sires Feature To Fine Shot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fine Shot, driven by Stanley Dancer, whipped Twig's Boy by two and a half lengths Wednesday night and captured the $10,150 New York Sire Stake trot at Vernon Downs.

The winner took the lead at the halfway point and was clocked in 2:07 4-5 over the mile. Dinero Chief was third. Fine Shot returned $2.40.

The event, for 2-year-old colts and geldings, highlighted the evening's harness racing across the state.

In races featured at other tracks: Roosevelt Raceway — Beau Meadow ($7.40) defeated Queens Mohican by a length and won the $4,000 pace in 2:04 4-5. Rapid was third.

Batavia Downs — New Kirk ($7), an 11-year-old bay gelding, edged Dainty Dean by a length in the $1,300 handicap pace. Zeno was third in the contest, which was clocked in 2:10 1-5.

Are copycats as good as Tiger Paws?

We made a terrible mistake in putting red circles on our Tiger Paws.™

It made Tiger Paws so easy to imitate. And it made it easy for some dealers who sell these copycats to palm them off as Tiger Paws.

Who do they think they're fooling?

You.

And they'll continue to fool you until you discover that your "Tiger Paws" aren't living up to their reputation.

How could they? Copycats only look like Tiger Paws.

Tiger Paws are made only by Uniroyal. And sold only by Uniroyal dealers.

And anybody who tells you different, isn't your friend.

Four Top Contenders Making Series Plans

The Detroit Tigers have had thousands of badges made up which say, Tigers World Series.

The Minnesota Twins are ready to hang out World Series bunting around Metropolitan Stadium.

At Boston, the Red Sox are building a special platform for a World Series Band.

The four clubs involved in the tight American League baseball race are taking no chances about being caught short-handed when, and if, one of them lands in the World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League.

They've hired some 30 additional workers in the office. They're making special arrangements for parking of the press and VIPs. They've converted the roof into a press box, giving season ticket holders reserved seats downstairs. They've put on 10 to 15 employees in the ticket department and added six telephone operators.

"We're also building a special platform for the Series band," a Boston spokesman said.

In one of the four AL parks, the band is going to play Take Me Out to the Ball Game, but which one?

Name Co-Captains

MIDDLETOWN — Sophomores John Zuclich of Otisville and Mike Dollard of Rock Hill have been named co-captains of the 1967 Orange County Community College soccer team.

Zuclich, a halfback and former soccer captain at Otisville High, and fullback Dollard, most valuable athlete at Monticello High two years ago, will lead the Orangemen into action against Dutchess Community College at 1 p. m. this Saturday (Sept. 30) at Poughkeepsie.

Newcomers will dominate Saturday's starting lineup for OCCC, coach Jim Migli said today. The Dutchess match leads off a ten-game schedule for the Colts and is their first in Mid-Hudson Conference competition.

ATLANTA (AP) — David Love of Atlanta and Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., shot three-under-par 69s Wednesday and tied for the low professional prize in the pro-amateur prelude to the Atlanta Golf Tournament.

Winning Helps Build Yancey

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Bert Yancey's success on the pro golf tour this year hasn't gone to the quiet ex-cadet's head—but it has put some bulges in his waistline.

"I've put on about 12 pounds since the Masters," Yancey said before starting his bid today in the first annual Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament.

"That's one of the reasons it takes so long to be a good golfer on the tour," added the 29-year-old winner of the Dallas Open this year who finished third in the Masters. "It takes about five years to learn how to control your temper, to think, to sleep—and to eat."

"I've got to quit eating potatoes and bread and sweets, that's all there is to it," said the one-time cadet at the U.S. Military Academy who has pocketed $59,004 this year in his pro season. "This weight is bad for me, but I can't seem to keep it off."

Two in Row

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — Joey Mac made it two wins in a row Wednesday with a front running five length victory over Be Beyond in the $1,600 feature at Finger Lakes Race Track.

The running time for the mile and 1-16 was 1:49 3-5 with the winner paying $5.80, $3.40 and $2.80.

The crowd of 3,051 wagered $222,579.00.

Friday night, the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry throws another birthday party for the first American ever elected president of the International Olympic Committee. A University of Illinois graduate as a civil engineer, Brundage prospered in construction and real estate.

But foremost on his facile mind is the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City where he conceivably may be re-elected for another four-year term as IOC president.

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., and J. Wolcott Brown of Sea Girt, N.J., meet today in the feature of the second round of match play in the USGA Seniors Amateur Golf Tournament.

Person beat Anthony Brown of Chester, Pa., 3 and 1, and Brown defeated Stan Matczak of Avon, Conn., 1 up, in Wednesday's first round that cut the field to 16.

Cummins is the only sophomore to break into the Cornell lineup.

Cornell Coach Jack Musick said Wednesday that Jim Heeps, a junior from Allentown, Pa., would start at offensive right halfback in place of Ed Zak of Clifton, N.J., who has not recovered from a knee injury.

ATLANTA (AP) — David Love of Atlanta and Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., shot three-under-par 69s Wednesday and tied for the low professional prize in the pro-amateur prelude to the Atlanta Golf Tournament.

Bobbie Gentry Survives Fame

BY BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The problem with a hit like "Ode to Billy Joe" is keeping one's identity—and sanity—and so far Bobbie Gentry appears to be retaining both.

It hasn't been easy. The show world can suddenly become big business, with all the attendant pressures. Within the brief span of two months, it has happened to Bobbie, the Mississippi lass whose sultry ballad of life in Chickasaw County has been the
No. 1 song in America for six weeks.

The single record of "Ode to Billy Joe" was released by Capitol on July 10. The sales to date have totaled 1.6 million. An album was put together with "Billy Joe" as the leading attraction; within three weeks it jumped to second rating on a music industry listing.

Television Dates
The outfall: Dates with the Smothers Brothers, Ed Sullivan, Bob Hope and Perry Como television shows; a week's stand with Roger Miller and the Young Americans at Los Angeles' Greek Theater; attention from the major news outlets and magazines.

Bobbie Gentry remains calm through it all. She is a long-legged beauty of 24 years with long black hair which may or may not be her own, and lengthy eyelashes which are obviously not. She is single—steady date: Jim Nabors, TV's Gomer Pyle—and level-headed.

"Everything has been happening fast," she admitted. "But so far I think I have maintained control. My only concern is that I might get too busy to have time to write. It would be a mistake to neglect the thing that got me where I am."

Writer First

Bobbie appears to place more faith in her uniqueness as a song writer than as a performer, and not without reason. Her singing style fits the material skillfully; she has a throaty, expressive voice that is especially rich in the lower registers and conveys a quiet sense of drama.

But even more remarkable is "Ode to Billy Joe" itself, an affecting tale that bespeaks as much drama in its four-minute span as does a short story by William Faulkner. The song tells of the suicide of one Billy Joe McAllister and the effect that the tragedy had upon a Mississippi girl and her family. The reaction of listeners has amazed Bobbie Gentry.

"People have tried to read all kinds of significance into the song," she remarked. "There has been all kinds of surmise about what was thrown off the Tallahatchie Bridge."

"People are trying to read social comment into the song, but none is intended. I wrote it as a comment on human nature, not on society. I don't know what was thrown off the Tallahatchie Bridge. The act itself was more symbolic than anything."

Bridge Is Real

The bridge itself actually exists, although the one she knew during her childhood in Greenwood, Miss., has since been modernized. The other place names in the song are real, but the events of Billy Joe's life and

RAMs Charged In Riot Planning

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Revolutionary Action Movement, a Negro extremist group, has been charged with planning to start a riot then poisoning thousands of policemen and top city officials.

Dist. Atty. Arlen Specter said warrants were issued for four members of the group which has been blamed in the past for planning to assassinate moderate Negro leaders and to blow up the Statue of Liberty and other national shrines.

One of the men being sought, Anthony B. Monteiro, 21, walked into a Chicago police station Wednesday night and surrendered. He was ordered held for extradition.

Specter said the warrants charged solicitation and conspiracy to commit murder, incite a riot and arson, attempted murder and other charges.

George Fencil, head of the police civil disobedience squad, said in a court affidavit that the plan was to incite a riot this past summer, then put cyanide in food distributed free to police on riot duty as well as in restaurants throughout the city where "policemen and citizens would be taking food and drink."

Specter said one informant also claimed the lives of James H. Tate, Police Commissioner, Frank L. Rizzo, and Specter "were to be taken."

Key to uncovering the plot was information offered by a man identified by Specter as Hilton Louis Jones, 22, who said he was a member of the plotting group.

Last week Jones went to the Philadelphia office of the FBI and turned over more than half a pound of potassium cyanide to the FBI.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Voters in 41 counties now coming under the statewide permanent personal registration are not registering at a rapid clip, Republican State Chairman Charles A. Schoenack said Tuesday.

The GOP leader said that a rough survey of half the 41 counties indicated that less than 50 per cent of the eligible voters had enrolled for this year's election.

If a prospective voter does not register, he will not be able to vote in the Nov. 7 election. Included on the ballot will be the proposed Constitution and the $2.5 billion transportation bond issue.

Schoenack said voters could register during the first two weeks in October.

The permanent personal registration system was approved by the Legislature in 1954 and now is required on a statewide basis.

To stay on the rolls, once permanently registered, a person must vote at least once every two years. Persons moving into a different election district must re-register.

Rabbit Replaced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Brownie, a wandering rabbit, won a ribbon at the Los Angeles county fair last year for the children of Breed Street school, who had found him.

Brownie died before this year's fair, now under way. Fair officials presented the children with a new rabbit.

special agent Edward Cole, Specter said.

The amount was "sufficient to kill at least 4,500 persons, according to experts," said Specter.

Specter said Jones gave him a 34-page sworn statement describing the group's activities since July 6, when Jones said they first met to map their program.

Also named in the warrants were William James Lyles, also known as Rashied, Reginald Grantham, also known as Yusuf, and a man known only by his Black Muslim name of Sakeeb, all of Philadelphia.

Lyles already is being held on other charges.

Monteiro, formerly of Philadelphia, registered this week as a graduate student of the University of Chicago. University spokesman said, however, he had failed to report for classes.

A hearing on his extradition was scheduled today.

Motorists May Plead Innocent In Mail Form

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Beginning Oct. 1, motorists charged with traffic infractions will be able to plead innocent by mail. He will have to appear in court later, however, when his case is scheduled for trial.

Previously, a motorist could only plead guilty if he chose to answer a summons by mail rather than appearing in person.

Under a revision of the State Vehicle and Traffic Law, a driver may fill out a form given him by a police officer and send it with his innocent plea by registered or certified mail to the court specified on the traffic ticket.

The new provision does not apply in misdemeanor motor vehicle violations such as driving an uninsured vehicle, inadequate brakes, unregistered motor vehicle, unlicensed operator, leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated or driving while his ability is impaired by the use of drugs.

Woman, 74, Killed

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 74-year-old woman, Mrs. Katharina Niedzielski, of Rochester, is dead from injuries suffered when struck by an automobile here Wednesday, police said.

She lived at 281 Wilkins St.

Dear Abby

Needs Legal Advice Fast

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: After 35 years of marriage, my husband has become involved with a divorcee, 22 years younger than himself. She has four children. Her youngest is the same age as one of our five grandchildren.
 My husband moved out of our home and into an apartment, where this tramp visits him regularly. He is spending our money on her, and this includes our life's savings, which I helped him accumulate through 38 years of teaching school (I am 59).

 My husband wants a quiet divorce. But I'm not to get any alimony or consolation money. I am going to end up either broke or crazy if he has his way.
 Shall I let him dump me for a younger woman, or should I fight it out in court?
 TRUE STORY
 DEAR TRUE: As I see it, you've already been "dumped." And unless you settle it out of court, your only alternative is to "fight it out" IN court. Don't wait until you end up in the poor house—or worse yet, the nut house. Get legal advice now!

 DEAR ABBY: A gentleman I know was asked to be my escort at a hotel wedding reception, which would have cost him nothing, but he refused. He merely said he didn't think he "belonged" there. Would you consider this a slap in the face to me? I have never been so humiliated in all my life.
 LET DOWN
 DEAR LET DOWN: Don't take it personally. Perhaps for reasons that didn't concern you, he was right in feeling that he didn't "belong" there.

Most of us work long hours, and then take to the highways long after everything closes up in order to be in the next town bright and early the next morning.
 The traveling salesman who is greeted warmly by his wife, and gets plenty of affection while he's home, is not likely to stray.
 I'll bet less than 5 per cent of us are guilty of what 95 per cent are accused of.
 TRAVELING MAN
 CONFIDENTIAL TO "AN ABBY FAN IN BUFFALO": All right, just for you, I shall repeat it: "CONFIDENTIAL TO THE OTHER WOMAN: ANY WOMAN WHO WILL ACCEPT ATTENTION FROM A MARRIED MAN—NO MATTER HOW LONELY, MISUNDERSTOOD, HEN-PECKED, MISTREATED, NEGLECTED OR UNHAPPY HE CLAIMS TO BE, IS STUPID, CRUEL, CHEAP, DISHONEST, AND SHORTSIGHTED."
 Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

On the land around the Bering Sea, says The World Almanac, rich stream and beach placers have been mined extensively for gold, tin and platinum since the gold rush days. For example, the raised beaches at Nome, Alaska, have produced more than $100 million worth of gold.

Variety Shows -- A Big Year

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This may be a rather poor year for comedies and westerns, but as the television season moves along there are indications it may be a vintage year for variety shows.

'Hall' Delightful
Dean Martin's show looks better than ever, Carol Burnett's new hour shows preliminary signs of being a success, the Smothers Brothers continue to amuse, and Wednesday night's "Music Hall" on NBC with Rock Hudson leading the way was a thoroughly delightful hour that gently kidded those 1930 Hollywood supermusicals—while replaying some of the great old tunes.

"Louise," danced with a whole chorus of little Shirley Temples to "The Good Ship Lollipop," joined in a medley of Oscar-winning songs with Connie Stevens. While his singing voice is hardly in the Mario Lanza class, his warmth and enthusiasm more than made up for that.

Bobby Van had some amusing imitations of the dancing of Fred Astaire and Ray Bolger. There was, of course, a simulation of one of those Busby Berkeley production numbers featuring a huge stage and a large, busy chorus which mimicked so many well-remembered depression-era film spectacles.

The top 10 programs in a national Nielsen report, covering the week starting Sept. 11 were either broadcasts of feature movies or established television series. Five new programs, however, did get into its top-20 list.

A psychiatrist was reassuring a patient with the fact that, while money is important, it is not the most important thing in life.

Dr. Blank—Actually, the most important thing in life is love. Mr. Jones—In that case, I'm lucky—because I love money!

While the diagnosis of the patient who had eaten rather generously was proceeding, the sick man said.
Mr. Jones—Doctor, do you think the trouble is in my appendix?

The doctor replied.
Dr. Blank—No, not at all. The trouble is with your table of contents.

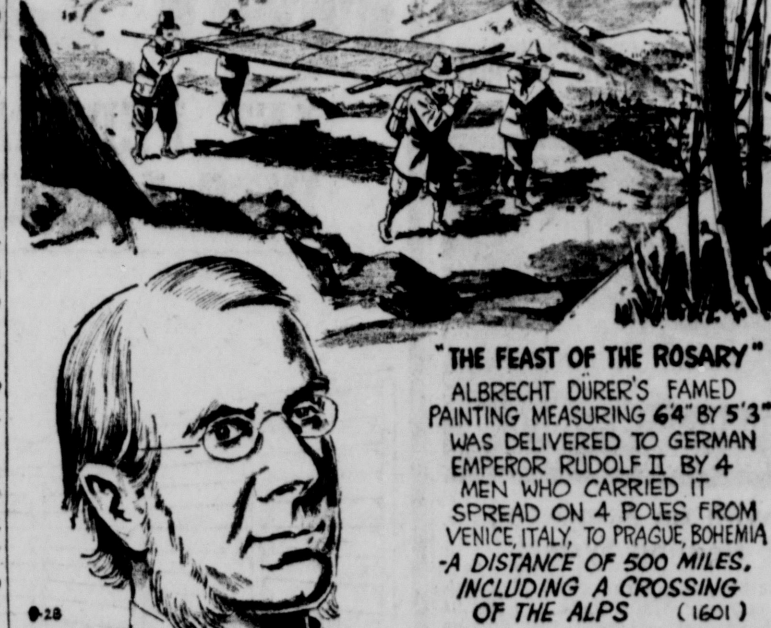

that week, according to the Nielsen projection of choices by 580 homes, were CBS's Friday and Thursday night movies, NBC's "Bonanza," and Saturday night movies, CBS's "Family Affair" and "Gomer Pyle," NBC's Tuesday night movies, CBS's "Andy Griffith Show" and "Lucy Show," and ABC's "Bewitched."

New programs in the top 20 were ABC's "The Flying Nun," NBC's "High Chaparral," and "The Jerry Lewis Show," CBS's "Carol Burnett Show" and "The Mothers-in-Law," and NBC's "The Dick Van Dyke Show." The survey, too early in the season to be conclusive, does suggest that some new shows are already in trouble. At the bottom of the list of more than 80 programs were ABC's "Good Company," "Legend of Custard," and "Off to See the Wizard," and NBC's "Accidental Family."

'Cat' on Tube

Variety Shows -- A Big Year

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This may be a rather poor year for comedies and westerns, but as the television season moves along there are indications it may be a vintage year for variety shows.

'Hall' Delightful
Dean Martin's show looks better than ever. Carol Burnett's new hour shows preliminary signs of being a success. The Smothers Brothers continue to amuse. And Wednesday night's "Music Hall" on NBC with Rock Hudson leading the way was a thoroughly delightful hour that gently kidded those 1930 Hollywood musicals—while re-playing some of the great old tunes.

Hudson, one of the Hollywood stars who made his name in comedies, showed great charm as he sang Maurice Chevalier's

"Louise," danced with a whole chorus of little Shirley Temples to "The Good Ship Lollipop," joined in a medley of Oscar-winning songs with Connie Stevens. While his singing voice is hardly in the Mario Lanza class, his warmth and enthusiasm more than made up for that.

Bobby Van had some amusing imitations of the dancing of Fred Astaire and Ray Bolger. There was, of course, a simulation of one of those Busby Berkeley production numbers featuring a huge stage and a large, busy chorus which climaxed so many well-remembered depression-era film spectacles.

The top 10 programs in a national Nielsen report covering the week starting Sept. 11 were either broadcasts of feature movies or established television series. Five new programs, however, did get into its top-20 list.

Teachers Approve Contract 2 to 1

NEW YORK (AP) — The delegate assembly of the striking New York teachers' union has approved the proposed school contract by a 2 to 1 margin despite opposition from two of the union's vice presidents.

The 1,303 to 621 vote Wednesday night set the stage for today's vote by the rank and file that could finally bring an end to the walkout that has crippled the 1.1-million-pupil public school system for 13 class days.

If the full membership of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers ratifies the $135 million package at their Madison Square Garden meeting the teachers could be back in the 900 schools as early as this afternoon.

Meanwhile, a special meeting of the Board of Education broke up in bedlam for 200 Negro militants shouted threats at a group of Brooklyn teachers and denounced the board.

Before police restored order a dozen teachers were bowled over in their chairs and several chairs were thrown, Isaiah Lewis, a leader of the Brooklyn chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, denounced teachers who stayed out during the strike.

"Better have somebody to guard those teachers in our neighborhood from now on," he said. Negro groups have been seeking a greater voice in the control of schools but teachers have opposed such decentralization.

The teachers walked out Sept. 11, the scheduled start of the fall term. An oral understanding to settle the strike was reached Sept. 20 but broke down in argument over reducing the terms of other benefits over 26 months to writing. A second settlement came Tuesday.

The agreement provides $135 million in salary increases and other benefits over 26 months. Wages would rise from the old scale of $5,400-$11,950 a year for teachers to $6,750-$13,750 a year.

Flood Waters Still Rising; LBJ Inspection Today

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Floodwaters continued to rise in this lower Rio Grande Valley city today as President Johnson prepared to fly to the hurricane and flood-devastated area for an inspection.

Put Up New Dikes

Families from 50 to 60 homes in less affluent neighborhoods were the latest to be driven out Wednesday night as the runaway Arroyo Colorado made end runs around hurriedly constructed dikes.

Bulldozer crews threw up new dikes to stem the flow shortly after midnight.

Flooding worsened as water shot in small geysers from overtaxed storm sewers. Engineers said the waters of the Arroyo, into which rainfall usually drains, were backing into the city because there was nowhere else to go.

The Air Force rushed a team of airlift experts, 22 officers and men, from Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, Tex. Tactical Air Command units at Langley Field, Va., and at Forbes, Lockbourne, Pope, Edwards and Dyess AFBs were ordered to stand by for airlift of refugees from the area.

CL30s at Forbes were ready to take off.

Gov. John B. Connally, who planned to meet President Johnson in Austin today with a formal request for federal aid, ordered 300 additional National Guardsmen to join 600 already on duty in the stricken areas.

Red Cross, Salvation Army, 4th Army and Texas Department of Public Safety disaster and relief crews, tired from days of turmoil unleashed by Hurricane Beulah and the subsequent floods, stayed on the job to care for refugees and direct evacuations.

As more water flowed in late Wednesday night, Mayor George Young told Harlingen residents via radio and television, "We'll be in jeopardy for another three days. With a little bad luck, we could be in another nasty mess."

"One of the things that could happen," Young said, was for rain to fall upstream. As he spoke, light showers peppered Laredo, 180 miles up the Rio Grande. There also was fresh rainfall on the stream's watershed in Mexico.

Refugee shelters housed 30,000 persons cared for by the Red Cross, 1,500 by the Salvation Army and hundreds of others in Reynosa and Matamoros, Mexican cities just across the Rio Grande.

Johnson's projected inspection flight today had political overtones for two of his companions — Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., who was accompanying him from Washington, and Connally, also a Democrat. They took verbal potshots at each other Wednesday.

Yarborough Critical

"To me," Yarborough said in a Senate speech, "the governor's delay in requesting the President for a declaration of disaster has been inexcusable. I know of no modern instance where the governor of an American state in the face of a natural disaster so overwhelming, has failed so long to ask for a declaration of a disaster area."

Connally called the senator's remarks "the lowest form of demagoguery I have ever heard uttered by a public official."

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Floodwaters continued to rise in this lower Rio Grande Valley city today as President Johnson prepared to fly to the hurricane and flood-devastated area for an inspection.

The Arroyo Colorado, massive diversionary channel of the Rio Grande, dropped slowly while the river edged higher.

Put Up New Dikes

Families from 50 to 60 homes in less affluent neighborhoods were the latest to be driven out Wednesday night as the runaway Arroyo Colorado made end runs around hurriedly constructed dikes.

Bulldozer crews threw up new dikes to stem the flow shortly after midnight.

Flooding worsened as water shot in small geyzers from overtaxed storm sewers. Engineers said the waters of the Arroyo, into which rainfall usually drains, were backing into the city because there was nowhere else to go.

More businesses suffered and more streets were awash.

The Air Force rushed a team of airlift experts, 22 officers and men, from Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, Tex. Tactical Air Command units at Langley Field, Va., and at Forbes, Lockbourne, Pope, Edwards and Dyess AFBS were ordered to stand by for airlift of refugees from the area.

C130s at Forbes were ready to take off.

Gov. John B. Connally, who planned to meet President Johnson in Austin today with a formal request for federal aid, ordered 300 additional National Guardsmen to join 600 already on duty in the stricken areas.

Red Cross, Salvation Army, 4th Army and Texas Department of Public Safety disaster and relief crews, tired from days of turmoil unleashed by Hurricane Beulah and the subsequent floods, stayed on the job to care for refugees and direct evacuations.

As more water flowed in late Wednesday night, Mayor George Young told Harlingen residents via radio and television, "We'll be in jeopardy for another three days . . . With a little bad luck, we could be in another nasty mess."

"One of the things that could happen," Young said, was for rain to fall upstream. As he spoke, light showers peppered Laredo, 180 miles up the Rio Grande. There also was fresh rainfall on the stream's watershed in Mexico.

Refugee shelters housed 30,000 persons cared for by the Red Cross, 1,500 by the Salvation Army and hundreds of others in Reynosa and Matamoros, Mexican cities just across the Rio Grande.

Johnson's projected inspection flight today had political overtones for two of his companions—Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., who was accompanying him from Washington, and Connally, also a Democrat. They took verbal potshots at each other Wednesday.

Yarborough Critical
"To me," Yarborough said in a Senate speech, "the governor's delay in requesting the President for a declaration of disaster has been inexcusable. I know of no modern instance where the governor of an American state in the face of a natural disaster so overwhelming, has failed so long to ask for a declaration of a disaster area."

Connally called the senator's remarks "the lowest form of demagoguery I have ever heard uttered by a public official."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., accepted the President's invitation to make the trip to Texas, immediately. Yarborough, who returned to Washington Tuesday night from the stricken area, delayed a few hours then decided he would do likewise.

The city of Mercedes, 13 miles upstream, attempted by court action to prevent repair of a levee break at Harlingen. Mercedes spokesmen contended such repair would force more water
